Three Die in Race Rioting

S. Carolina Emergency Declared

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (AP) — Gov. Robert McNair declared a state of emergency in Orangeburg Friday where three Negro students were killed in a brief exchange of gunfire with police Thursday night.

Thirty-seven persons were injured in the outburst during the fourth night of violence on two adjoining college campuses. The shooting started when state troopers and National Guardsmen attempted to push the students back onto a campus to douse fires they had started.

McNair also ordered a curfew over the entire city beginning at 5 p.m.

The crack of gunfire or fireworks could be heard throughout the night from the grounds of South Carolina State College and Clafflin College, both predominantly Negro institutions, but this morning all was quiet.

The outbursts began Monday night with a rock-throwing demonstration against the All-Star Bowling Lanes, a privately owned alley operated by Harry K. Floyd on a segregated basis. Students from the two colleges have been trying for months to integrate the facility.

Thirteen persons were injured in flare-ups earlier this week.

Chief J. P. Strom of the State Law Enforcement Division said Cleveland Sellers, 25, South Carolina coordinator of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), was arrested after the incident Thursday night on charges of inciting to riot. He was taken to the South Carolina Penitentiary at Columbia and held under $50,000 bond.

Associated Press photographer Dozier Mobley, who was on the scene of the shootings, said the incident lasted only three or four minutes.

He said the students had set a bonfire near the entrance to South Carolina State College, another near a warehouse across a street, and another by throwing gasoline bomb against a nearby home of an elderly white woman, Mrs. Mamie Brunson.

About 50 policemen moved in from an intersection 1½ blocks away where the college area had been sealed off. They wer followed by about 50 National Guardsmen.

Rocks, Bottles

Mobley said the police ordered the Negroes back onto the campus so firemen could enter the area. The police then moved in and the Negroes began throwing rocks and bottles, Mobley said. One patrolman, D. J. Shealy, was struck with a club.

Police took Shealy to a cruiser, which left for a hospital. Then the police started back up a slope toward the group of about 75 Negroes and a shot rang out.

"Get down," the lead policeman yelled. "They're shooting at us!"

"Then the shooting started," Mobley said. "In a few minutes it was quiet and the police moved up the slope and started carrying down the dead and injured." Several ambulances carried them to Orangeburg Regional Hospital.

The dead included Sam Hammon, 18, and Delano Middleton, 17, a high school pupil. Henry Smith, 18, died several hours later. Hammon and Smith were students at South Carolina State.

Authorities at the hospital said this morning all 37 injured, including Shealy, were released after emergency room treatment.

Seal Off Campuses

The National Guard sealed off the campuses after the shootings. Guardsmen also cordoned off a five-block downtown area and the shopping center where the bowling alley is situated to guard against looting. Shortly after dawn, all pickets were withdrawn. No looting was reported.

Col. Robert McCrady, commanding the Guardsmen, said at a news conference his men carried loaded rifles, but "not one Guardsman fired one round of ammunition."

He said state troopers fired "only after being fired at first by hostile students."

Floyd closed the bowling alley Wednesday afternoon, but reopened it Thursday night.

The alley is one of the few public facilities in Orangeburg which is not integrated. Most restaurants and Orangeburg's four theaters are patronized by Negroes.

Orangeburg last had racial trouble in 1960 when a group of Negroes were hosed down by firemen while demonstrating in protest of segregated lunch counters at a variety store.

Dr. Barnard Says Blaiberg Survived Rejection of Heart

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Prof. Christiaan N. Barnard said today heart transplant patient Philip Bliberg went through a "period of rejection" but added this is now completely under control.

Barnard termed Blaiberg's condition good and said he was satisfied with the progress of the world's only surviving human heart recipient.

Asked at a news conference about reports that fluid gathering around Blaiberg's new heart has had to be tapped several times, Barnard said this was not a serious problem and occurred frequently in patients after heart surgery.

Barnard declined to indicate when Blaiberg might leave the hospital. He received his new heart in an operation Jan. 2.

U.S. Troops Fight Viet Cong

War Action Turns Back to Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Helicopters landed U.S. troops on Saigon's racetrack today to help rout out diehard Viet Cong forces as the North Vietnamese increased pressure against Da Nang and more Communist tanks were reported sighted near Khe Sanh.

Heavy fighting was reported across South Vietnam's northern sector, with 321 Communists and 67 U.S. troops killed Thursday, most of them in battles around Khe Sanh and Da Nang and in Hue. Another 170 Americans were wounded.

Bolster Forces

Troops from the U.S. 199th Light Infantry Brigade were landed in the center of the Saigon racetrack and quickly took up positions to bolster South Vietnamese forces having slow going blasting the Reds out of Cholon, the Chinese quarter, and adjoining areas on the southwest side of Saigon.

Thursday night the Viet Cong burned down a block of homes just south of the track. The region had been declared pacified two days ago, but the Viet Cong either surfaced from hiding or slipped back into the city. A Viet Cong battalion is reported to control 20 blocks east and south of the race course.

It was the third time American troops have been used in the battle of Saigon that began last Wednesday. Paratroops of the 101st Airborne Division were helicoptered onto the roof of the U.S. Embassy when Red commandos invaded the embassy grounds Jan. 31. Two days later an armored column of the 25th Infantry Division helped clear out Viet Cong forces from the racetrack area.

Elsewhere below the northern provinces, the big Communist offensive against the cities launched 10 days ago appeared tapering off. But the U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese forces were still battling doggedly in Hue, the old imperial capital in the north, and fighting drew closer to Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city and the nerve center for Allied operations in the northern provinces.

An indication of the gravity with which the U.S. Command viewed the situation in the north was a decision to send Gen. Creighton D. Abrams, deputy U.S. commander in Vietnam, to take personal charge. Informed military sources said Abrams would set up his headquarters in Phu Bai, north of Da Nang.

More Tanks Seen

No major enemy activity was reported today in the Khe Sanh area, where U.S. commanders expect the biggest North Vietnamese push of the war in an attempt to seize South Vietnam's two northernmost provinces. But the U.S. Command in a delayed report told of the sighting Thursday of more North Vietnamese tanks, which made their first appearance in the war in the capture of the Lang Vei Special Forces camp west of Khe Sanh Wednesday.

The command said an air observer sighted four enemy tanks six miles southwest of the Khe Sanh base. Air strikes were directed against them, and the observer reported two of the tanks "appeared to be disabled."

The American command also announced that the North Vietnamese assault early Thursday on a hilltop outpost near Khe Sanh, which the Communists partially occupied and then lost, cost the enemy 124 dead, while 21 Marines were killed and 27 were wounded.

Fresh signs that the 2nd North Vietnamese Division might be moving to attack Da Nang came Thursday when they swarmed over a platoon of U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese guarding a village four miles south of the city.

The attack touched off a six-hour battle into which hundreds of Marine and Army reinforcements were thrown. The fighting broke off at nightfall with 152 North Vietnamese and 15 Americans killed, 63 Americans wounded and one U.S. helicopter shot down, the U.S. Command said.

The Marines freed seven American civilians in Hue who had been in a Communist-controlled area since the city was invaded Jan. 31. The civilians, including two women, were teachers at a vocational school run by a nondenominational religious organization, the World Relief Commission.

Trinh Again Says Peace Is Possible

But Top General In Hanoi Says War Will End in Victory

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam offered the United States the sword and the olive branch Thursday on the 11th day of the biggest Communist offensive of the Vietnam war.

The peace bid was made by

Trinh

Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh, who said Hanoi would go to the peace table "as soon as the United States has proved that it has really stopped unconditionally the bombings and all other acts of war" against North Vietnam.

The promise of more fighting was held out by Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, North Vietnam's defense minister and the victor of the 1954 battle against the French at Dien Bien Phu.

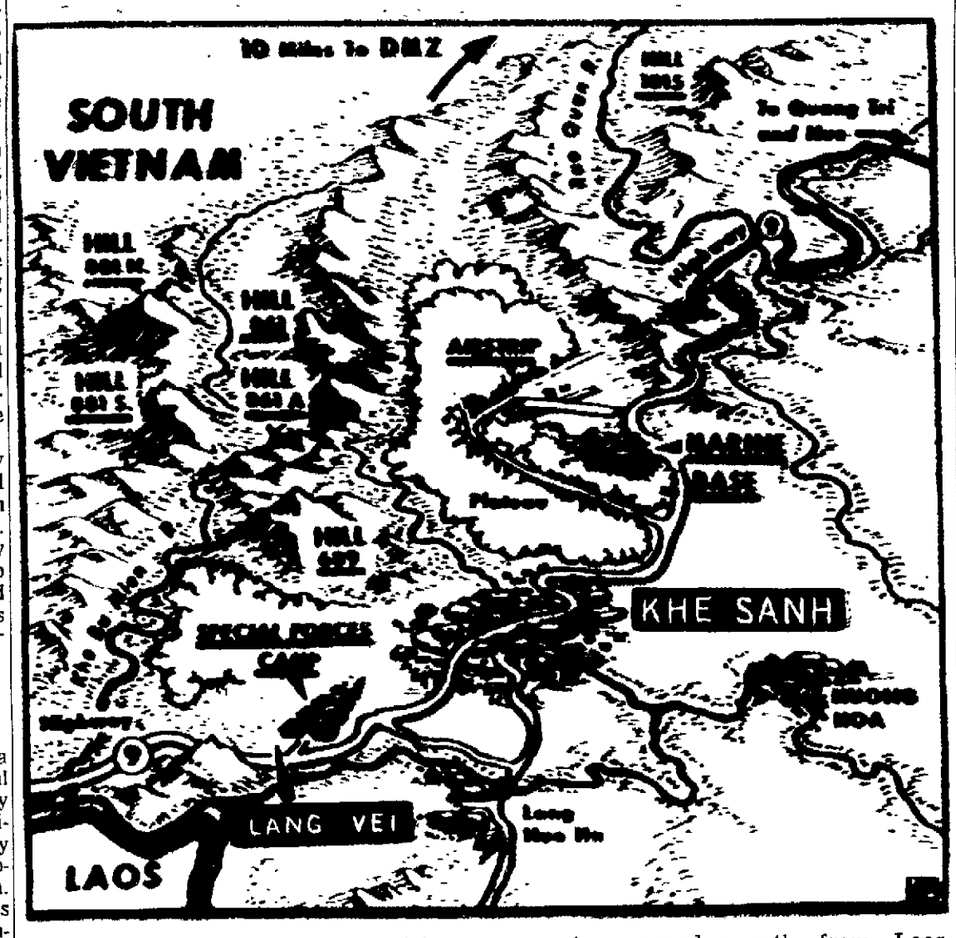
Speaking at a reception marking the 20th anniversary of the North Korean army, Giap vowed to "fight on until we have was final victory."

Trinh's peace proposal—which said the 1954 Geneva armistice agreements could be the subject of the talks—was made in an interview with a French news agency correspondent in Hanoi.

State Department officials in Washington immediately began studying Trinh's statement. The initial reaction was that there was no fundamental shift in position.

Shots Fired at U. S. Embassy in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Attackers fired several shots from a speeding car early today at the U.S. Embassy residence here. No one was hit by the shots, fired from an automatic weapon at about 2 a.m. Police added that only servants were in the building in the fashionable Palermo district at the time. Ambassador Edwin M. Martin resigned recently and has not been replaced.



The U.S. Special Forces camp at Lang Vei, which fell to the North Vietnamese Thursday, is located on the map, three miles west of Khe Sanh. Capture of the camp has opened a path from Laos through which N. Vietnamese could push in men and supplies to bolster Red divisions at Khe Sanh.

No Bilateral Negotiations

South Korea, U.S. Settle Differences

SEOUL (AP) — Informed sources said today the South Korean government has agreed to stop complaining about the private U.S.-North Korean talks at Panmunjom to obtain release of the crew of the USS Pueblo.

The informants said the United States agreed in turn to regard the talks as part of the functions of the Korean Military Armistice Commission and not bilateral negotiations with the Communists.

The sources said South Korean Premier Chung Il-kwo and U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter also agreed to continue handling the Pueblo case in private talks but to discuss the Communist attempt to assassinate President Chung Hee Park on Jan. 21 in open session of the armistice group. South Korea presumably wants to keep the spotlight of publicity on the Communist threat from the North.

Opposed Talks

The South Koreans had strongly opposed the private talks, contending that the United States was paying too much attention to the Pueblo affair and not enough to the threats to them.

North Korean Premier Kim Il-sung meanwhile ordered his army and nation to get into combat readiness because war might erupt "at any moment." Kim accused the United States of "scheming to ignite a new war in Korea."

The United States and South Korea, Kim added at an Army anniversary dinner, "are taking a war posture and openly declared that they would invade the northern half of the republic."

'Never Afraid'

"We do not want war, but are never afraid of it," he continued. "Our people and people's army will return retaliation for the retaliation of the U.S. imperialists, all-out war for all-out war."

Meanwhile, a South Korean spokesman said President Johnson has sent a personal letter to President Chung Hee Park. Informed sources said the letter outlined U.S. policy for the security of all of the Far East, including Korea, and assured South Korea of U.S. aid against the threat of a Communist attack.

Johnson also informed Park that he had asked Congress for an additional $100 million for military aid to Korea, the sources said.

South Korean lawyers and judges held a rally today to urge Johnson to take a firmer stand toward the Communist threat. The 300 legal men denounced the North Korean seizure of the Pueblo and the commando raid on Seoul aimed at assassinating Park.

Modern Arms

They also asked Johnson to give South Korean forces modern arms and equipment to make up for the defense gap caused by South Korea's sending 48,000 troops to South Vietnam.

Prolonged search operations failed to turn up any trace of a U.S. Air Force reconnaissance plane and two crewmen missing over South Korean mountains. The plane disappeared on a routine training flight Thursday, and U.S. spokesman said there was no possibility it had strayed over North Korea.

Westmoreland Intervenes

Hijacker Never Gets Off Ground

DA NANG (AP) — A U.S. Marine private in a black leather jacket with a cocked, 45-caliber pistol tried today to hijack a Pan American Airlines DC6 loaded with war-weary U.S. servicemen waiting to fly to Hong Kong, U.S. Air Force police said.

After 2 hours and 45 minutes, a message from a four-star general and tear gas, the copilot thwarted the effort with a bold move.

The man arrested by Air Force police was identified as Marine Pfc. William Lee Clark of the 1st Division's 1st Field Artillery Group. No charges have been filed and authorities withheld comment pending a full investigation.

The incident started at 1:30 p.m. after 83 servicemen were aboard the plane for their rest and recuperation flight to Hong Kong.

Cocks Pistol

While the engines were warming up, the trespasser in the leather jacket, blue jeans and boots shouted up to Archer from the runway. He asked where the plane was going, Archer said, and added he worked for a U.S. airline in Vietnam.

The next thing the crew knew, Archer said, the man was up front in the cockpit. He shut and bolted the door, cocked his pistol and kept it pointed at the flight engineer's head most of the time, Jones said. Archer quoted the man as saying, "I want to go to Hong Kong."

The passengers, many of them front-line combat troops, were ordered off the plane and the engines were turned off.

For nearly two hours the crew tried to talk the trespasser into leaving. Military police with automatic rifles gathered around the aircraft.

Talking by radio, a chaplain, a doctor and Col. Paul Watson of Washington, D.C., commander of the 366th tactical fighter wing, also tried to dissuade the trespasser.

In an aside, Watson said, "It's silly to let this man take off. He could do anything, like order the plane to Hanoi."

According to Archer, the gunman finally said, "start the engines or I'll shoot." The engines were started again.

The crew had permission to taxi the aircraft but at 3:45 p.m., the message from Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, arrived. It said:

"Don't let the plane leave. Use tear gas."

Tear gas was tossed into the vacated passenger compartment and the doors were sealed. The passenger loading steps were wheeled to the cockpit windows with armed air policemen on top of the steps.

The flight engineer said, "I knew then we had forced his hand. He had to shoot us or let us go."

'You've Got Me'

Archer said, "I got up and said I had to stretch. He (Clark) tried to look by me out the window. I grabbed his hand, pushed it against the wall, and the pistol fell."

Archer quoted Clark as saying, "Okay, okay, you've got me."

Bidder Wins, Loses

'Girls for Sale'

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — Tasos Konnaris, a 22-year-old Greek gambling croupier with little command of English, came across a slave market in this south coast city Thursday.

Nine pretty young things were parading on a platform before an eager bunch of bidders in a shipping center.

Konnaris asked haltingly what was going on, and a man told him:

"These girls are for sale. You can buy one."

The Greek whipped out a five-pound ($12) note, thrust it at auctioneer Stuart Penry, and said: "This one for me, please."

This one was Julia Van Dyke, a 16 year-old brunette in a mini-skirt and boots.

The auctioneer collected the money and Konnaris prepared to collect Julia. Then he learned that the slave market was a stunt organized by students of Plymouth College of Technology to raise money for charity.

Bids were being accepted as expressions of approval for the charms of the girls, and that's where it ended.

"I thought I could at least take her out," Konnaris told a reporter. "What a pity, she's very pretty. I suppose it is my fault, because I didn't understand the rules."

Julia was sorry, too, in a way.

"He was so polite and pleasant," she said, "and so good looking, but I already had a date.

Beauty Salon Days Officially Declared

Mayor George Buckley has officially proclaimed Feb. 11-17 as National Beauty Salon Week in Appleton. Over 70,000 members of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association will observe the week, which was founded 18 years ago in recognition of the cosmetologist's civic contributions.

This year's theme, "Get A Lift This Spring With A New Hair Style," will be illustrated by the "Ruffled Curl Look," the latest trend in hairstyles released by the Official Hair Fashion Committee at its semi-annual meeting in Wichita, Kan., last month.

Featuring a combination of soft ruffles and curls, the new look promises to lend the most boyish of women's fashions a feminine, romantic touch, according to the committee. Also previewed were the "ice cream tones," spring hair colors in delicate blonde shades calculated to recall the Thirties.

Public Service Program

In addition to the debut of spring hair styles, the week will be marked by local institutional welfare work. Under the direction of Lawrence H. Grunert, Appleton chairman of NBSA, beauty salons will give complementary hair shapings, shampoos and sets to women referred by the Appleton Welfare Department and the Apostolate.

Double End Play Wins Game

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The right to lead is usually an advantage, but it can be made a burden if an opponent forces you to win a trick when any return costs a trick. In today's hand, played in the recent national tournament in New Orleans, declarer gave each opponent his turn to be embarrassed in this way.

South won the first trick with the ace of hearts and hopefully led out the ace and king of trumps. When the trumps broke badly (as might be expected),

South seemed doomed to lose one trick in each suit. The only hope was to make the opponents lead diamonds or give up some other trick.

South's first step was to give up the losing heart. West had to win with the jack of hearts and then had the problem of getting out safely.

If West returned a heart, South would ruff in his own hand and discard a diamond from dummy. He would then lead a trump to put East into the lead.

If West returned a diamond, South would play for the honors to be divided, thus avoiding the loss of a diamond trick.

Least of Evils

West attacked clubs, the least of the evils, by leading the ace and then a low club. This gave South an extra club trick. He won with the queen, got to dummy with the king of diamonds to discard a diamond on the king of clubs, cashed the ace of diamonds and then put East in with a trump to the queen.

It was East's turn to squirm. Since he had only one heart and two clubs left, it didn't matter what East returned: South could ruff in dummy and discard the last diamond from his hand.

Answer: Double. Your side probably holds more spades and surely holds more points than the opponents. You should be able to take six or more tricks.

Give Wife Morning Kiss; Prevent Mishaps at Work

LONDON (AP) — Kiss your wife in the morning if you don't want an accident at work.

This was the advice British Parliamentarian Sir Edward Brown gave to a safety conference in London.

Brown claimed that a man who fought with his wife was more likely to be involved in a mishap, because of his frame of mind.

Brown, Conservative Party M.P. for Bath, told the conference that factories should display posters of a man kissing his wife before leaving for work.

The posters would remind workers of the possible consequences of a breakfast-time row, he explained.

"A quarrel can prey on a man's mind. There comes a moment when his concentration goes, and the result could be a limb trapped in a machine," he said.

Sai Brown's wife Rosa: "We have been married for 28 years, and Ted has always made a special point of kissing me before he leaves home. We have never argued during breakfast.

"It stands to reason that if you have a row, you will get a bit irritable and it could stop your concentrating on safety."

Cover for Counters

An easy and inexpensive way to replace worn kitchen counters is to cover them with vinyl plastic yardage. These new surfaces — which need no waxing and won't pit, peel, or stain from common household acids—can be kept sanitary by light washing with soap or detergent suds.

Clean Face

Just getting your face clean these days is something of a challenge. Consider how the fallout from air pollution rains down on your skin. And what about those heavy layers of make-up?

What goes on must come off. Keep clensing is basic to lovely skin. Although it is agreed that soap and water is a thoroughly effective cleanser, many lovelies are bothered by the dry aftermath of sudsing. On the other hand they object to the tacky feeling associated with many cleasing creams. Is that your dilemma?. Well, that's where a new kind of facial washing cream comes to the rescue. Applications clean like soap and soften like cream. what's more the process is quick and uncomplicated:

Your first dip your finger tips into the cream and apply it to your face. Then add a little warm water and massage to work up a creamy foam. Lastly rinse thoroughly with clear water and pat dry with a towel.

This cream-and-water way of washing makes for a happy skin, a happy face. For ideal results the process should be repeated night and morning and, when possible, upon changing make-up at any hour. Use should never become an occasional supplementary beauty treatment. It's an every day ritual.

Charity Circle Jazz Party To Spotlight 'Twenties'

The "good old days" may not have been so good in reality as they seem in retrospect but there was some magic to life in the Roaring Twenties. Those were the days when a party was really a party.

France Taking Part in NATO Radar Project

Need for Defense Against Soviets Outweighs Hostility

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Although President Charles de Gaulle has cut many French ties to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, France is quietly taking a major role in NATO's biggest current project

It is a $308-million modernization of Europe's radar defenses against air attack from the Soviet Union

Maj Gen Jean W Accart, a decorated French pilot of World War II, is in charge of making the early warning system faster and better His office has been moved from Paris to Brussels in the general withdrawal of French forces from NATO and the removal of NATO headquarters from French soil

'France still belongs to the alliance," one French official pointed out "In case of attack, French troops could be put under a unified NATO command in a few minutes

Need Organization

"But you can't improvise a radar net It has to be organized in advance "

Fourteen members of the alliance are paying for the project —all except Iceland which has no armed forces It is officially called NADGE, short for NATO Air Defense Ground Environment

In place of soldiers who now plot the position of hostile aircraft on maps, and transmit information about them by telephone, NADGE is installing computers to handle the necessary calculations and messages in fractions of a second When complete—the target date is Dec 28, 1970—it will save 10 to 15 minutes in reaction time

That is the time it takes from the moment a radar operator spots the first unidentified blip on his screen, to the moment when fighter planes start to scramble or a missile is launched to intercept it

Human Element

Though the system is designed to eliminate human error and delay, the judgment of experts will still be needed to determine if a given blip is really an enemy plane or a friendly one wandering from its flight plan As part of the project, 6,000 to 8,000 experts are being trained to maintain the improved system

The radar net will spread out to the east of nine countries in a continuous north-south sweep: Norway Denmark, West Germany, Holland, Belgium, France, Italy, Greece and Turkey Britain, which has already improved its radar defense, will be locked into the system

De Gaulle's partial withdrawal from NATO means that while France continues to take its full share in the work of watching for hostile planes, it is strictly on its own in taking measures against anything detected.

French Role

The other 14 NATO members work together on the countermeasures French planes and missiles may work with them, or they may not That will be up to De Gaulle

NADGE is being financed under a system that may prove a model for allied cooperation if NATO ever moves toward setting up a kind of common market for arms production Costs are shared in proportions previously worked out for building roads, pipelines and other "infrastructure "

France, when it participates in a project, pays 12 per cent The United States pays 30 85 per cent, as the richest country in the alliance

Returns System

Each country gets contracts in the same proportion as its contribution The system of "fair returns" is not ideal Often it means spending more than necessary just because a fixed sum has to be laid out in a given country, when better prices and terms could be had elsewhere

But the system seems to be necessary to get broad cooperation Some countries will not contribute to a project if it means that their contribution may be spent abroad

An advantage of the NADGE project is that it has put all the technical work in the hands of a single international consortium, led in this case by an American company, Hughes Aircraft The consortium had set up its own headquarters at Feltham, near London

Early Retirement for Police, Firemen

About 180 Appleton firemen and policemen and Outagamie County lawmen will benefit from a new Wisconsin retirement law passed late last month.

Under the new plan, public employes in protective occupations can retire at age 55, after 25 years of service. Previously, the retirement age was 60, with 30 years of service.

Some Appleton policemen and firemen will remain under the pre-1948 pension-retirement plan, completely separate from the state plan, which allows retirement at age 52 with 22 years of service.

Fire Chief Roland Kuehnl said that 93 of the 104 firemen would benefit from the latest law change. Kuehnl is among the 11 firemen who started work before Jan. 1, 1948, and remains unaffected by the new law. Although there are several firemen close to or over the optional retirement age of 55, they are all working under the pre-1948 plan.

No Immediate Retirements

Inspector John V. Gosch of the Appleton Police Department said that 64 of the 72 policemen, including Chief Earl O Wolff, would be included under the new retirement law.

None of the policemen falling under provisions of the new plan are eligible for retirement, Gosch explained.

Outagamie County Sheriff Norbert J Marx said that 22 of the 36 sheriff department employes would be included under the new plan. Not included are the non-enforcement personnel such as jailers, clerks, stenographers and matrons. Marx is retired from the Appleton Police Department under the old city-operated plan.

About 5,500 municipal police and fire service employes in the state, not including Milwaukee which has an independent retirement system, will be able to retire at age 55 with 25 years

Airline Doubles Service in Year

Passenger Miles For January, 1967, Total 620,773

Air Wisconsin's passenger mile total flown during January nearly doubled its effort the same month in 1967, officials of the Outagamie County Airport-based firm reported.

They indicated 620,773 passenger miles during January compared with 332,320 a year ago.

Other statistics also showed other significant increases, including route miles flown, which jumped from 45,120 miles in January, 1967, to 106,577 last year. This came as a result of broadened destination scheduling.

Air Wisconsin's growth was revealed in other totals. Available seat miles increased from 549,120 in January, 1967, to 1,384,092 in January, 1968; total passengers carried, 2,077 to 4,033; flights completed, 282 to 511, and freight pounds, 3,751 to 21,508.

Third Stage Plants?

New Standards Seen For Sewage Treatment

Communities in the Fox Valley — all cities, villages and towns — may face the prospect of shelling out additional millions of dollars for third-stage sewage treatment facilities.

The hint came out of Madison today from a spokesman for the Division of Resource Development.

Freeman Holmer, division administrator, advised his board this morning that Wisconsin communities in the Lake Michigan basin face the prospect of adding third stage (tertiary) equipment to their treatment plants.

He made the observation in reporting on the six-day Lake Michigan Enforcement Conference which was held in Chicago.

Should third-stage treatment become a part of state or federal requirements, its impact will be harder on some Fox Valley communities than others.

Pressure On Cities

In the Fox Cities region it would put the pressure on some cities and towns that are just getting secondary treatment facilities installed or in operation after having only primary facilities for years.

"What Mr. Holmer is saying is that second stage treatment is not adequate, and additional equipment may have to be installed," was the reaction of Frank Keuler, Appleton public works director.

He pointed out that Appleton has both primary and secondary facilities, the latter representing a $1.5 million addition to the treatment plant in 1963 which is enabling the city to break down wastes at better than 90 per cent.

Adds to Plant

Neenah-Menasha also has a primary and secondary setup, but has been experiencing trouble for well over a year in getting the new secondary plant operating satisfactorily.

Kaukauna has only a primary treatment facility, but recently obtained a federal grant which will aid it in constructing a secondary facility.

Some surrounding towns have sanitary districts and treatment plants, which, they claim, give secondary treatment to waste in most cases. Some smaller communities have only primary treatment equipment but have been told by the state to put in secondary.

Holmer said the most significant development at the conference was the finding, generally concurred in by the conferees, that Lake Michigan is entering the first stages of eutrophication (oxygen deficiency).

Federal officials blame an increase in nutrients for this developing condition, which is typified by a marked increase in the growth of algae and other aquatic nuisances. Their recommendation is that sewage treatment plants be modified to remove more than 80 per cent of phosphates in the effluent.

One Requirement

"Although we have questioned whether the proposed processes for phosphate removal are as effective or as economical as the conference was told they were," Holmer told the state board "installation of such tertiary treatment systems should be one of the requirements in the final conference report."

The FWPCA report recommends use of a variety of chemicals (iron salts, alum, lime and polymers are among those being tested) in the treatment process to enhance the settling of solids. Phosphates tend to adhere to ths flocs, settling into the sludge rather than being carried away in the effluent.

"If phosphate removal is required," Holmer advised the board, "Wisconsin communities affected by the conference report must be prepared to underwrite the costs of additional facilities plus a marked increase in operating costs."

Federal officials estimate the cost of phosphate removal at approximately 5 cents for each 1,000 gallons of waste waters treated. Holmer characterized this as an "optimistic" figure which had been challenged by the state conferees.

Although the FWPCA report urged tertiary treatment in all Lake Michigan basin communities by 1972, state conferees have suggested a later deadline.

Milwaukee Firm Eyes Appleton Site

Learned of City's Program Through Newspaper Story

A Milwaukee-based business has indicated interest in building a district facility in Appleton's new industrial park after reading an Associated Press story about this city earlier in the week.

The article was one of a series published statewide which told what Wisconsin's central cities are doing to improve their tax base.

A representative of the Milwaukee company contacted City Planner Walter Rasmussen to obtain details concerning the industrial park area on the city's northeast side.

"It would appear the firm is interested and we will do everything possible to help," Rasmussen said.

Fulltime Office

In a related development, the city council this week authorized its commerce-industrial development committee to conduct a study on the feasibility of established a full-time industrial recruitment office.

The committee asked for the study, taking the position the city should do more to encourage business and industrial development but may need a full-time professional to do so.

Committee and other city officials are disturbed that some local groups are working on area — rather than Appleton — tax base development.

Planners Ask Second Grant For Water Monitoring Work

Application for the second federal hydrological grant, expected to be $30,000-$35,000, for the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission's water quality monitoring program was supported by the nine-county representatives Thursday.

This was among several resolutions adopted during the regional planning commission's quarterly meeting in Appleton.

The monitoring program, started last December by chief hydrologist, Gerald Paul, involves 18 to 24 months of weekly sampling and testing of 107 water monitoring stations in the nine-county region.

Paul reported the project is about 8.35 per cent complete.

Request Supported

The commission representatives also supported the planners' request to back legislation to reduce the time needed to make zoning changes. County officials in the region had asked the regional planning commission's help in securing the necessary legislation.

Another motion adopted called for 400 zoning administration manuals to be printed at commission cost to distribute to member counties for guidance in land-use programs.

Basic Purpose

William Morris, executive director, said the basic purpose of the manual is to assist the member counties in administering their respective zoning ordinances.

Morris said the natural resources section, under direction of Boyd Kinzley, will review the prime natural resource areas in the nine counties with the forest advisory committee. This will be instituted after the floodplain zoning program, and will help assure proper management provisions in natural resource ordinances.

This will involve review of county zoning ordinances, including shoreland, and zoning maps, Morris explained.

$82 Stolen in Bar Break-in at Kimberly

KIMBERLY — A break-in and theft of $82 from the Avenue Bar, Kimberly Avenue and Main Avenue, was reported Thursday morning by Mrs. Harriett Menting, an employe She discovered the entry when she opened the bar about 10 a m.

Police said the thief gained entry by climbing to the top of a shed at the rear of the building and breaking a window in a washroom. The money, all bills, was taken from a money tray. No change was taken. The theft took place sometime after closing at 1 a.m Thursday.

Boys Discover Part of School Burglary Loot

Four boys playing near N. Superior Street and W. Wisconsin Avenue Thursday afternoon discovered some of the loot taken in a burglary Monday night or early Tuesday at Morgan School.

Detectives said the boys found a metal cash box and a cigar box containing $8,913 in non-negotiable checks. The box contained a flashlight, five boxes of .22 caliber blank cartridges, keys to Morgan School, two padlocks, a metal measuring tape, and about $2 in stamps.

Police said the box was being examined for fingerprints. More than $705 in cash and $203 in bus tokens also were taken in the burglary.

Appleton Driver Alters Plea; Is Fined $100

Mike Nichols, 18, 343 E. Greenfield St., was fined $100 Thursday after he changed his plea to guilty on a reckless driving charge.

Trial was to have been Thursday before Outagamie County Judge Gustave J Keller, but neither Nichols nor his counsel appeared. Appleton police arrested the youth about 4:50 a m. Sept. 13 on N. Rankin Street.

Family Fight Costs Couple $85 in Fines

A family fight that turned into a scuffle with police netted an Appleton man and his wife fines totaling $85, plus costs, this morning

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller fined Donald Kappell, 26, 1409 N. Bennett St., $50 and costs and fined his wife, Katherine, 25, $35 and costs, after they pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct.

The court was told that police were summoned to the corner of Meade and Brewster streets about 1:25 a.m. today when the Kappells reportedly were in their car, with the lights out, "fighting over the car keys."

A struggle ensued when Kappell refused to get out of the car on orders from police. Mrs. Kappell got into the melee while police were trying to subdue her husband.

Appleton Man Treated After Slashing Wrist

A 33-year-old Appleton man was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by ambulance about 3:15 a.m. today after he reportedly slashed his left wrist with a broken beer bottle.

Police, who were summoned at 5:45 a.m , said the man also had a puncture wound on his left hand. Authorities were called to the home of his estranged wife earlier in the morning when he made an unauthorized visit.

Strict Election Law Compliance Required

State Statutes Require Organizations Backing Candidates to File Statements

City Clerk Elden Broehm announced Monday afternoon he will insist on strict compliance with Wisconsin's election laws as Appleton's March 5 primary draws closer.

He made the statement as pre-election campaigning started to pick up, especially in the four-way mayoral race.

And in a related matter, three of the four candidates running for mayor indicated they would not file a complaint because a group backing one of the office seekers failed to file a statement of organization.

A Citizens for Pointer Committee was formed recently and public announcement made to that effect Wednesday. However, as of mid-morning today, the clerk's office had not received a statement from the group as required by the statutes.

Refer Complaints

Broehm reminded it was mandatory for any corporation, association, organization, committee, club or any group backing, endorsing, opposing or working for or against any candidate to fill out a form and file it with his office.

However, Broehm said there was nothing in the law which gave him authority to act if this was not complied with. But he pointed out that any complaints made to his office would be referred to the district attorney's office, who is empowered under the statute to investigate and take appropriate action.

The clerk went on to explain, however, that his office must act in other cases in which the election laws are not being followed.

For example, any candidate or group backing a candidate not filing pre-election campaign expenses takes the risk of having the candidate's name removed from the ballot.

Penalty Prescribed

It is the penalty prescribed by the statutes, Broehm noted.

His office has been keeping close tab on election regulation compliance. Several candidates' nomination papers were turned back because they were not filled out correctly.

After corrections were made, the clerk's office accepted them for filing.

In another election development, the city council this week amended the city zoning ordinance to permit political signs advertising in residential areas of the city.

The council held a public hearing on the zone change Wednesday night but no one appeared for or against.

Under the revised law, election signs can be put up in any area of the city, including neighborhood lawns with the owner's consent, no earlier than 30 days before an election and must be removed three days after the election.

Trading Stamp Gifts Aid Project Concern

Containers for every kind of trading stamps available in the Fox Valley area, which may help buy medical help for Vietnamese and the refugees in Hong Kong, will be placed in nine Appleton places of business this weekend by the Appleton Jaycees and Jaycettes.

The nine outlets which will have the containers are Doering's and Rougeau's Super-Valu stores; the two Piggly Wiggly stores; Red Owl; Clark stations on Richmond and Wisconsin; Nelson's and Jim's Avenue Standard and McCann's Texaco service stations.

Project Concern is a non-profit organization extending medical and moral aid to the Montagnards of South Vietnam, the refugees in Hong Kong and the poor living in the canyon area of Tijuana, Mexico.

It is headed by Dr. James Turpin, who founded the project in 1961 in the belief that the needs of the people in the underdeveloped countries of the world, can best be met by private civilians working at the village level without specific reference to religion, politics or military.

Half-Million Visits

In the six years of existence, it has registered more than a half-million patient visits in Hong Kong, South Vietnam and Mexico, has established four out-patient medical clinics and has a feeding program for more than 1,000 children and a school program for more than 400; provides hospital services and a mobile clinic unit paying visits to more than 24 villages, and has an international staff of more than 137 doctors, nurses and other medical specialists.

The savings stamps project in Appleton will continue until May, according to Mrs. Gerald Schoepke, a member of the Jaycettes in charge of the stamp program.

According to statistics, a $2 stamp book will provide medical treatment for a TB patient for one week, internal parasite treatment for two children for a week and operate the medical clinic in a village for 36 hours, or provide a Vietnamese family of six with vitamins for one month.

Appleton Girl Injures Back

Constance Hersant, 17, 1426 N. Oneida St., suffered minor back injuries in a two-car accident Wednesday, according to a late report filed with Appleton police.

Miss Hersant was in a car driven by Shirley A. Stroebel, 17, 2605 Bellaire Drive, which was westbound on Packard Street, near Richmond Street, when it slowed down and was struck from behind by a car driven by Kathleen A. Flanagan, 17, 1203 N. Oneida St.

Boys Involved in 5 Offenses Placed Under Supervision

Two Appleton teen-agers who were involved in five offenses within the past year, including the theft of several hundred dollars in sound equipment from Appleton High School-West, were found delinquent in Outagamie County Juvenile Court Thursday afternoon.

Judge Raymond P. Dohr placed the boys, ages 15 and 17, on supervision to the Outagamie County Department of Health and Social Services for one year, and warned them that another court appearance during supervision period would mean a trip to the boys' school at Wales.

It was the first court appearance for the younger boy, but the older one had appeared previously before Judge Dohr

Det George W Weaver of the Appleton Police Department testified that the boys were involved in the theft of a tape recorder, amplifier, and four microphones April 30 from Appleton High School-West. Most of that equipment has been recovered, Weaver said.

The boys, plus another youth who appeared earlier in Juvenile Court, also were involved in the Aug. 28 burglary of The Holiday House, 116 N. Locust St Weaver said that a large quantity of cigarettes and liquor were taken. Twenty-three quarts of brandy and 14 cartons of cigarettes were recovered.

Pollution Officials On Steiger Panel

NEENAH - MENASHA — A five-man panel, including pollution control experts from Washington and Madison and headed by Congressman William Steiger, will discuss pollution on inland lakes in the Sixth District Saturday afternoon.

The three-hour session, which will begin at 2 p.m., will be held in the Neenah-Menasha YWCA.

Some 25 persons, representing agriculture, conservation and industry, already have registered to testify at the informal public hearing.

Edward J. Martin, chief of the federal pollution control branch of the office of Resource and Development, will be the principal figure on the panel

Other panel members include Grover Cook, of the Chicago regional office of the federal water pollution control administration: Thomas Frangos, of the state department of resource and development, and William Thrienen, of the state department of conservation.

Saturday's hearing was called by Steiger to gather information "from an area directly involved with lake pollution" to present to members of Congress.

Steiger has sponsored a bill to provide for pilot projects to get at the cases and cures of inland lake pollution.

The Republican congressman from Oshkosh said the bill has already passed the Senate and has been endorsed by the Department of Interior. Information from the public hearing will be presented to the House Committee on Public Works.

Address Gone, But Bank Gets $44,000 in Mails

NEW YORK (AP) — A bank has laid claim to the $44,000 found in a package with an obliterated address label in the debris of a fire-ravaged post office

The Post Office Department has recognized the claim as valid, it said Wednesday, and turned over the cash to the unnamed New York bank. Several individuals had been rebuffed in trying to claim it in the wake of the Dec 15 fire at the Morgan Post Office annex in mid-Manhattan.

Postal authorities said the money was in transit from a Swiss bank to the bank here, and that the Swiss bank, after querying about the parcel, was able to describe the wrappings, labeling and contents. Part of the label remained to use in claim verification, but the addressee's name was burned off.

Phone Drive For Nixon Gets Started

NEENAH-MENASHA — A six-week Twin City telephone campaign to stimulate local votes for former Vice President Richard M. Nixon in the April 2 primary is slated to begin next week with opening of headquarters in Neenah.

Nixon volunteers announced today they plan to open Twin City campaign headquarters at 7 p.m. Monday in second-floor offices at 201 E. Wisconsin Ave. The headquarters will house telephone campaign workers who, while working on behalf of Nixon in the primary, will also assemble precinct information for the Republican Party in next November's Presidential election.

Nine Boys Picked Up For Thefts

MENASHA — Nine teen-aged boys have been referred to Winnebago County Juvenile Court and others may join them, police said today, as a result of arrests clearing up several recent cases of burglaries, attempted burglaries and auto thefts.

Menasha police said they made the first arrests that broke a chain of offenses overlapping into Winnebago County and Neenah police jurisdictions.

A group of four youths, including a fifteen-year-old and three sixteen-year-olds, were implicated in most of the cases, all of which were reported in the past few weeks.

Another group of five teen-age boys have been connected with thefts from parked vehicles, including cases reported taking place in the Twin City Bowl parking lot on Old Plank Road, Menasha, police announced

In the cases of auto pilfering, officers said investigation continues with the possibility of more juveniles being referred to juvenile court authorities.

The other cases involving the foursome were cleared up with the apprehension of one of the youths walking in the vicinity of a car that had been reported taken from the Shopko shopping center on State 47 and which police found in the parking lot of the Village Inn Pizza Parlor, 1100 Appleton Road.

Police handed the matter to the sheriff's department since it took place outside the city limits.

Other cases officers said were cleared with the apprehension were:

—Jan. 21, attempted break-in, Hank's Bar, 600 Broad Street.

—Jan. 23, burglary, Brin Bowl, 9 Main St.; cash, radio and cigarette lighter stolen.

—Jan. 29, burglary, V.F.W. Bar, 6 Tayco St., liquor, beer, other items taken.

—Jan. 30, car taken from Theda Clark Memorial Hospital parking lot and recovered behind a tavern at 546 Broad St., referred to Neenah police.

Teachers' desks in several rooms were ransacked, according to authorities. No money was taken.

Neenah Power Station Planned

NEENAH — A 34,500-volt switching station, which could later become a substation to meet the power needs of the growing southside, will be constructed at Bell and Aylward streets later this year.

The facility, to be operated by Wisconsin - Michigan Power Co., will allow the switch of energy from one line to another for WMPCO said Thursday the switching station would be built this year and plans for a substation would be prepared in the future.

The council cleared the way for the power facility Wednesday by okaying the sale of about 2.5 acres of land at Bell and Aylward for $4,000 per acre. The property was part of the package purchased by the city in the Southview Plat last year

Biafrans Meet 2 Papal Envoys

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Radio Biafra reported today that the head of the breakway Biafran government has met with two peace envoys from Pope Paul VI. Meanwhile, the federal government claimed its troops were pushing deeper into Biafra.

The broadcast said Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu told Msgr. George Rochcau and Msgr. Dominic Conway Thursday that "honorable negotiation" was the only path to a solution of the seven-month-old civil war that began after he led Eastern Nigeria out of the federation.

Federal troops, moving from the north after crossing the Niger River a month ago, were reported within artillery range of Awka, a major highway town 25 miles east of Onitsha. Onitsha, Biafra's second largest city, has resisted capture since mid-October.

State police arrested Barbeau the night of July 25 on U.S. 41, in the Town of Grand Chute. He pleaded innocent Aug. 15. The jury, impaneled before Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller, deliberated the case less than a half hour Thursday.

Menasha Park Grant Okayed

Approval of $9,000 For Land Purchase Comes as Surprise

MENASHA — A federal grant of $9,000 to help buy land to expand Shepard Park came as a surprise to the city today, amid uncertainty how plans for an apartment development on part of the land would affect the grant.

Early last year, the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) prepared an application for the grant, under the federal "Open Space" program. It was intended then for the city to match the grant with an equal amount and buy 2½ acres of land adjoining the Shepard Park.

At the time, the city had options on the land.

Since then, the options have lapsed with the entry of private developers into the area, announcing plans to build luxury apartments in the area.

City officials said this morning the $9,000 that the city was to spend as its half of the land purchase price was not included in the present city budget last year.

Park Plans Aside

Mayor Kenneth Holmes indicated that at the time the budget was prepared at the end of the year, the developers had already announced their plans, and the park plans were at least tentatively set aside.

U.S. Sen. Gaylord Nelson announced the grant this morning in a telegram news release. Holmes said he was unaware of the grant, and an official in the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) regional office in Chicago was equally unable to shed light on the matter when reached by telephone.

Apartments

The developers, working through the Sommer Agency, Neenah, had originally proposed developing the entire lake shore area from the Neenah-Menasha Sewage Treatment Plant property north to the Fox River's mouth near James Island.

More recently, however, the development has been cut back in scope and some of the land would be unused, at least in the beginning.

Purse Containing $160 Stolen at Greenville

Mrs. Herbert Worm, an operator of the Silver Dome Ballroom at Greenville, reported to the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department that her purse, containing about $160 plus important papers and credit cards, was stolen from a kitchen drawer at the business place.

She said the theft occurred about midnight on Feb. 4 or Feb. 5.

Water Law Chief Selected For Outagamie

County Surveyor Frank Charlesworth Picked by Panel

Frank Charlesworth, Outagamie County surveyor, has been recommended by the Outagamie County Board Executive Committee for the newly-created coordinator of social services post.

Charlesworth, who will assume his new duties March 1, will be charged principally with enforcement of the new state water law.

This law required counties to adopt new shoreland zoning ordinances, sanitary codes and subdivision regulations. The Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission is coordinating Outagamie's compliance with the law.

The recommendation is expected to come before the county board next week.

The committee made no definite plans for replacement of the surveyor position that would be vacated but Alvin Woehler, executive secretary, indicated the office in the courthouse and the assistants would be available to clear up work.

Several Candidates

Specific duties of the new coordinator will be drawn up by the executive committee at a later date, Woehler said.

Charlesworth, longtime surveyor with an engineering background, was among several candidates for the post. He was slected on the basis of his knowledge of the county and technical background.

The board created the position last fall when the need arose for a full-time person to handle the duties under the new state law. They also took into consideration the county's League of Women Voters study indicating need for such a post.

The zoning committee is working with the regional planning commission for adoption of ordinances to comply with the state requirement by April 1.

Preliminary Planning is under way for the Wisconsin State convention of the National Association of Power Engineers, which will be held in Appleton May 2-4 at the Conway Motor Hotel. Approximately 300 are expected to attend. Working on plans are, from left Charles Dvorachek, co-chairman; James Merrill, Kaukauna, president of the local chapter; Nick Mastricola, Oshkosh, program chairman; Richard A. Kreager, Oshkosh, general chairman; John Sobiesczyk, educational chairman; Elroy Heling, hospitality chairman, and Harvey A. Jorgenson, registration chairman. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Regional Commission

Stepped-Up Anti-Pollution Effort Not Equal to Urgency

Anti-pollution efforts, though accelerated in recent years, are not keeping pace with the "great urgency" to protect water resources, Chairman Gordon A. Bubolz told Northeastern Regional Planning Commissioners Thursday.

His statements came at the nine-county group's quarterly meeting in Appleton, where he warned of "creeping contamination" of America's water surfaces.

The commissioners unanimously endorses Bubolz' urging that the planning group must continue to use its resources to proect the values of the region's environment.

Bubolz said the pollution problem is serious in this region's waters, and claimed the state's remarks that the surface water is "unbalanced" was an understatement.

Great Problems

"We have great problems and have only scratched the surface," he warned.

Bubolz suggested that a hearing be conducted on the effect of a water pipeline to Lake Winnebago. He said he had asked Freeman Holmer, administrator of the Department of Natural Resources, to schedule a hearing.

He called the lake the area's greatest natural resource and said the public had a right to know exactly what effect a pipeline would have.

Appleton is planning to tap the lake for its water needs under a $4 5 million program partially financed by federal aid.

A regional conference also should be conducted to coordinate efforts to perserve wildlife habitat, Bubolz said. He suggested that conservation-oriented clubs could participate.

Best Solution

After discussing the enormity of the pollution prbolem, especially in the Fox Cities area, Bubolz said he had been told by experts that a nuclear energy centralized sewerage system for the whole region would be the best long-range road to follow.

"They said this was the answer to pollution treatment and the waste disposal problem," he said.

At his suggestion, the commission authorized a sewer and water disposal conference to determine long-range effects and what planning steps should be taken.

Problems could be determined and a priority list established towards resolving them, he said. "We (commission) must work for greater public involvement and responsiveness to the region's problems and planning," he said.

Appleton Schools Plan Parent-Teacher Talks

Construction Workers Will Vote on Union

A union representation election for an estimated 15 employes at Consolidated Construction Co will be conducted March 1 at the Outagamie County Courthouse annex.

The petition of Sheet Metal Workers Local 151, AFL-CIO, for an election was aired at a hearing conducted at the city hall Thursday by an agent for the regional office of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

The company, which sells and erects steel buildings, consented to the election after eligibility details were worked out.

Retirement Law Affects Police, Firemen in Area

service. Also included in the new plan are about 1,500 state employes such as beverage tax agents, conservation wardens and penal institution guards.

The law provides that beneficiaries may, at their option, continue to work and accumulate credits up to age 58. Local government heads may extend service beyond age 58 for protective service personnel. Gov. Warren P. Knowles has suggested the Legislature adopt a mandatory retirement age of 55.

Estimated annual cost for localities affected by the new law is about $3 million, with the state paying another $1 million. The cost will be staggered over a 40-year period, so that total disbursements required by the new law will probably reach at least $100 million.

Henry Schreve, Appleton city finance director, said he had not yet received a formula from the state, concerning the breakdown on costs for the new law, and therefore could not yet estimate the increased cost to the city.

Saigon Government Survives Red Raids

That's Only Hopeful Sign Following Viet Cong Assault; Situation Still Bad

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — One slender reed of genuine hope is visible in the deep though unacknowledged gloom pervading official Washington today following the bloody events in South Vietnam.

It has little to do with the military situation. That, high officials candidly admit in private, is still precarious in many of the provincial and district towns and in the embattled northwestern section around the Marine stronghold of Khe Sanh.

Rather, what hope there is springs from this political fact: during the convulsions of the past ten days the Saigon government and unofficial but powerful groupings of non-government politicians managed to stick together remarkably well

Evans

Novak

In the long run, this solid-front may prove fragile. But it has not yet been shattered by the astonishing show of Communist power. If it had broken, the "general uprising" some top U.S. analysts believe the Viet Cong high command was plotting might have come to pass.

Troops on "Vacation"

Despite the nightmarish laxity of the central government on the eve of the Tet holiday period (one-half of all troops and police on vacation along with the entire civil service), the core of the government held together. The reason: support from other segments of Vietnamese society.

The United Buddhist Organization headed by Thich Tam Chau, the Catholics, the labor unions, and almost all the anti-government politicians in the National Assembly strongly supported President Thieu's regime. There were no demonstrations and demands against the government which, coupled with the Viet Cong onslaughts, could have brought it down.

Moreover, U. S. officials are hopeful that under the new Communist pressures, the government may finally come to grips with basic political problems long overlooked. It is Saigon's last chance.

At the top of the list is a purge of generals, province and district chiefs, and the corrupted bureaucrats who infest Saigon. Second on the list is reform legislation that Thieu has postponed for months despite campaign promises.

Make Reforms — Or Else

The U. S. today is exerting maximum pressure for just these steps. Thieu and Vice President Ky are being told that, if they don't exploit the crisis mood to make the reforms and clear out the dead wood, it may soon be too late.

Even if the government should totally acquiesce in this program, the task in important ways will be far more difficult than before the Communist onslaught.

The first targets of the Communist urban attacks were water supplies and electrical plants. Destruction on a monumental scale swept town after town, partly by Communist design and partly as a result of allied counterattacks. Reconstruction of the cities is a new and formidable job, requiring large investments of material, management, and manpower.

Reconstruction must go on at the same time the government is making basic reforms in the bureaucracy and the military, and that in turn threatens to leave the countryside with a dangerously low priority. Yet it is exactly there, in the hamlets and the villages, that the Viet Cong have always shown their greatest strength.

Pacification Set Back

The rural pacification program has already been drastically set back in the past ten days. No one yet knows what has happened to the pacification cadres during the outbreak — whether they rushed to the center of action in the district towns or stayed behind in their hamlets, many of which were bypassed by the Communists.

This weakness of the pacification program may soon prove critical. Once the Communists are finally evicted from the bigger towns or are forced back into hiding, the main Viet Cong thrust is certain to come in the countryside.

Thus, in surveying the wreckage of the past ten days, there is little optimism here. Semi-official statements comparing the VC blood bath with the Germans' last-stand Battle of the Bulge in World War II are propaganda only. They do not reflect the deep concern.

Accordingly, the Saigon government's unaccustomed unity in the crisis is all that Washington can cling to. But having survived the crisis, Saigon now has to perform the near-miracle of physical reconstruction, internal reform, and pacification of the countryside all at the same time. That slim reed of hope, then, is scarcely reason for general optimism about Saigon capitalizing on its last chance.

MADISON — Three northeastern Wisconsin representatives have been named to a comprehensive health planning advisory council by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

Agency representation on the new council includes membership from state medical societies, specialized illness organizations, and state and local administrative personnel in health fields.

Great Musical Evening

Symphony Charms From Opener to Encore

BY JACK RUDOLPH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Post-Crescent News Service

Conductor Thomas Michalak closed Thursday night's concert of the Chamber Symphony of Philadelphia with the famed Scherzo from Felix Mendelssohn's "Midsummer night's Dream."

Nothing could have been more appropriate or so exquisitely performed.

Ordinarily, to single out an encore as the highlight of a program is to condemn the rest. Not this time. The Scherzo was only the luscious red cherry that topped an evening of superb music making.

Perhaps, because the Mendelssohn is so familiar, both listeners and players are likely to dismiss its subtle perfection. Played as it was last night, it was a rare musical gem, at once polished, delicate and sparkling

The evening from first to last was a pure delight, climaxed by the relaxed and graceful Mendelssohn encore. A well filled house was utterly charmed and completely satisfied.

Whatever disappointment might have been aroused by the absence of regular Conductor Anshel Brusilow (felled by a bad cold) was quickly dissipated by Michalak. A musician of many talents, the assistant conductor stepped into the gap with confident authority.

Has Great Control

His sensitive control was especially impressive in the Brahms Serenade. A beautifully sculptured piece of music, although overlong, the serenade abounds in lovely melodies tinged with wistful melancholy, and Michalak shaped a tender, flowing performance.

Bruislow's absence forced a change in the program, the Haydn 88th Symphony replacing the Barber "Capricorn" Concerto. After 200 years of steady wear and tear, the 88th may be a little shopworn but it is still a delightful work, and the ensemble played it with grace and sly sparkle.

The cool, somewhat austere Bloch opener was a striking contrast to the lyric tenderness of the Brahms and the happy glow of the Haydn. It was performed with a crisp precision and flawless balance that distinguished the entire evening.

Unified Group

Only a remarkably integrated group of outstanding artists could have played with such uniform quality. In this carefully selected and blended ensemble no section outshines the others, but the playing of the woodwinds was magnificent.

A shortage of violins — the orchestra performed last night with 25 per cent of its violins missing — may have given the winds a slight advantage but the opportunity to hear such splendid inner voices was worth it.

Anyway, with a Stradivarius, Guarnerius del Jesu, Maggini, Guardagnini and Landolfi singing together, nobody missed a couple of ordinary fiddles.

Installation of the Aprilaire Humidifier on furnace is fast, simple. Free information on the Humidifier may be had from Menasha Sheet Metal, Inc., Menasha. (Adv.)

Although everyone talks about humidity, he is, technically, discussing relative humidity. There is a difference.

Absolute humidity is simply the amount of water vapor in a given volume of air — by weight. Relative humidity is expressed as a percentage, and it's the per cent of moisture in the air in relation to the amount the air is capable of holding at the same temperature.

Air at 70 degrees F. is capable of holding about eight grains of moisture (100 per cent). If it has only two grains, the relative humidity is 25 per cent.

It's a phenomenon of nature that cold air is incapable of holding much water. And the colder it gets, the less water it can hold. Upon entering a home, outside air is heated and its capacity to hold moisture is multiplied. Air at 70 degrees can hold 22 times as much moisture as air at zero. So — it becomes thirsty air. Trying to compensate for its moisture deficiency, it picks up moisture from every available source.

In winter you live in an indoor desert. And it happens as soon as cold weather initiates the indoor heating season. In many cases the relative humidity of the air drops to below 10 per cent — and that's more than twice as dry as Death Valley or the Sahara Desert

Aprilaire humidifiers, handled by the W. J. Hartzheim Menasha Sheet Metal, Inc., 314 Racine Street, Menasha, provide the ultimate in winter-time comfort through controlled indoor humidity. The humidifier is totally automatic. There's nothing to carry, fill or spill.

There is an Aprilaire humidifier for use with any type of heating, according to Hartzheim The average 6-room home can require the evaporation of 12 gallons of water per day. The smallest Aprilaire humidifier will provide this amount. An electric valve turns water on and off as required

Dry air performs like a thirsty sponge and absorbs moisture from anything that has it to lose. Nose and throat dry out, hair tends to become brittle, skin rough, itchy, flaky. Higher temperatures are required for comfortable warmth.

Other winter-time problems caused by dry air are plaster cracks and shrinkage, furniture glued joints loosen, veneers split or peel, doors and window frames lose their shapes.

Proper humidity indoors prevents these problems. Full information may be had without obligation from Menasha Sheet Metal. Phone 722-3653 (Adv.)

Noted Lecturer Will Conduct YMCA Public Speaking Class

An eight-week course in public speaking will be offered for the first time by the Appleton Family YMCA and will feature Dr. Neil B. Brahe, a professional public speaker from Appleton.

The course will be conducted from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Saturdays, starting Feb. 17 It is designed to develop poise regarding platform procedures, an understanding of the value of an enthusiastic approach toward public speaking and elimination of most of the normal fears of public speaking.

Dr. Brahe

Dr. Brahe, well-known for his 13-year Appleton dental practice, which he sold in 1965, travels about 100,000 miles a year delivering lectures.

To Speak in Rome

Immediately after the course, he is scheduled to speak at the University of Rome, and later at the Dental Practice Administration in Puerto Rico and the Hawaiian State Dental Society.

The dentist, who has lectured in every major city in America, is an author and has completed several recordings of speeches. Prior to establishing his practice in Appleton, Dr. Brahe was an assistant professor at Marquette University.

The cost of the course is $16 for YMCA members and $20 for non-members. This includes a textbook.

Reservations may be made at the YMCA main desk. Enrollment is limited and further information may be obtained from Mrs. Maxine Vanevenhoven, director of women, girls and young adults.

PSC Sets Hearing On Utility Pact for Combined Locks

KAUKAUNA — The Public Service Commission will hold a public hearing at 9 a.m. Wednesday in the council chambers on a city request to review the sewage treatment service charges being assessed to Combined Locks.

The city handles sewage from the village at a rate of $175 per month for the first million gallons and $35 for each additional million or fraction thereof under a rate established by the commission in 1955.

Cost of operating the plant has increased considerably since that time and the city is currently undertaking a major improvement project costing over $700,000. City officials feel the old rate should be reviewed and updated with the village paying a fair share of the operating cost

Jingo Salutes Elks for Centennial TV Show

'100 Years Young' in Color on Channel 11

Saturday Written by Appleton Member

BY JINGO

Appleton Elks will be basking in a well deserved spotlight, albeit an unusual one, Saturday night when their "100 Years Young," honoring American Elkdom is telecast at 10:45 p.m. on Channel 11.

Jingo

The TV show in color was conceived, authored and directed by Appleton Elks, all members, of course of Lodge 337. The half-hour show will end at the traditional "toasting" hour of 11 p.m. when the 11th hour thought and silent toast is given to departed members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. This is an impressive tradition followed in every lodge in the country.

The Elks show was the idea of Appleton's Exalted Ruler Kenneth Berner. Other members latched onto the idea with customary enthusiasm when it was brought up at meeting time.

As a result, another Elk's first was born. Saturday night will be the first time in Wisconsin that the organization has ever sponsored a television show. Cooperating lodges of the Northeast District, which includes the Neenah-Menasha and Kaukauna Lodges, are sponsoring the program.

Author and Host

Host for the show and its liaison director is Edward Pierre, loyal knight of the Appleton Lodge. He also is the man who wrote the script.

Featured in the program will be national and state leaders and the 11 exalted rulers of the various local lodges which make up the Northeast district.

A few of the VIPs who will be seen on the show are Robert E. Boney, Las Cruces, N. Mex., national grand exalted ruler; George Ellis, Two Rivers, district deputy grand exalted ruler; Dr. Mel Junion, Green Bay, chairman of the Grand Lodge's youth activities committee, and Appleton's Judge Andrew Parnell, past president of the Wisconsin Elks Association.

The television program is the kickoff to Elkdom's Centennial Week, which officially starts Sunday. The first Elks Lodge was organized Feb. 16, 1868, in New York City.

Certainly Appleton members can be proud of their part in the national celebration and the district lodges for their backing.

The special was pre-empted Feb. 7 because of previous contractual obligations by the station to telecast a basketball game.

1967 Fire Loss Hits $135,000 In Kaukauna

$110,000 Blaze In Rail Yards Was Most Serious

KAUKAUNA — Fire losses in the city during 1967 amounted to $135,591, according to the annual fire report released Wednesday by William Haupt, fire chief.

The loss is based on insurance claims reported to the department by insurance carriers. Largest single loss was a Chicago and North Western Railway building destroyed by fire early in the year. Total damage claim for insurance was $110,000. The building was being leased by Combined Paper Mills.

Fire loss was $49,554 in 1966, a relatively good year, the chief said. Losses in which no runs were made totaled $1,574 in 1967. This represents small fires damaging clothing or furniture for which insurance claims are filed

The department made 118 runs during the year including 11 false alarms. Trucks traveled 403 miles. Two rescue runs were made and seven calls were answered to flush gasoline from streets

The ambulance operated by the department made 376 runs during the year including 276 to the Kaukauna Community Hospital, 28 to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Appleton, and 17 for use of oxygen. Other runs were made to hospitals from Neenah to Green Bay and to nursing homes throughout the valley.

Returns Held Up by Errors In Arithmetic

Midwest taxpayers are making more mistakes in arithmetic on federal income tax returns than any other kind of error, according to Walter S. Stumpf, Internal Revenue Service (IRS) district director for Wisconsin.

Already, Stumpf reports, 3,983 returns have been held up at the IRS Service Center in Kansas City with errors in addition or subtraction.

He advises taxpayers that these mistakes can result in delay of refunds. When the IRS computers check a returns' accuracy, and uncover an arithmetic error, he explained, the correction is made and a notice of the change sent to the taxpayer.

Another of the major reasons for delay in issuing refunds, he said, is the failure of taxpayers to include their correct Social Security number on a tax return.

Other refunds are being held up because of a variety of other errors or failures to comply with instructions mailed to each taxpayer with his tax forms.

The IRS Service Center in Kansas City as of last week had processed 12,276 refunds of Wisconsin taxpayers for a total of $2,110,887, Stumpf said. He added that all taxpayers who expect to receive a refund should be sure to mail their returns directly to the IRS computer center in Kansas City using the envelope that was provided with their return package.

Aid for Korea Apt to Survive Budget Cutting

Senate Getting Ready to Nip at $3 Billion in Foreign Assistance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional budget cutters are honing their scissors again for use on the administration's $3 billion foreign-aid request.

But some of these same members took a more kindly view to President Johnson's bid for a special $100 million in immediate military aid for South Korea. It's included in the over-all foreign aid request, submitted Thursday to Congress.

Congress cut nearly $1 billion out of the administration's $3.2 billion budget for the controversial foreign aid program in the current fiscal year.

Will be Reduced

"I think it can be and will be reduced," said Rep. E. Ross Adair of Indiana, second-ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, top-ranking GOP member of the House Appropriations Committee, agreed reductions could be made. But neither would predict a specific amount.

Adair and Bow said the $100 million request for South Korea probably would go through. Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., a key member of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee, said he opposed it.

Chairman Thomas E Morgan, D-Pa., of the House Foreign Affairs Committee said he plans to launch hearings on the authorization bill about Feb. 26 "and we'll be shooting for House action sometime in May."

Predictions of cuts also came from some members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and little urgency has been attached to the proposal there.

Declining Support

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., has said there will be declining support for foreign aid so long as the Vietnam war continues. Sens. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, and Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., foresaw no prospect for a substantial increase in the $2.3 billion Congress appropriated for the current fiscal year.

The new proposal includes $2.5 billion in economic assistance and $420 million for military aid. Another $120 million in arms aid will be sought through a separate bill.

Johnson said threats against South Korea from the North call for strengthened defenses of "this steadfast ally." He said the $100 million would be used for planes, antiaircraft equipment, naval radar, patrol craft, ammunition and other supplies.

Adair, in predicting the President's request would be granted, said "this is obvious in light of the Pueblo incident and their good support of our efforts in Vietnam."

5 Arab Saboteurs, Israeli Killed In Occupied Area

TEL AVIV (AP) — Five Arab saboteurs and an Israeli soldier were killed in a clash today six miles north of Jericho on the western side of the Jordan River in territory occupied by Israel, the Israeli army announced.

The shooting occurred when an Israeli army patrol came upon a band of seven infiltrators.

The army reported earlier that 10 persons were killed on the Jordanian front Thursday: two Israeli civilians and three soldiers, four Arab raiders and one Swiss civilian.

However, a Jordanian spokesman in Amman, said eight Jordanians, including a woman and two children, were killed and 43 wounded in an afternoon-long battle across the Jordan River on Thursday. A Jordanian spokesman claimed the Israelis turned big artillery on refugee camps.

The Israelis charged Jordan with igniting the flareup with a machine-gun barrage, and an army spokesman said three Israeli soldiers died in the battle across the river.

19 Imprisoned For Terrorism

Apartheid System Of South Africans Condemned by U.N.

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Nineteen Africans were sentenced today to life imprisonment on charges of terrorism in South-West Africa after a controversial case that prompted the U.N. Security Council to condemn South Africa's white supremacist government again.

Supreme Court Justice J. F. Ludorf sentenced nine others to 20 years and two to five years. The remaining three defendants drew five year sentences with four years and 11 months suspended.

The accused had faced possible death sentences under South Africa's Terrorism Act.

Unanimous Vote

The 15-nation council voted unanimously last month to condemn the court's refusal to halt the trial and release the defendants. Council members charged that the defendants had been held incommunicado and attacked the Terrorism Act because it requires defendants to prove their innocence rather than the prosecution to prove guilt.

Morris B. Abram, U.S. representative on the U.N. Human Rights Commission, charged earlier that the men had been uprooted from their homes by an alien government for trial under a 1967 law made retroactive to 1962.

The South African government has rejected U.N. General Assembly resolutions declaring void South Africa's League of Nations mandate over neighboring South-West Africa and calling for abandonment of the trial

Evening at White House

Wilson Not Wounded By Plenty O' Nuttin'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sticks and stones may break his bones, but you can't hurt Prime Minister Harold Wilson with Kipling —nor yet Gershwin.

Wilson, who conferred for hours Thursday with President Johnson, found the White House in a minor tizzy about the musical selections that had been arranged for the evening's entertainment.

Baritone Robert Merrill of the Metropolitan Opera was to sing Gershwin's "I Got Plenty O' Nuttin' " and "Road to Mandalay, based on Kipling's poem. But then came troubling second thoughts: mightn't these songs rub a little salt in the wounds of a prime minister who recently had to devalue his nation's currency and announce plans to cease British military operations in the Far East?

Wilson took everyone off the hook when he asked that there be no last-minute changes on his account.

"Look," he told Elizabeth Carpenter, Mrs. Johnson's press secretary, "I like the songs. Mr. Merrill likes the songs. I hope Mr. Merrill won't change them."

So Merrill followed the program as originally laid out, tossing in "It Ain't Necessarily So" as an encore, in addition to an aria from "La Traviata."

Ever Together

Then he teamed with the Met's Veronica Tyler on "You'll Never Walk Alone," a natural for a dinner at which many of the toasts touched on the theme of enduring partnership between the United States and Great Britain.

"Britain means as much to us as ever," Johnson said.

The President said he has "enormous confidence" in the American people's character, understanding and endurance in the face of difficulty, adding: "I am proud to place equal faith in your people, in their characteristic courage and fortitude."

Wallace Bid Puts Spotlight on Method of Electoral College

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In bidding for the White House, George C. Wallace is gambling he can do something that hasn't been done for 144 years—throw a presidential election into the House of Representatives.

The fact the nation has been able to avoid such a turn in its presidential politics for so long is no comfort to many major party moguls and Wallace's candidacy is certain to focus attention again on the manner in which the United States chooses its presidents.

In essence, it clings to a system that hasn't really worked the way it was supposed to since George Washington decided two terms was enough and retired to Mount Vernon. The constitution says the President shall be chosen by electors named by each state, with a state having as many electors as it has senators and representatives in Congress.

Leading Citizens

As envisioned by the founding fathers, the electoral college system would permit leading citizens from each state to get together, weigh the merits of various illustrious colleagues and pick one for president.

Trouble arose in 1800 when it took 31 ballots in the House to break an electoral-college deadlock between Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr. In 1824, the last time the House had to act, it chose John Quincy Adams although he ran well behind Andrew Jackson in a four-way race.

The system cost Samuel J. Tilden the presidency in 1876 when he ran 250,000 votes ahead of Rutherford B. Hayes but lost by one electoral vote in a disputed election settled by a special commission. And in 1888, Grover Cleveland had a 100,000 vote plurality over Benjamin Harrison, but lost the presidency by 233 electoral votes to 168.

System Adapted

By various statutes, understandings and political adjustments the system has been adapted to the vastly changed conditions of today.

But one feature remains that is at the heart of the controversy over it—the award of a state's entire electoral vote to the winning candidate.

This is the basis of Wallace's hopes. If he can win enough electoral votes to prevent either the Democratic or Republican candidate from getting a majority, the House will have to choose between the top three in the popular vote.

In recent year efforts at reform have centered on three main proposals: Scrap the whole system and go to a direct national presidential election; divide the electoral vote in each state in proportion to the candidates' popular vote; or divide it according to the vote by congressional districts.

Popular Election

The two vote-dividing plans appear to have run their course and more attention now is being given to the idea of a direct popular election. It is hardly new. James Madison and Benjamin Franklin proposed it at the Constitutional Convention, but it got the votes of only two states at that time.

What has brought it back strong is the Supreme Court's ruling on the one-man, one-vote principle in state and local elections. The court's logic would appear to apply equally to national elections.

Many questions connected with a direct election remain to be answered and the obstacles are formidable to such a drastic revision of a system that has lasted so long.

But if Wallace wins his gamble and the House of Representatives chooses the next president, the nation could decide it's time to make the effort.

Blast Horns Too Noisy, Trains Must be Silent

CHICAGO (AP) — Irate citizens protested with such vehemence Thursday that the Illinois Central Railroad ordered its engineers to suspend use of their piercing horns on south suburban runs.

Railroad executives had issued an order Wednesday to use the blast horns because of an increasing number of accidents at crossings.

Through the night Wednesday thousands of residents were on their telephone protesting to IC officials, aldermen, police and anyone who would listen.

One IC official, who spent six hours answering calls, said the last of three blasts is supposed to continue until the front of the train is through a crossing. But the trouble on the South Side is that crossings are often just two blocks apart."

"The result," he explained, "is that the last toot seemingly never ends. And I must admit that the air horns are very strident and probably disturbing to sleepers."

Guard Won't Remove Garbage

Lindsay Rejects 'Blackmail' Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay rejected early today the recommendations of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's special panel for ending the 8-day-old sanitation men's strike.

Hours later, Rockefeller turned down Lindsay's renewed call for National Guard help in removing the tons of festering garbage.

The striking sanitation union had agreed to the special panel's offer of a $425 annual pay increase, only $25 above a state mediator's proposal made before the strike. The city had also rejected the $400 settlement offer.

Asked if he thought the Guard would be called out, Rockefeller replied: "No. I honestly don't."

The governor said he was "very hopeful" that Lindsay would change his mind about the formula offered by the special mediators.

Shop stewards for the strikers voted unanimously to accept the recommended settlement, which would have raised their pay $425 a year retroactive to July 1.

Grim and haggard at a predawn news conference, Lindsay declared: "I said yesterday the city would not pay blackmail in order to conclude this strike. The proposed settlement, in my view, asks the city to pay a little blackmail."

Illegal Strikes

Lindsay was known to have felt that a strong stand might help bring an end to the rash of illegal civil employe strikes that have marked his administration. It was apparent he was disappointed in not getting firmer support from Rockefeller, a Republican like himself.

Garbage was piling up in the city's 6,000 miles of streets at the rate of 10,000 tons a day. Fire engines began regular patrols of the streets, and vacant lots were used as public burning sites.

The poorer neighborhoods, lined with tenements which lack incinerators, suffered most. Residents stacked garbage along the curbs in piles that overflowed into the steets. Wind scattered paper, baring the rotting residue of dinner tables.

Children still played in streets of these neighborhoods, but not all of them. "No sir, I won't let my kid go out in the street," said a lower East Side mother. "And where are they going to go?"

Health Emergency

A health emergency was declared. Officials feared an explosion of the rat population and an accompanying typhoid danger.

The governor named his five-man panel Thursday evening and it voted 4-1 for the proposal submitted to the governor at 2:40 a.m. today.

Rockefeller endorsed the report as "fair and reasonable and above all in the best interest of the people of this city," and recommended acceptance by both sides.

$425 Increase

But at 3:25 a.m. the mayor's press secretary announced Lindsay had turned down the proposal calling for a $425 annual increase in salaries — $25 more than the proposal of another mediation team which the union rejected earlier.

Union President John J. DeLury, who was released from jail to join the talks Thursday, was returned to his cell today after he had presented the panel's report to his shop stewards. He is serving a 15-day contempt sentence.

The union struck Friday in a demand for a $600 increase in the annual salaries that range from $6,424 to $7,956 after three years.

You Can Play a Game With A Long Cord and a Ruler

BY CAPPY DICK

A 12-inch ruler and long string stretched in a straight line on the floor are the only pieces of equipment needed for the game which is today's fun-project for boys and girls.

The ruler is to be tossed at the string so it lands across it A player's score is determined by the inch-mark that is closest to the string For example, if the ruler lands with 11 closest to the string as in Figure 2, the player scores 11 points. If it lands with four closest to the string (Figure 3) he scores four points, and so on. If the ruler misses the string as in Figure 4, the player scores nothing for that turn. If it lands so that its entire length touches the string as in Figure 5 he scores 78 points, the total of all the inch marks from 1 to 12 added together.

To keep the string straight, use a couple of books as weights (Figure 1) Do not throw the ruler at the string. Stand seven feet away and gently toss it

Play the game for 10 minutes At the end of that time the player with the highest total of points is the winner.

Expect New Lights to be Ready for Foxes' Opener

Appleton Begins Title Defense April 28 at Goodland Field; Trainer Added to 1968 Staff

When the Appleton Foxes open defense of their Midwest League championship, April 28, there's a good chance that the new Goodland Field lighting system will be ready.

The Appleton common council, Wednesday night, awarded the contract for the installation of the new lighting system to Superior Electric Co.

It hasn't been decided whether the Sunday, April 28, Foxes-Quincy game will be a night or a matinee affair. If the opener is a day game, the new lights would probably be unveiled Monday, April 29.

Will Move Here

With the new lighting system promised and new clubhouse facilities practically completed, Chicago's White Sox — the Foxes' major league affiliate — have announced that their training base will be moved here when the Foxes break camp in Florida in late April. Thus, the nucleus of the Duluth and Sarasota clubs will train with the Foxes at Goodland Field. . . and White Sox farm players who report later, after service stints or at the completion of college semesters will also report here.

The training base here will be manned not only be 1968 Foxes manager Gary Johnson and Coach Bob Von Eps, but also by "Deacon" Jones, Hugh Mulcahy and Ray Berres. Jones, a player-coach with the Foxes for two years, has been assigned as batting coach in the White Sox farm system this year.

The White Sox have also assigned a full-time trainer to the Foxes for the '68 season. He is Dick Zenner, 25, of Kingsley Mich., who was trainer for the Lynchburg club of the Carolina League last year. The Foxes haven't had a full-time trainer

Lawrence Hockey Club Bows, 5-2

The Lawrence University Hockey Club suffered its second setback of the season Thursday night, bowing to Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point, 5-2.

The loss gives the Lawrence team a 5-2-1 record for the campaign. Fred Carzoli scored both goals for Lawrence.

Lawrence will play at Stevens Point again next Thursday and on Feb. 17 faces St. Norbert College in a match at the Green Bay Veterans Memorial Arena.

Three American Girls Win Silver Medals in 500-Meter Skate Test

By MORRIS ROSENBERG

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — Three American girls—Mary Meyers, Dianne Holum and Jenny Fish—finished in a startling three-way tie behind gold medal winner Ludmila Titova of Russia in the 500-meter women's speed skating final today, giving U.S. stock a hearty boost at the 10th Dinter Olympic Games.

Miss Titova won the event, first in the Olympic speed skating competition, in 46.1 seconds —two-tenths of a second ahead of the U.S. trio, who finished with identical clockings.

Misses Meyers, of St Paul, Minn., Holum, of Northbrook, Ill., and Fish, of Strongsville, Ohio, each received a silver medal—highest award ever captured by U.S. girls in Olympic speed skating competition.

Plagued by Weather

Capricious weather conditions continued to plague the men's and women's luge (small sled racing) events, abnormally mild temperatures forcing postponement of opening singles heat at Villard-de-Lans for the second straight day.

The day's first gold medal went to Toini Gustafsson of Sweden, who ended Russia's reign in the women's 10-kilometer (6 2 miles) cross country ski race with a wire-to-wire victory.

There were no Americans entered in the demanding distance test.

Miss Myers, winner of the 500-meter race at the 1967 World speed skating championships, seized the halfway lead today with her 46.3 clocking as the girls skated in pairs against the clock at the outdoor rink in Grenoble

However, after the ice was resurfaced for the second section of competitors, Miss Titova flashed around the track in 46.1. The other two American girls, who followed the winner in the second section, made brilliant bids to better her clocking but could only match Miss Meyers.

Elisabeth Van den Brom of the Netherlands finished fourth in 46.6, but no bronze medal was awarded.

'Bronze Winner'

The only previous American girl to capture a medal in Olympic speed skating was Jeanne Ashworth of Wilmington, N.Y., who took the bronze in the 500-meters at Squaw Valley eight years ago

Little-Known Pro Fires 64; Nicklaus 'Returns' With 67

By BOB MYERS

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The par wreckers of golf, who had a pretty busy day in the first round, set forth again today in the $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open Tournament with virtually unknown Jimmy Powell in the lead.

Powell, a strapping 6-footer who teaches the game for a living at Indian Hills Golf Club in Riverside, Calif., gave such more renowned pros as Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper and Arnold Palmer a lesson on how to whip the Torrey Pines Golf Club's par 36-36—72.

He did it Thursday over the 6,792-yard layout with 32-32—64, the lowest score of the 1968 PGA winter tour, and moved into today's play with a lead of two strokes.

Vacation Over

Nicklaus, ending a three-week vacation from competition, was three shots back of the leader with 33-34—67, Casper was in the 68 bracket after 34-34 and Palmer was even par with 36-36—72.

Sixty-six of the 144 starting pros bettered par. It was rather frightening. But Nicklaus and some of the others predicted that the bombardment would relax when the tees are put further back and the course lengthened in the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Powell, a native of Dallas, Tex , has never won a major tournament. But he hasn't played the PGA circuits since 1964. He is too busy with his club duties and caring for a wife and four daughters.

Four players were tied at 66 —Ron Reif with a 31-35; Ray Floyd, 33-33; Ron Funseth, 32-34, and Tom Weiskopf, 32-34.

Nicklaus was deadlocked with Dave Hill and Marty Fleckman at 67.

ws surprised that a 68 still left him in a tie for ninth place.

"That's the way this game goes," said Casper.

Down the line—if 69 could be labeled down the line—was the defending champ Bob Goalby at 34-35—69. It was that kind of a first round.

Killy Captures Men's Downhill Championship

Kidd Finishes 18th, Refuses to Cite Injured Ankle

CHAMROUSSE, France (AP) — Super skier Jean Claude Killy and his French countryman, veteran Guy Perillat, finished 1-2 today in the men's downhill race, premier Alpine skiing event at the 1968 Winter Olympic Games.

Killy, the dashing, 25-year-old ace of France's powerful ski legion, began his drive for a sweep of the Alpine events—downhill, slalom, giant slalom —by sailing down the 2,890-meter course in one minute, 59.85 seconds to capture the gold medal by a slim margin.

Perillat, the first man down the slope, finished in 1:59.93 to take second place and J. Daniel Daetwyler of Switzerland captured the bronze medal with a 2:00.32 clocking.

Billy Kidd, of Stowe, Vt., America's top medal hope in the event, finished in 18th position with a time of 2:03.40. He was skiing on a bad left ankle, sprained during Wednesday's non-stop practice run, but refused to blame the injury for his slow time. "I just skied badly," he said. "I was terrible at the turns. My ankle was all right. It gave me no trouble."

Dennis McCoy of Bishop, Calif., was timed in 2:04.82. Jere Elliott and James Barrows, both of Steamboat Springs, Colo., fell part way down the course and did not finish.

Peggy Rated Cinch to Win

By WILL GRIMSLEY

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — America's Peggy Fleming would have to fall 20 times and wind up landing on her ear to lose the Olympic gold medal in the ladies' free-style figure skating final Saturday, her rivals conceded today.

"Peggy—she is much too good. No one has a chance to catch her," said Gabrielle Seyfert of East Germany, who placed second to Miss Fleming in the compulsory figures completed Thursday.

Tracing five figures brilliantly, the 19-year-old ice ballerina from Colorado Springs, Colo., rolled up 1,062 1 points to 984.9 for Miss Seyfert, 960.0 for Austria's Beatrix Schuba, and 943.2 for Hana Maskova, the European champion from Czechoslovakia.

Joins in Raves

Miss Maskova, 18, a student at Prague and a shapely, brown-eyed brunette who has been labelled the prettiest girl in the 10th Winter Olympics, joined in the raves for her American opponent.

"Peggy is a marvelous free skater and she will win quite easily," admitted the Czech girl. "The only competition is for the silver and bronze medals."

Ladies' figure skating normally is full of politics and petty jealousies. Contestants can be as catty as a houseful of sorority sisters. But around the Stade de Glace, scene of the figure skating event, you can't find a sour word for the slim American champion.

Miss Schuba, 16, her blonde hair tied in a bun, laughed when someone asked if she, in third place, had a chance of making up the difference in free-skating.

"Oh, no, no," she insisted. "It is impossible. We have no chance."

Even the Russians admitted that Miss Fleming was the sport's unparalleled queen.

"Peggy, she is way up here," Elena Cheglova of the Soviet Union said through an interpreter, lifting one hand above her head. "And the rest of us—we are way down here."

An Electric Charge

When Peggy's name is announced, an electric charge seems to go through the big, glassed-in arena. Spectators who have been chatting casually and paying little attention to the other competitors suddenly come alive. There is a rustling movement.

People rush to vantage points. Some pull out cameras. Others hug the plastic edge of the rink. They watch in quiet appreciation.

Almost everybody says in one language or another, "She's sensational."

The disappointing U.S. hockey team, winless in its first two games, was scheduled to meet a powerful Russian team late this

Jolt 630, 606 Respectively; Mrs. Lutz Powers 255 Game

Pat Lutz and Rita Monroe stepped into the bowling spotlight in the Fox Cities Thursday night as each pounded a national honor count.

Mrs. Lutz, bowling in the Hahn's Women's League, cracked a 630 series which included a booming 255 game while Miss Monroe had a 606 series in the Bent Sabre League at Sabre Lanes.

For Mrs. Lutz, a veteran of 22 years on the lanes, it was the 12th national set of her career. She opened with the 255 game, which included a string of six strikes in a row, followed with a 173 and then smacked a 202.

Once a Week

Mrs. Lutz bowls only once a week and carries a 172 league average.

Miss Monroe also is a once-a-week bowler and carries a 166 average. Her best previous performance was a 613 national count in the Women's State Tournament in 1965.

Rita put together some consistent games last night as she opened with a 190, followed with a 217 and then hit a 199. She had a total of 12 strikes in the three games.

Miss Monroe said she did not know she needed a spare in the 10th frame of the last game to get a 600.

"I was afraid to find out what I needed, so I tried to forget and not think about it," she said. After the total was official she said: "I just can't stop shaking."

Vike Matmen Face 2 Foes

Compete Against Knox, Monmouth In Ripon Saturday

After a rash of injuries and other ailments, things are looking brighter for the Lawrence University wrestling team.

Sporting a 5-3 record and a string of three straight wins, the Vikings of Coach Ron Roberts travel to Ripon College Saturday where they will meet a pair of Midwest Conference opponents, Knox and Monmouth colleges.

Ripon will be host for the double dual which will see the Vikes and Redmen exchange foes for the two matches. Lawrence and Ripon met last weekend, with the Vikes posting a 31-18 victory.

Roberts reported that he expects Bill Mittlefehldt and Chad Cummings will be ready Saturday. Both were out for several weeks with impetigo, but now have the okay to compete. Mittlefehldt has a 3-0 record, at 191 pounds, and Cummings has a similar record at the heavyweight division.

On the dismal side of the ledger, Roberts noted that promising sophomore Dan Vogel would be lost for the remainder of the season. Vogel suffered a fractured wrist in a match with the Milwaukee Institute of Technology last weekend.

Vogel, a state high school champion in North Dakota, had won four matches in succession for the Vikes and all four were on pins in the first period. Vogel joins Dale Schuparra on the sidelines, as Schuparra dislocated a shoulder early in the season

Saturday's action will close out competition against conference foes for the Vikes with the exception of the MC meet, which will be held at Ripon March 1 and 2. After Saturday Lawrence will be host for its own invitational meet and then enter a tourney at Lake Forest

$100,000 Pact For Marichal

Ace Giant Hurler To Report on Time For Spring Training

The Giants announced Thursday that Marichal, the NL's winningest active pitcher with 144 victories, has agreed to a contract estimated at $100,000.

He also has agreed to fly to San Francisco in a week or 10 days to sign and to report for baths and conditioning exercises a week before the Giants open spring training in Arizona

The Giants now have signed 21 players, including their top four pitchers· Marichal, 14-10 last season; Mike McCormick, 22-10; Ray Sadecki, 12-6; and Ray Perry, 15-17.

From his home in Santo Domingo, Marichal told Giants Vice President Charles S Feeney he is completely satisfied with the contract, is in top condition and anxious to begin work.

Einstein outlasted Appleton rival Roosevelt, 78-73, and Kaukauna breezed to a 65-43 victory over Wilson Thursday as the two winners remained in a first-place deadlock in the Valley Frosh League basketball race

Third-place Menasha sent Kimberly tumbling to the bottom of the circuit with a 63-33 romp, and Neenah Mann pulled away in the second half to rout Madison, 69-46.

Rich Reitzner poured through 36 points for Roosevelt but Einstein displayed better balance in coming out with the win Tim Moriarty scored 30 markers, Gary Barth hit 20, and Dwight Mueller added 13.

Roosevelt held a 37-35 advantage at the half, but Einstein tied it at 57-all going into the last period. With two minutes left, the count was still knotted at 71-71, when Moriarty made a 3-point play that put Einstein ahead to stay.

A 20-6 advantage after the first period gave Kaukauna the momentum it needed to race past cold-shooting Wilson The junior Ghosts increased the margin to 42-10 at the half.

Score 17 Points

Leon Franzke was the top scorer for the winners with 17 points, and Alan Borchardt and LeRoy Wenzel added with 16 and 15, respectively. Rick Luebben's 12-point effort paced Wilson.

Jeff Pommerening's 18 points, 10 coming on free throws, led Menasha and Mike Larson contributed 15. Mike Van Beek collected 17 for Kimberly.

Mann clung to a 29-28 lead at the half, then broke loose for a 19-9 advantage in the third quarter against Madison.

Bob Schultz and Bob Below each popped in 14 points for Mann, and Mike Bouressa hit 12. Nick Milhaupt's 23 markers for Madison took game honors.

Tar Heels Roll Past Wake Forest, 80-60

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

You can beat that drum, scream and yell. You're not going to get the North Carolina Tar Heels rattled in a college basketball game away from home.

The nationally ranked Tar Heels, No. 3 in The Associated Press poll, won their 14th straight by defeating Wake Forest 80-60 at Winston-Salem, N.C., Thursday night. They didn't lose their poise even when they were behind 10-3 and the Wake Forest crowd was raising the roof.

"When we play away from home everyone is shooting at us and there is a lot of screaming," said Dean Smith, North Carolina coach. "I am happy we can keep our poise."

Smith said his Tar Heels have been improving steadily since the semester break and the victory over Wake Forest was a "particularly fine one."

Miller Hit 23

Larry Miller led North Carolina with 23 points and Charlie Scott added 21. Rusty Clark dominated the boards.

North Carolina's over-all record now is 16-1 and Jack McCloskey, Wake Forest coach, declared the Tar Heels have "all the ingredients to make an exceptionally fine team. They are intensely aggressive, change their defenses fast and don't lose their poise."

Duke, looking ahead to its meeting with North Carolina in next month's Atlantic Coast Conference championship tourney, also won on the road.

Led by Mike Lewis' 28 points and 18 rebounds, led the Blue Devils to a 78-54 victory over Southern Illinois in the opener of a doubleheader that marked the end of college basketball in New York's old Madison Square Garden.

Duke had been upset 72-63 by Southern Illinois in last year's NIT tournament NYU defeated Manhattan 76-63 in the other half of the twinbill.

Crisler Promises Probe

Michigan Athletes Reportedly Get Discounts, Other Special Benefits

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — University of Michigan athletes have been receiving discounts, free passes and part-time jobs at businesses and movie theaters, in probable violation of Big Ten rules, the Michigan Daily reported in a copyrighted story in its Friday edition.

The campus newspaper said one local restaurant, a men's shop and two theaters told of giving discounts and free merchandise to Michigan varsity athletes.

In addition, the paper reported one former pharmacy owner said he has given discounts, free meals and part-time jobs to athletes in a nine-year period from 1958 to 1967.

When asked about the discount policy, Wolverine basketball Coach Dave Strack said: "I didn't realize that they were such a common practice, but I knew, of course, that they were not an uncommon practice.

"I've never thought about their legality and I am frankly surprised that they are considered illegal aid."

John D. Dewey, Big Ten assistant commissioner and examiner, was quoted by the paper as saying he would consider the discount practice a violation of conference rules.

"If discounts are given only to athletes to the exclusion of other students, then they are illegal," Dewey told the Michigan Daily in a telephone interview from Chicago.

There was no immediate indication if the Big Ten planned to investigate the allegations, but Dewey said he planned to keep informed on any developments.

U-M Athletic Director H. O. "Fritz" Crisler told the paper, "I will conduct an immediate investigation and clamp down on anything uncovered."

Under Big Ten rules, athletes are prohibited from accepting any financial aid except support from their parents, guardians, university scholarships or earnings from nonuniversity employment which is obtained "without the assistance in any way of any employe or representative of the athletic department of a member university."

Bobcats Meet Waterloo '6'

Play Host Twice To USHL Leaders This Weekend

GREEN BAY — Defense will be the key for the Green Bay Bobcats this weekend when they play host to the Waterloo Blackhawks in a pair of games at the Brown County Arena.

It will be the top series of the season for the resurgent Bobcats who are riding a 4-game winning streak and are only one point back of second-place Marquette.

Tickets are still available for the two contests, but General Manager John Mayasich informs that they are moving fast. The two teams will face off at 8 p.m. Saturday night and at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Waterloo leads the league with a 17-3-1 record and 35 points, compared to the Bobcats' 21 points and a 10-10-1 log.

The Blackhawks are paced by Paul Johnson and Keith Christiansen the (1-2) scorers in the United States Hockey League. The Bobcats will have to hold these two down plus make some scoring opportunities against the tough Waterloo defense.

Scoring Punch

The Bobcats' scoring punch is provided by Paul Coppo, Mayasich and John Harpel. Coppo is ranked fourth in the league scoring with 30 points. Eight of these came in last weekend's series with the Minnesota Nationals.

Mayasich is next with 23 points; while Harpel, who scored the "hat trick" last Sunday, has 22 points.

Cards Acquire John Edwards From Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds picked up catcher Pat Corrales and outfielder Jimy Williams Thursday in a trade that sent slumping catcher John Edwards to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Reds' officials assigned Corrales to their Indianapolis farm club of the Pacific Coast League and he will report as a nonroster player for spring training.

Williams, 24, played in only one game for the Cardinals last year as he served time in military service and spent the remainder of the season with two minor league clubs. He batted .273 in 13 contests with St. Louis in 1966.

Pitt's Bob Timmons Quits, Warns About Pressures

By IRA MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Timmons has resigned as basketball coach at the University of Pittsburgh—but only after issuing a stern warning to college athletics.

"The pressures and burdens brought about by big-time intercollegiate athletics, to me, aren't worth it now," Timmons said Thursday as he announced he was quitting after this, his 15th season.

Timmons said all the fun had gone out of the game for him. He added:

"I know a lot of top coaches who aren't very happy even if they're winning someplace—and that's very frightening."

Athletic Director Frank Carver, the president of the Eastern College Athletic Conference, echoed Timmons' warning that mounting pressures—to win, to make money—could doom collegiate sports.

"I think Bob has a tremendous capacity to absorb punishment and I think he's doing the best thing," Carver told a hastily assembled news conference. "I don't think it's a good thing for intercollegiate athletics that people like Bob feel this way."

make me happier would be if those three medals were gold," said George Howie of Oconomowoc, Wis., coach of the U.S. women's speed skating squad. "Just think, if Titova had been two tenths of a second slower, it would have been four gold medals.

"I think you are going to see us win some more medals in the races to come—either tomorrow's 1,000-meter or the 1,500-meter in which Jenny Fish and Dianne Holum will be joined by Jeanne Ashworth."

The girls sped around the rink on a drab, damp day, with the temperature 43 degrees, light rain falling at intervals and a strong wind.

"We all felt it," said Miss Fish, an 18-year-old college freshman, "but it was the same for everyone. It slowed down all the time since it was blowing in such a direction that it hit us on two turns instead of the normal one."

"I wasn't really pleased with my race," added Miss Meyers, a 22-year-old University of Minnesota coed. "I went wide around the last turn after a very good start. You know when you had a perfect race and this was not one of mine."

In the women's cross-country ski race, Miss Gustafsson breezed to an easy victory in 36 minutes, 46.5 seconds. The 29-year-old gymnastics teacher is Sweden's first gold medal winner in women's cross-country competition since the girls first entered the Olympic Nordic events 16 years ago at Oslo.

Berit Moerdre of Norway finished second with a time of 37:54.6 and Inger Aufles, also of Norway, was third in 37:59.9. Alevtina Kolchina of Russia, the pre-race favorite, came in seventh, more than two minutes behind the winner.

Xavier Frosh Cagers Beat St. John, 54-40

Xavier High School's freshman basketball team defeated St. John's frosh, 54-40, Thursday to avenge an earlier 48-38 loss.

Jeff Harris and Reed Polzin scored 13 points each as homestanding Xavier boosted its record to 14-2. High for St. John, which now has an 12-4 mark, were Jim Jansen (16) and Tom Locy (12).

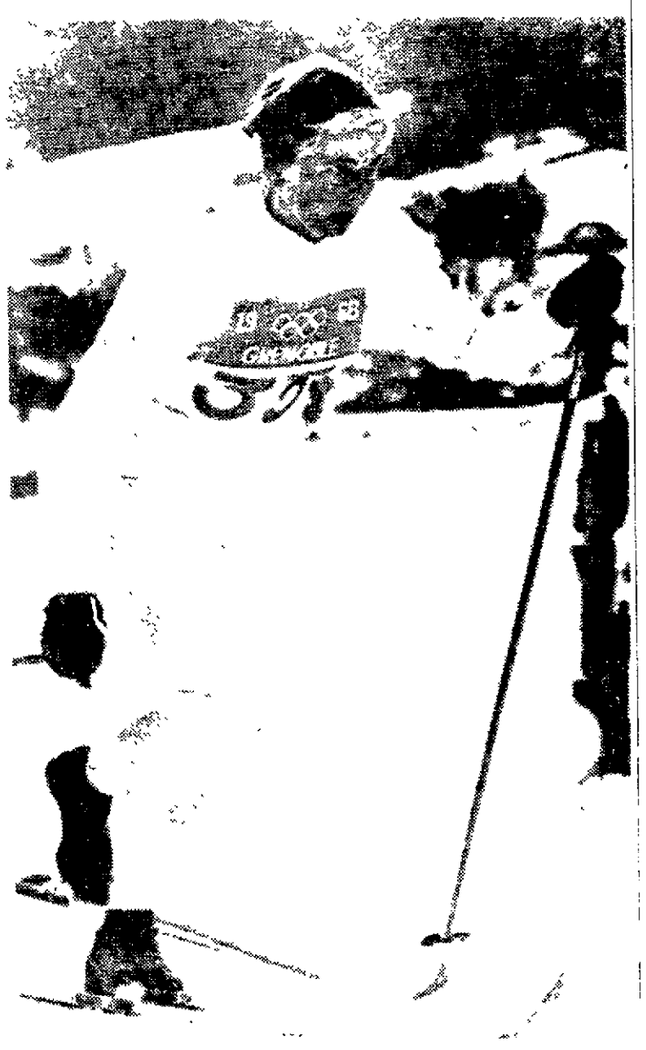
The frosh Hawks outscored the visitors, 19-11, in the final quarter after leading by only six (35-29) after three periods. Xavier's next game is at Menasha St. Mary at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Ray Cullen Lost To North Stars For 2-3 Weeks

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota North Stars have lost center Ray Cullen, the leading goal scorer in the National Hockey League's West Division, for two to three weeks with a hairline fracture of his right ankle.

The crack was disclosed in X-rays Thursday after Cullen complained of a pain in his ankle following Wednesday night's 4-2 Minnesota victory over the Los Angeles Kings in Los Angeles. Cullen said he hurt the ankle in the first period, but played the rest of the game.

Cullen not only led the NHL's West Division with 23 goals, but also had 21 assists to tie Pittsburgh's Andy Bathgate for the division point lead with 44.



Toini Gustafsson of Sweden is shown en route to a victory in the women's 10-kilometer cross-country ski race at the Winter Olympic Games in Autrans, France today. She sped over the 6.2-mile course in 36 minutes, 46.5 seconds to capture a gold medal. (AP Wirephoto via cable from Autrans)

Bulls Break Losing Skein

Rally From 15-Point Deficit to Topple Pistons, 131-110

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Bulls, who had lost nine games in a row, gave the Detroit Pistons an excellent chance to make it 10, but the Pistons seemed too embarrassed to take advantage of it and now the Bulls are working on a winning streak of one.

Late in the second quarter of their National Basketball Association game Thursday night, the Bulls were trailing by 15 points. Imagine their surprise when they won by 21, 131-110.

Jerry Sloan led a drive late in the first half that closed the gap at the intermission to 61-57 and early in the third period Barry Clemens, with five points, sparked a Chicago surge of 10 straight points and the Bulls were never threatened after that.

Bullets Win

In other NBA games, Baltimore edged San Diego 106-102, Seattle whipped Los Angeles 115-110 and San Francisco humbled Cincinnati 126-109.

Jim Washington led the Bulls with 22 points and Sloan had 20 while Dave Bing had 22 for the Pistons.

A basket by Kevin Loughery put Baltimore ahead for the last time with two free throws with 1:10 remaining. Earl Monroe led the Bullets with 23 points, Don Kojis had 24 for the Rockets.

Seattle, behind 50-46 at intermission, surged in the second half and took the lead for good with 4:16 left on Tom Meschery's jumper. Bob Rule of the Super Sonics was ejected by the officials for throwing a punch at Erwin Mueller of the Lakers in the first half.

34 for West

Jerry West of Los Angeles garnered scoring honors with 34 points while Walt Hazzard spearheaded the Seattle attack with 31.

Injuries and fouls caused San Francisco to play the last eight minutes against Cincinnati with four guards and a forward playing center. Joe Ellis injured an ankle and Rudy LaRusso and Fred Hetzel fouled out.

King and Mullins topped the Warriors with 27 points each and Jerry Lucas and Tom Van Arsdale were high for the Royals with 20 apiece.

Sherwood Ordinance

Zone Views Aired At Grain Meeting

SHERWOOD — What was termed a prelude to public meetings being planned in Calumet County to discuss a county ordinance for floodplain and shoreland zoning, was aired here Tuesday at an unannounced meeting attended by 100 persons at Harrison School.

Originally called to discuss the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) feed grain program, the new zoning ordinance was added to the agenda bringing out about 50 Town of Harrison residents.

Bruno Zucollo of the Calumet County Soil Conservation Service, showed slides of county water pollution sources. He also had illustrations of soil erosion and the many corrective methods being used in the area as well as the extensive use of water conservation ponds.

Meyer Delegated

He said that Orrin Meyer, Calumet County agent, had been delegated by the county board to propose an ordinance which all counties must adopt this year. A series of meetings will be conducted throughout the county and the recommendations will be presented to the county board before its adoption.

County officials said they did not know when or where the meetings were proposed, but a Town of Harrison resident noted that Tuesday's meeting had not been announced, and requested that one of the meetings be in the Town of Harrison.

Attorney William Engler, Chilton, urged that Calumet County protect its vast natural resources and not adopt an ordinance "which is blindly proposed, just for the sake of adopting one".

He pointed to the restrictions being placed on agriculture and recreation in Calumet County if the proposed ordinance, which he briefed through, was adopted. He noted it was a "model ordinance," and said the Department of Natural Resource and Development had advised against adopting standard ordinances; each county should have personal conferences to obtain a "workable ordinance."

He also termed the proposed ordinance a "poor legal document," and one which could create many legal problems. He noted that no attorney had been engaged in the matter.

Strangled Grip

If the proposed ordinance were adopted, Engler said, it would "have a strangled grip over our county". He pointed particularly to the restricted agriculture within a floodplain and private recreation restrictions within 1,000 feet of any lake.

Following Engler's brief explanations of why he was urging attendance at the public hearings, a Town of Harrison resident asked, if, in view of the town's membership in the Council of Government is (COG), it would be wise to have it "analyze the ordinance and make recommendations," noting that the personnel were experts in zoning and planning".

It was suggested that he make his request known to his county board supervisor, both of whom were present at the meeting.

Harrison is the only town in Calumet County which is a member of COG. A floodplain zoning ordinance was prepared by the group in December and outlined by assoociate planner, Greg Kittelson, defining zoning regulations for cities, villages and other areas, for consideration by member governments of the regional planning group.

Crisis in the Cities – V

Three-Fold Downtown Problem Starting to be Solved in Green Bay

By JOHN P. DOYLE
Green Bay Press-Gazette

GREEN BAY (AP) — Green Bay, Wisconsin's fourth largest city, like most growing communities throughout the nation, has its urban problems.

Chief among the so-called urban ills—created primarily by the exodus of people and business to the outer fringes of the city and to the suburbs—are central business district deterioration and the orderly development of residential and business areas in the suburban regions

Another urban ill, and perhaps the most pressing for Green Bay and Brown County—is traffic congestion brought about by population increases and the subsequent increase in the number of automobiles.

Green Bay is well on its way to solving these three major problems, but before the estimated 85,000 city residents and 140,000 county residents can enjoy the improvements a few hurdles must yet be cleared.

Through the combined efforts of the business community, citizens at large and the city government, Green Bay hopes to have a completely revitalized downtown within five years.

Nearly ten years ago it was recognized that the central shopping area was deteriorating and an independent group of businessmen initiated steps to reverse this trend.

Federal Grant

A Gregby Committee (a contraction for Greater Green Bay) was formed and the city applied for a federal grant of over $7 million to aid in revitalizing the area.

With the aid of consultants, the citly's planning staff — with approval of citizens' committees —pinpointed a nine-square block area for almost complete re-construction. The project, called Gregby, calls for tearing down nearly 100 existing buildings and replacing them with a three block long covered mall (where Main Street now exists) and new, modern retail, service and residential and hotel facilities.

City-County Planner Ralph Bergman, chief local architect of the plan, estimates the assessed value of the area will rise from the present $8 million (which brings in approximately $250,000 in tax revenue based on present rates) to an estimated $25 million (which will bring in approximately $750,000).

Reverse Trend

"Gregby will reverse the trend of the past 20 years." Bergman said. "In the past 20 years the tax revenue from this area has declined from about 20 per cent of the city's total to 10.4 per cent," he added.

The city is seeking (its application is now in the final stages in Washington, D.C.) $7.4 million from the federal government to purchase land and buildings in the nine-block area and for demolition and clearance.

The city plans to contribute $4.1 million in public works projects, primarily parking ramps and sewer installation.

"Not one cent of the local taxpayers' money will be used on the project," said Mayor Don Tilleman.

In addition to the estimated $25 million in new construction within the project area, Bergman and Tilleman estimated many more millions will be spent on new construction and modernization of buildings in areas adjacent to Gregby.

Store Moved

The situation was brought to a head when one major department store moved to a fringe shopping center and another threatened to move out of the downtown area. Many smaller retailers sought new facilities, also, with more adequate parking.

Throughout the years two mayors, four city councils and the vast majority of the public has supported Gregby. Only a few dissenting voices were heard at the numerous committee meetings, council sessions and the public hearing.

With Gregby well underway, the most immediate, unsolved urban problem in Green Bay is traffic congestion. The Fox splits the community nearly in half and the burgeoning traffic is funneled onto three narrow, old bridges. Complicating the matter are heavily used railroad tracks—with countless trains running at all hours—paralleling the river on both sides. Traffic has been snarled up to an hour when a train passes through during a rush hour period.

Use of River

Adding "insult to injury" is the fact that the Fox River is heavily used during the shipping season by both pleasure craft and lake and ocean going vessels, also contributing to cross-town traffic congestion.

To alleviate the situation, Green Bay—through the Brown County Regional Plan Commission—has plans for a new bridge. "It is our hope to have the bridge construction project under way in 1968." said Mayor Tilleman.

The Brown County Regional Plan Commission has gone even further to correct traffic handling inadequacies. It has had compiled a transportation report—in conjunction with the over-all comprehensive plan of development for the county—which includes origin and destination surveys showing the present and future needs for major materials. highway by-passes, and highway links with other parts of the state.

Future Results

"Much of the work we have done and are doing now won't show results for 10 years," said City-County Planner Bergman, chief adviser to the plan commission.

Other urban ills created or which will be created by the flight to the suburbs and fringe areas are more subtle, but nonetheless, serious if not corrected or headed off.

"We are facing many of the same problems of decentralization which other growing communities are facing," said Senior County Planner Robert Davis. He is a staff member of the joint city-county planning department, the first such joint effort in Wisconsin

The primary problems as Davis sees them concern planning for school and park sites, control of septic tanks and subidivisions (with proper utilities) and proper land use and zoning.

"Some of our work is corrective, but the majority of it is preventive, to ensure proper future growth." Davis said.

School Districts

The comprehensive plan for Brown County includes projected school site needs and enrollments for every school district in the county (there are nine, three of which extend into other counties)

Green Bay has gone even further It demands approval of all school site in the city school district by the city plan commission

The county comprehensive plan also projects future park needs However. Davis appends. "We've been blinded by the amount of private open space "It's difficult to sell a farmer on the need to reserve an area for a future open space site of some type when he sees nothing but open land all around him "

The county plans also incorporates a land use map, detailing the best possible future use of all land.

A major problem now, Davis said, is that the area is overzoned. "We now have seven or eight times as much land zoned for industry in the city as has been developed since Jean Nicolet stepped ashore "

Attempts have been made to project realistic land use needs up to 1985, he added.

St. Norbert Trustee At Conference on School Government

Mrs. Mary Walter, associate editor of The Post-Crescent and a member of the St. Norbert College Board of Trustees, will attend a conference on government in American Catholic higher education today and Saturday in Denver.

The conference will consider the major policies of boards of control of Catholic colleges and universities and the recent and future changes in such control.

St. Norbert is one of the first small Catholic colleges to initiate changes in its governing system and for the past 18 months has been operating with a predominately lay board of trustees. Four of its six members are lay persons.

Mrs Walter, who was appointed to the board at that time, had previously served eight years as a member of the Board of Regents of the State Universities of Wisconsin and was secretary of the DePere Board of Education. She also served on the Wisconsin Coordinating Committee for Higher Education.

Also attending the conference will be the Rev. D. M. Burke, O. Praem , president of the college.

How Would End of War Effect U.S. Economy?

BY SYLVIA PORTER

One Washington theory is that the Viet Cong's savage offensive represents a last desperate thrust which will fail and which will then lead to negotiations. Try for a moment to believe it and to imagine that hostilities in Vietnam cease a few months from now.

What would T-Day (Termination Day in Defense Department lingo) mean to the U. S. economy?

Several highly significant and to my knowledge, hitherto unpublished estimates on this are buried on pages 89-91 of the Council of Economic Advisers' annual report, released last week. The points made should reassure those of you who fear there would be a sharp slash in today's $25 billion a year spending in Southeast Asia and a resulting slump in our economy.

Of course, it would be nonsense to pretend that substantial cutbacks in war spending would not raise problems: they would. Moreover, as the CEA says, "the reconversion process will be complicated by the uneven impact of the current defense effort upon various industries, geographical areas, and types of manpower."

Take 18 Months

Against this background, a first key point made by the CEA is that after hostilities end it would take a full 18 months to reduce defense outlays to the level prevailing in 1963-65 — "as rapid a phasing down as could be reasonably expected on the basis of past experience." The 1963-65 level is "only an assumption, not a statement of policy or a prediction," cautions the CEA, but the council surely wouldn't make this "assumption" unless it believed it was valid. So let us accept the assumption as a high-level prediction.

Porter

In this stretched out 18-month period, the armed forces might be reduced by 900,000 to 2,600,000 and defense spending might be cut by $15 billion.

A quarter to a third of the discharged veterans would go back to school. Since our job markets currently absorb about 1,500,000 new job seekers a year, an additional 400,000 a year for a while "should not pose an insuperable problem if total demand is strong." As for the $15 billion reduction in defense outlays over the 18 months, "the freed resources would become available for civilian use." Also, how big the cutback would be would depend on "the nature of the peace arrangement" and other "many dimensions."

Effect on Economy

Pricing Center of Market Rift

Deadline Near; Filled Milk, Emergency Fee to be Topics At Pending Memphis Talks

Post-Crescent Farm Editor

The complexities of pricing and competition appear to be the most pressing factors separating Wisconsin dairy interests as the deadline for final arguments on the recommended Chicago Regional Milk Market Order nears

The deadline is 10 days away, Feb 19, which also coincides with the national hearing in Memphis on filled milk proposals to be adapted to the federal milk market orders, either pending or existing

A second hearing in Memphis on Feb 23 will consider extending the temporary 20 cents per hundredweight added to the Class I prices last year after pressure from dairy interests and the holding action of the National Farmers Organization (NFO).

The fee is included in the base price proposed for the new Chicago order but is scheduled to expire May 1 unless extended

Vocal Opposition

Pure Milk Products Co-op (PMPC) of Fond du Lac has been most vocal in opposing segments of the proposed common order, although it plus the area's major dairy manufacturing co-ops — Consolidated Badger and Lake to Lake—are known to favor a market regulating order

PMPC, which represents a large segment of Milwaukee market producers among many others throughout the state and northern Illinois, contends the new order would knock out present high minimum prices

Milk Imitation No Equal for Nutrition Value

Dairy Council President Wants Products Labeled

RICHMOND, Va — White drinks which imitate milk should in the public interest be clearly labeled "not a replacement for milk" until proved a nutritional replacement for real milk, an official of the National Dairy Council declared here Tuesday

"The facts need to be known by everyone," said Ralph C. Charbeneau, new president of the National Dairy Council. "It is yet to be scientifically established that so-called imitation milk is the nutritional equal of real milk. And even though

County Association Formed in 1917

First Calumet Guernsey Registered in 1890

Our first record of cattle, in what is now Calumet County, goes back to the early explorers and missionaries It was Major Pond who wrote, after he visited this area in 1770, that he was surprised to see "large" numbers of cattle They were no doubt French Canadian cattle brought by the early French as they moved on west to Wisconsin.

Orrin Meyer, Calumet County Agent, prepared this history of the county association before he left for graduate degree work in Arizona He is not expected to be here for the state convention this week. Charles Nikolai 4-H agent, is assuming his duties during his absence

The first so called permanent settlers also brought cattle with them in the early 1830's Remnants of Eastern Indian tribes under the banner of the Brothertown Nation and followed by the Stockbridges lead by the Rev. Eleazer Williams arrived in the area to establish a Christianized Indian Confederacy

The Treaty of February 8, 1831 between the native Menominees and the United States provided land for the Brothertowns and Stockbridges This area covered the major part of what is now Calumet County They brought Eastern cattle with them probably of the Durhman breed

Emerging in 1850

The Military Road, built in 1835-36 by a company of soldiers under Captain Martin Scott, transversed the area An influx of cattle then were brought in following ox carts Cattle were also brought into the area in 1848 by immigrants from Central Europe Thus began our dairy cattle industry.

Calumet County was emerging as a dairy cow county as revealed in the Census of 1850 Elisha Kaukapot purchased 500 pounds of butter on his farm Austin Quinney's livestock was valued at $1,370 Butter was made into rolls, kept in stone jars and later in wooden firkins

Our first cheesefactory was built and operated by Clarke P Skidmore in 1873 By 1885, little timber was left in Calumet County Dairying was much better suited to the area than cropping. Farmers searched for cows that fitted their needs The Guernsey was that cow.

Her wants were not great, and she produced milk of high test and excellent color for butter and cheese. William Filyes, Brillion, registered the first Guernsey, Beaubiem 2136, from Calumet County on June 1, 1890.

Guernseys continued their popularity and their numbers grew. The Western Guernsey Breeders Association, as the first state association was known, urged the formation of county associations Nine prominent Calumet County Guernsey breeders met on Saturday, Nov. 3, 1917 for the purpose of organizing a Calumet County Association

Dr. Klofanda's Efforts

Dr Royal Klofanda, county agent, outlined the purposes and values that might be derived from an association of Guernsey Breeders. These were keeping farm accounts, sponsoring a boys' calf club, summer picnic, Guernsey sales, a Guernsey herd at state fair, cooperation with state Guernsey activities and promotion of the tuberculin test The latter project gained

'Against Big Government'

Is Wallace a Racist? He Strongly Rejects It

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — George C. Wallace, the former Alabama governor seeking the presidency as a third-party candidate, has long insisted his political support stems from a backlash against big government, rather than a white backlash against civil rights.

"There isn't any white backlash that I know about," he said in an interview last year.

"There is a strong backlash among the voters all across the country but it isn't against anyone because of race," he said "It is against the idea of a big federal government trying to solve problems that should be solved on the local level."

But though the segregationist slogans and appeals for defiance of federal courts that made Wallace a symbol in the Deep South have largely disappeared from his public statements, the racial issue is never far away.

Formal Candidacy

Wallace's statement Thursday in which he formally announced his candidacy contained only one brief allusion to race—a comment that "The typical American of all races is tired of riots." But the subject dominated reporters' questions.

Asked whether he still believed in school segregation, he said, "Public education is a problem for determination by the states."

Although "we have supported in the past a separated school system" in Alabama, "we have an integrated school system in our state

"We have had more mingling of the races in Alabama" than in any northern city, he said, adding "People of all races are wanted and needed in Alabama.

"Our state has obeyed the laws," he went on. "We don't advocate disobedience."

But in March 1962, waging his successful primary campaign for the governorship, Wallace pledged to defy federal court desegregation orders. He recalled that as a state judge he had refused to permit voting records to be handed over to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

"I plead guilty to refusing to obey this federal court order that this federal judge had issued," he said at the time.

Farewell Speech

Five years later, in a farewell speech to the legislature before turning the governorship over to his wife, Lurleen, Wallace sounded a similar note.

"We should never stop fighting judicial tyranny," he said, "until it is rid of judges and bureaucrats who believe that their individual 'notions' are superior to the law written in the Constitution which they swore to uphold and defend."

Wallace was asked Thursday what he would do about desegregation and civil rights if elected president. He said he would appoint different kinds of judges and ask Congress to repeal civil rights laws.

But first, he went on, "I would stop bureaus from writing guidelines that go beyond the law

"The first thing I'm going to do is to bring all those briefcase-toting lawyers from HEW back to Washington and throw all of their briefcases in the Potomac."

At Odds

Wallace and HEW—the Department of Health, Education and Welfare—have been at odds for years over HEW's moves to desegregate schools and hospitals

He was asked how he thought he could end what he termed "crime running rampant in every city of the nation."

"If I were the president of the United States, you could walk in the streets of Washington, D. C., at any time," he said, "even if we had to bring in 30,000 troops and station one every 30 feet with a bayonet."

Then, without being asked, he looked at the reporters with a questioning expression and said: "When has it come to have racial overtones to say you are standing for law and order?"

Winnebago Coordinates Agriculture

Beautification Projects Start At Home, City Entrances

BY VERNON PEROUTKY
Winnebago County Agent

Owners are being encouraged to take inventory of their property and look at it as others see it to determine if face lifting, cleaning up, or some beautification may be in order.

The Winnebago County Beautification Council is seeking reports from people or groups who may have a definite beautification project planned for this year. Pictures should be taken now, to compare with later pictures for a progress report.

A landscape enthusiast from Neenah asked what clubs can do on beautification. My advice is to take inventory or make a survey of highway entrances to the city. Are signs neat and updated, or are some advertising businesses no longer in operation? Are any sites junky.

Is there a church or other building of public use which could use landscape plantings? How do the lake or river banks look from boat traffic?

An inventory may best bring out needs of beautification as a club or personal project.

We have two informal organizations of agriculture groups in our county and in this respect I believe we are unique. I know of no other counties with both.

The newest and just named, is the Winnebago County Farm Policy Forum. It includes leader members from the Farm Bureau, Grange, and the National Farm Organization. Each has membership in our county.

Leaders of each meet about once a month. It's county wide. Only farmers are represented. Basically each of the organizations is of policy forming nature.

As a forum, these leaders meet informally to discuss questions of public interest and discuss problems of county, state or nation-wide concern.

The second organization is the Agriculture Workers Organization. Here all agencies and service personnel or representation of such meet informally to discuss projects and problems of mutual interest to all.

Represented are vocational agriculture departments of high schools, farm credit, conservation, university extension, dairy herd improvement, electric utility, and agricultural farm programs

Sixteen men attended the last meeting of the Winneconne High School. Our next meeting is in the Omro High School at 3 p.m. Feb. 26. Ray Hoeft, vocational agriculture instructor there, will be host. The host serves as chairman of that meeting.

Rural-Urban programs are being sponsored by local municipalities and clubs, in cooperation with our office. Winneconne's program, emphasizing small acreage tree planting and farm land weed control is set for Feb. 27.

Minimum land tillage to prevent erosion and a report on research using liquid manure handling to minimize stream pollution are topics for Omro's Farm Day, March 13.

The only meeting series in the county on the subject of horticulture for Home Owners, begins at 7 p.m. Monday. Meetings will run for six Mondays, the same hour, through March 18. All will be held in the Neenah Vocational School, Commercial Street, Neenah.

Assisting me with discussion and program materials are university extension specialists from Madison in areas of landscaping, home garden fruit and vegetable growing. Readers interested may contact either Mrs. Irma Kyle, coordinator at the Neenah school, phone 722-4764; or our office, University Extension, in the courthouse, Oshkosh, phone 235-2500.

The Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce will be host to a farm-city couples evening program Feb. 21. Specialists will discuss stream and lake pollution, a report on research of the seriousness of pollution and what farmers and industry are doing about it.

Don McDowell, director of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Madison, will be guest speaker at a program, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Oshkosh at noon March 12.

Equity Sets Meeting At Shawano

Henry Dillenburg, Shawano, announced today that the Equity Cooperative Livestock Sales Association's district meeting-luncheon will be held at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Shawano Community Hall. The meeting will start at 12:30 p.m.

The general manager, assistant general manager and controller will report. Roger Robson, market manager at Bonduel, will also speak.

Dillenburg is the director from Equity's District 4, which includes the Bonduel Auction Market. Equity patrons and any other interested persons are invited to attend the meeting.

Seed and Feed Dealers Meet

Consumer Protection Is Purpose Of New 1967 Seed Labeling Law

NEW LONDON — Protection of the consumer is the aim of the 1967 seed labeling law, Outagamie and Waupaca County seed and feed dealers were told here Monday.

Prof. Leon Wrage, University of Wisconsin Extension agronomist, spoke to about 50 area retailers at the annual meeting of the group at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Club. Wrage discussed the new seed law and small grains.

Wrage explained that Wisconsin law requires all agricultural and vegetable seed to be labeled so the buyer and seller can determine the quality of the seed by examining the attached analysis tag. All agricultural and vegetable seed sold or distributed for sale in the state must comply with the law, he said.

Seeds containing field bindweed, leafy spurge, Canada thistle and quack grass (all prohibited noxious weeds) can't be sold Stiff restrictions on the number of seeds per pound are placed on several other varieties of noxious weeds.

Added to the restricted noxious weed category recently were wild oats, giant foxtail, hoary alyssum, downy brome and white cockle.

Every container of seed must have the name and address of the person who labeled the seed or the person who sells or distributes the seed.

The seed law does not apply to seed or grain not intended for sowing purposes or seed in storage or being transported to a cleaning or processing establishment.

Seed labeler's licenses are required of anyone who is required to sign a seed label, or who opens any bag or container of seed and sells or relabels any part of it.

Labeling Standards

Wrage explaned that a farmer didn't need a labeler's license as long as the seed was sold on the premises on which it was raised. However, the seed has to meet labeling standards. Once the seed is transported off the farm for the purpose of selling as seed a labeling license is required.

Several varieties of small grains produce more pounds of feed per acre than oats, Wrage pointed out. He mentioned barley and wheat as two good grains.

"I would consider winter wheat," Wrage said, "because of the yield basis. Planting some light soils would provide a crop way ahead in food value.

"Barley doesn't stand as well as stiff-strawed oats," he explained. Wrage said that 1967 was a very good year for barley in the state and that it was hard to beat as a feed crop.

We must get most from oats, he said. Selection of variety is important in determining the food value. Wrage said this was the primary area for producing oats and explained that a new variety wasn't needed because there already are varieties that can produce.

He pointed out that of 323 drill box samples taken, 10 per cent showed a germination rate of under 90 per cent; 78 per cent contained noxious weed seeds, and 10 per cent were a variety mixture or the wrong name was being used.

It is important to use good seed, Wrage explained, pointing out that 2 or 2½ bushels of seed to an acre would produce the desired yield.

Oats is not just so much grain, but must be good quality, he said. Wrage said good oats would weigh more per bushel, have more total digestable nutrients, more protein and less fibre. Proper fertilizing can produce a better oat crop he said.

The 1969 meeting again will be in New London with the program to be arranged by Joe L. Walker, Waupaca County Extension agent, and Russell Luckow, Outagamie County Extension agent.

Redwing Blackbirds Marauding State Corn Fields Study Indicates

MADISON (AP) — Redwing blackbirds are increasing their damage to Wisconsin's corn fields, a study by the State Department of Agriculture showed recently.

A survey for 1967 showed 6½ per cent of corn plants damaged by the birds. A year earlier the toll was 5 per cent and in 1965 it was 3½ per cent.

Agencies Start Milk Promotion

Central Milk Sales, Associated Dairymen Coordinate Efforts

A $1 million a year supplemental advertising program being launched on the Chicago market this month by the Central Milk Sales Agency will be coordinated with a record shattering advertising campaign which Associated Dairymen, Inc. approved last week.

Plans for this regional campaign include major markets from Minneapolis - St. Paul to Houston and San Antonio.

Associated Dairymen is composed of 30 dairy farmer cooperatives, including Pure Milk Association (PMA), in the Midwest and Southwest. Central Milk Sales Agency is composed of PMA and six Wisconsin dairy cooperatives including Consolidated Badger, Lake-to-Lake and Outagamie Producers.

The Chicago milk advertising campaign will be financed mostly from the Central Milk Sales Agency market pool which is administered by PMA. It will be coordinated by representatives of Milk Foundation, American Dairy Association and others.

Farm Bureau Names Director Of New Research Foundation

CHICAGO — Warren E. Collins, assistant director of the marketing research and commodity activities division of the American Farm Bureau Federation since 1957, has been named managing director of the American Farm Bureau Research Foundation, newly organized by the federation.

The Foundation will initiate and finance agricultural research and educational activities in such areas as production and marketing, quality and yield improvement, mechanization, farm safety, conservation of natural resources, improved or better use of fertilizers, insecticides and herbicides, and ways and means of increasing net farm income.

The foundation will operate primarily through established research agencies and firms. Most of the activity will be in cooperation with land-grant colleges, although some projects may be handled more expeditiously with private research firms.

Financial support is expected to come from donations by individual farm families, farmer cooperatives, businessmen, firms and other charitable organizations.

Plans are developing for an extensive potato industry educational exhibit in the farm crops building, state fair park during the state fair, Aug. 9-18.

Others on the exhibit committee are marketing specialists from the university, the Department of Agriculture, and directors of the Wisconsin Potato Growers Association.

The exhibit will show growing potatoes, a commercial type potato planter, seed cutter, irrigation equipment, harvesting, and washer. Various Wisconsin processed potato products will be demonstrated.

The 1969 State Fair, farm crops building exhibit, is expected to feature some other major Wisconsin agriculture enterprise.

Midnight Skulker in Madison Corn Picker From Nearby Field

MADISON (AP)— A resident of Madison's far southeast side called police at 3 a.m. to complain of a strange noise.

Patrolman David Malchow traced the noise to a mechanical corn picker. The farmer operator explained he had to pick corn at night because the field was too soft during the day.

Malchow let the farmer continue.

Surplus Hurts Underdeveloped

CHICAGO — The greatest fertilizer plant construction boom in history will double world nitrogen fixation capacity by 1970 over the mid-'60's level. The resultant increase in surplus capacity will be a discouraging effect on fertilizer plant investment by developed countries in less-developed nations.

These opinions were expressed here Tuesday during the 20th Annual Midwestern Fertilizer Conference by Dr. Raymond Ewell, Vice President for Research, State University of New York at Buffalo. The meeting is sponsored by National Plant Food Institute and the midwestern land-grant universities.

He estimated 1968 world nitrogen plant capacity at about 38 million metric tons, with actual production at only 29 million tons. Of this, 24 million tons will be fertilizer nitrogen, he said.

This will be the largest surplus capacity in history, Ewell noted, most of which will occur in the U.S., Western Europe, Japan and Canada, in that order. Eastern Europe is increasing nitrogen production rapidly, he said, but internal consumption is keeping pace.

He anticipated that the Soviet Union would continue nitrogen capacity expansion but at a slower rate than in 1964 and '65 when production increased 25 and 22 per cent. Currently, he noted, USSR is increasing nitrogen production at about 13 per cent annually. At this rate, Soviet 1970 production would be 5.5 million metric tons of nitrogen and 12.5 million tons of total plant nutrients. (U.S. 1967 production is estimated at 13.6 million metric tons of nutrients.)

Winnebago NFO Franciscan Nun at Winneconne Feed

WINNECONNE — Sister Thomas More, noted speaker on the American Agricultural situation, will be the featured speaker at the annual Winnebago County sausage feed sponsored by the National Farmers Organization (NFO) at the Central School here Feb. 17.

The feed starts at 6:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Sister Thomas will speak about 8:30 p.m.

Sister Thomas, a native of Ironwood, Mich., joined the Franciscan Sisters of Christian Charity of Manitowoc.

She received her bachelor degree at Holy Family College, Manitowoc, a four-year liberal arts college staffed by the order. She also holds master and doctor degrees from the Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C.

School Teacher

She has taught in secondary schools staffed by the order in Wisconsin and Illinois. She is presently assistant professor in history and public relations director at the college.

For the past two and a half years she has been lecturing throughout the Midwest calling for the formation of a federation of farm organizations as an aid to the development of a more realistic farm policy. Her interest stems from a study of farm organizations on the national level which she completed in 1962.

Sister Thomas also is active in other capacities serving as president of the Manitowoc County Historical Society, a director of the Manitowoc League of Women Voters and secretary to the Manitowoc Citizens Advisory Committee to the mayor and common council.

Sister Thomas More

She holds memberships in the Organization of American Historians, the Agricultural History Society, American Economics Association, National Council for Teachers of Geography and the Wisconsin State Council for Economic Education. She also is a member of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference, the South Greenville Subordinate Grange and Wisconsin State Grange.

Enrollments Due March 1

First Year 4-H To Take Exploring Project in Waupaca

Waupaca County 4-H Clubs have until March 1 to sign up new 4-H club members. As most clubs have turned in their enrollment cards for re-enrolling members to get their project work started they still have one month in which to obtain new members.

Any boy or girl between 9 and 18 years old who is interested in joining a 4-H club should contact one of the leaders in their area. In the case where the leader is not known, drop a card to the 4-H Club Office, Court House, Waupaca (54981) and the information will be sent to you, according to Philip Jeske, county 4-H agent.

This year all of the nine year olds will be taking "exploring" as their first-year project. It has been designed for the nine year old and first-year 10-year-olds. The project features four study areas: beauty, birds, bugs, buds; building and fixing; exploring in the home; exploring plants and animals.

These areas are designed so the new member has an opportunity to explore the 4-H projects so as he or she continues in 4-H, they will have an idea what the other projects are like. As a result they will be able to better make project selection based on their interests.

PMPC Officer at Illinois Forum

Research With Non-Fat Dry Milk Cuts Surpluses, Finds Products

Research with nonfat dry milk reduces surpluses and serves to upgrade the nutritional qualities of such staples on the table as bread and macaroni, William C. Eckles, treasurer of Milk Research, Inc., Fond du Lac, told a gathering at the 10th Agricultural Industries Forum at the University of Illinois.

Milk Research, Inc., was organized about five years ago by Pure Milk Products Cooperative (PMPC) to seek new outlets for milk and dairy products. Eckles is general manager of PMPC.

The list of food products that include some nonfat dry milk is long. He said that currently research is concentrated in three areas: bread and bakery products; snacks and novelty foods, and pasta or macaroni and spaghetti products. "Addition of nonfat dry milk to any of these," he said, "improves the taste, aroma, texture, appearance and nutrition."

Bread, for example, has long been known as the staff of life, he said. "However, from a nutritional standpoint, you can't lean on it because wheat lacks protein. Nonfat dry milk makes white bread nutritionally balanced by being the source of important amino acids and minerals which wheat lacks," he pointed out.

Adding 4 per cent nonfat dry milk solids to bread would mean a market for 300 to 350 million pounds of nonfat dry milk annually.

Macaroni made with nonfat dry milk is a recent development, Eckles said. Here too, it adds essential amino acids and minerals to the naturally deficient wheat flour. The advantages of macaroni made with nonfat dry milk don't end there, he said.

"Nonfat dry milk incorporated in macaroni during its manufacture, produces a product which resists overcooking and one which can be reheated without becoming soft and one which tastes much better than standard macaroni," Eckles explained. "It makes the difference between an ordinary starchy food and a product that has substantial amounts of high quality protein."

Referring to the endless array of food products that are classified as snacks, Eckles explained that these food products logically could be upgraded in protein content and quality. He said that further work is being done in snack development by Milk Research, Inc.

Eckles suggested to the dairy industry that following through with these sound research and development programs would be more fruitful and less expensive in the long run than adhering to the tired antiquated merchandising methods of some dairy products that currently exist.

considerable importance in that it led to almost a complete eradiction of tuberculosis from Calumet County.

First officers of the association were: Lewis H. McGrath, Chilton, president; Herman J. Duecker, Kiel, vice president; Dr. Royal Klofanda, Chilton, secretary; Edward Hass, New Holstein, treasurer. On the executive committee were McGrath, Dr. Klofanda, Hass, Duecker and Herman W. Gaubatz. Those who joined that first year were Arthur Baldock, Frank G. Bowe, Richard Bowe, Edward Dorn, John Graf, Walter C. Hansen, Orvil Huebner, John P. Koehler, Leonard L. Lintner, Mayer Bros., Clemens J. Meuer, Louis H. Oesau, Peik Bros., Henry Roach, E. C. Schultz, Erick Vorphal, A. W. Wieting, George Winkler, M. Michels, J. P. Schneider and William N. Knauf.

The association prospered with a Guernsey herd at State Fair in 1918, Guernsey sales at the fair grounds, participation in state sales, calf clubs, summer picnics, promotion of cow testing and tuberculosis eradication.

As time went on and County Agent Klofanda left his post to engage in veterinary practice, Guernsey activities in the County became dormant. It wasn't until Wednesday, May 25, 1938, that County Agent Abraham Lincoln McMahon called the Guernsey breeders together and reactivated the group. George Britts, State Fieldman, spoke at the reorganization. Officers elected were Walter Hansen, president; George Heller, vice president; Henry Becker, secretary - treasurer. Directors elected were Mitchell Stanelle, Theodore Federwitz, August Ploeckelmann, Ebon Phillips, Erwin Seures and Carl Peik. Fourteen members joined and paid their dues of $1 per year.

Early Officers

Presidents since the beginning were: 1938, Walter Hansen, 1939-40, Elmer Federwitz, 1941-46, Herbert Goeldi, 1947-50, Clemens Meuer, 1951-54, Earl Lintner, 1955-56, Howard Sattler, 1957-59, Elmer Federwitz and 1960-62, Allen Lintner. Robert Stanelle has been president since 1963.

Secretaries have been 1938, Henry Becker, 1939-55, Gilbert Hansen, 1956-59, Earl Lintner, 1959-60, Henry Renn. Allen Lintner has been secretary since 1963.

Present officers are: Robert Stanelle, president; Earl Lintner, vice president; Allen Lintner, secretary - treasurer; Elmer Federwitz, Edgar Steinbach, Kermit Baumgartener and Howard Sattler, directors.

Present activities center around the promotion of Guernseys by senior and junior tours in and out of the county, exhibiting at county and state fairs, a summer barn meeting, annual banquet, and summer calf show and picnic. The association is exploring the Golden Guernsey milk market. Emphasis is being placed on the breeding of a large framed rugged cow capable of consuming large quantities of roughages and converting them economically to a large volume of milk.

Swine Test Association To Meet

Highlights of the agenda include the election of directors for 1968 and discussion of the farm swine testing program. Prof. Vern Felts, animal genetisist, Meat and Animal Science Department, University of Wisconsin, will present information at this meeting.

imitation milk is being sold in only a few markets around the country, the nutritional implications are highly significant.

"To illustrate," Charbeneau said, "suppose a laboratory analysis should find that there is a manufactured imitation product chemically equal to milk and therefore the inference is made that it is a nutritional replacement for milk. What clinical evidence is there to show that the human body will react to and assimilate these chemicals as it has for thousands of years in the case of natural milk? Furthermore, isn't it significant that eminent medical and nutrition scientists agree it is preferable that the body receive its nutrient requirements via a normal balanced diet instead of ingesting a collection of assembled chemicals?

Public Service

"The dairy industry," he said, "has a record of conscientious public service without comparison in the annals of American history. It is a record which imitations cannot imitate.

"It seems logical to conclude," he continued, "that the public interest requires any product which conveys the public impression of being a replacement for milk should pass the same tests so long required for milk. Until such evidence is available, it would be a matter of simple honesty for the white drinks to be labeled 'not a replacement for milk.'

"Inasmuch as all constituent chemical elements of natural milk have yet to be completely identified and so much is yet to be learned about their interactions, it should be self-evident that it is impossible to duplicate that which is unknown. The statement 'not a replacement for milk' merely acknowledges this in the interest of public health. Inasmuch as these white drinks are marketed in the complete visual environment so long associated with dairy foods, the burden of deciding whether or not the container's contents are a milk replacement certainly should not be placed upon the mother."

Prices Snag Accord On Proposed Order

enjoyed by the independent orders.

It finds the lower prices in contradiction with growing farm costs. The proposed order merges existing orders with the old Chicago territory into one large regional market area.

Both Consolidated Badger and Lake to Lake plus several smaller co-ops like Outagamie Producers operate under the Northeastern Wisconsin order but are members of the Chicago pool with Pure Milk Association.

Rearrange Zones

Under present zone lines — there is sentiment favoring rearranging the zones among dairy interests — these major co-ops would be in strained competitive positions. Both now pay the same price which prevails throughout their market area.

The price on the Chicago hub is reduced two cents per zone as they extend north into the producer territory. Experts also point out that this produces another problem in the form of prices dairies must pay farmers for milk in northern Wisconsin. These prices are considered closer to actual production costs the dairies must pay

Unregulated Area

Northwestern Wisconsin is in an unregulated territory for the moment although there is rumor in the industry of a possible order from the Twin Cities extending into the Eau Claire region.

The Upper Michigan peninsula is governed by yet another order. Any Wisconsin plants shipping substantially into that area are subject to regulations from there.

There is feeling in the industry that an unregulated market could bring trouble resulting from the proposed order being voted down by two-thirds of the producers voting.

Some fear widespread price wars which can only hamper the producer in the long run if the proposed order is turned down by two-thirds of the producers voting in the referendum on it.

Class II Plan

PMPC also wants the present $4 Class II base boosted to $4.25 or about 90 per cent of parity. The present minimum was set in June 1966.

Gen. Mgr. William Eckles points out that farm production costs are up 10 per cent, taxes 8 per cent, interest rates 10 per cent, farm wage rates 10 per cent and farm labor is hard to find at any price.

PMPC has promoted for a 44 cent per cwt increase in Class I milk prices achieved by extending the 20-cent emergency fee and killing the 24-cent supply-demand adjustor.

NFO Bucks Checkoff

Wants, Control Funds in Hands Of Producers

The Wisconsin State board of the National Farmers Organization has expressed opposition to the compulsory checkoff plan advanced by the American Dairy Association as a means of promoting use of dairy products.

The board said the proposal was "unfair to farmers and takes away more of the American farmers' freedom."

It went on, "The Wisconsin NFO believes in advertising and will support any program that keeps the funds, the directives and control of such a program in the hands of the producer and not in the hands of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture."

Outagamie Equity Plans Program at Greenville Hall Feb. 21

Outagamie Equity Co-op will sponsor a program on modern innovations in farming at the Greenville Grange Hall at 10 a.m. Feb. 21.

The program will feature a movie on "Farming Frontiers '68," a noon lunch and weed control recommendations by the University of Wisconsin both in pre-emergence and band application.

FFA Plans Display at Hilbert Bank

HILBERT — The Future Farmers of America (FFA) chapter will assemble a display in the local bank in honor of National FFA week.

Chosen to work on the project were Darrell Bergelin, Joseph Weinreis, Gary Mirsberger, Donald Ruhland and Mark Schneider.

Place mats promoting the national observance will be distributed by the chapter to area restaurants.

A local speaking contest elimination was held last week with all members competing. Bergelin, a senior, was chosen to represent the chapter at the district meet in Wrightstown.

About 12 members will be eligible to participate in a Minnesota fishing trip June 4-8. In order to go boys must earn 300 points. Various fund-raising activities were engaged in to earn money for the outing. A seed-selling campaign will continue until the end of the month. Three Die in Race Rioting

South Carolina Campuses Erupt

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (AP) — Three Negro students were killed in a brief but bloody exchange of gunfire with police Thursday night in the fourth night of violence on two adjoining college campuses.

Thirty-seven other persons were injured in the outburst, which started when state troopers and National Guardsmen attempted to push the students back onto a campus to douse fires they had started.

The crack of gunfire or fireworks could be heard throughout the night from the grounds of South Carolina State College and Clafflin College, both predominantly Negro institutions, but this morning all was quiet.

The outbursts began Monday night with a rock-throwing demonstration against the All-Star Bowling Lanes, a privately owned alley operated by Harry K. Floyd on a segregated basis. Students from the two colleges have been trying for months to integrate the facility.

S.N.C.C. Leader Held

Thirteen persons were injured in flare-ups earlier this week.

Chief J. P. Strom of the State Law Enforcement Division said Cleveland Sellers, 25, South Carolina coordinator of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), was arrested after the incident Thursday night on charges of inciting to riot. He was taken to the South Carolina Penitentiary at Columbia and held under $50,000 bond.

Associated Press photographer Dozier Mobley, who was on the scene of the shootings, said the incident lasted only three or four minutes.

He said the students had set a bonfire near the entrance to South Carolina State College, another near a warehouse across a street, and another by throwing gasoline bomb against a nearby home of an elderly white woman, Mrs. Mamie Brunson.

About 50 policemen moved in from an intersection 1½ blocks away where the college area had been sealed off. They were followed by about 50 National Guardsmen.

Rocks, Bottles

Mobley said the police ordered the Negroes back onto the campus so firemen could enter the area. The police then moved in and the Negroes began throwing rocks and bottles, Mobley said. One patrolman, D. J. Shealy, was struck with a club.

Police took Shealy to a cruiser, which left for a hospital. Then the police started back up a slope toward the group of about 75 Negroes and a shot rang out.

"Get down," the lead policeman yelled. "They're shooting at us!"

"Then the shooting started," Mobley said. "In a few minutes it was quiet and the police moved up the slope and started carrying down the dead and injured." Several ambulances carried them to Orangeburg Regional Hospital.

The dead included Sam Hammon, 18, and Delano Middleton, 17, a high school pupil. Henry Smith, 18, died several hours later. Hammon and Smith were students at South Carolina State.

Authorities at the hospital said this morning all 37 injured, including Shealy, were released after emergency room treatment.

Seal Off Campuses

The National Guard sealed off the campuses after the shootings. Guardsmen also cordoned off a five-block downtown area and the shopping center where the bowling alley is situated to guard against looting. Shortly after dawn, all pickets were withdrawn. No looting was reported.

Col. Robert McCrady, commanding the Guardsmen, said at a news conference his men carried loaded rifles, but "not one Guardsman fired one round of ammunition."

He said state troopers fired "only after being fired at first by hostile students."

Floyd closed the bowling alley Wednesday afternoon, but reopened it Thursday night.

The alley is one of the few public facilities in Orangeburg which is not integrated. Most restaurants and Orangeburg's four theaters are patronized by Negroes.

Orangeburg last had racial trouble in 1960 when a group of Negroes were hosed down by firemen while demonstrating in protest of segregated lunch counters at a variety store.

Dr. Barnard Says Blaiberg Survived Rejection of Heart

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Prof. Christiaan N. Barnard said today heart transplant patient Philip Bliberg went through a "period of rejection" but added this is now completely under control.

Barnard tem r dBl aenAKL

Barnard termed Blaiberg's condition good and said he was satisfied with the progress of the world's only surviving human heart recipient.

Asked at a news conference about reports that fluid gathering around Blaiberg's new heart has had to be tapped several times, Barnard said this was not a serious problem and occurred frequently in patients after heart surgery.

Barnard declined to indicate when Blaiberg might leave the hospital. He received his new heart in an operation Jan. 2.

Troops Fight Viet Cong

War Action Turns Back to Saigon

(AP) — Helicopters . troops on Saigon's oday to help rout out et Cong forces as the etnamese increased gainst Da Nang and nunist tanks were reted near Khe Sanh.

olster Forces

rom the U.S. 199th ntry Brigade were he center of the Sai- ack and quickly took as to bolster South forces having slow going blasting the Reds out of Cholon, the Chinese quarter, and adjoining areas on the southwest side of Saigon.

Thursday night the Viet Cong burned down a block of homes just south of the track. The region had been declared pacified two days ago, but the Viet Cong either surfaced from hiding or slipped back into the city. A Viet Cong battalion is reported to control 20 blocks east and south of the race course.

It was the third time American troops have been used in the battle of Saigon that began last Wednesday. Paratroops of the 101st Airborne Division were helicoptered onto the roof of the U.S. Embassy when Red commandos invaded the embassy grounds Jan. 31. Two days later an armored column of the 25th Infantry Division helped clear out Viet Cong forces from the racetrack area.

Elsewhere below the northern provinces, the big Communist offensive against the cities launched 10 days ago appeared tapering off. But the U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese forces were still battling doggedly in Hue, the old imperial capital in the north, and fighting drew closer to Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city and the nerve center for Allied operations in the northern provinces.

An indication of the gravity with which the U.S. Command viewed the situation in the north was a decision to send Gen Creighton D. Abrams, deputy U.S. commander in Vietnam, to take personal charge. Informed military sources said Abrams would set up his headquarters in Phu Bai, north of Da Nang.

More Tanks Seen

No major enemy activity was reported today in the Khe Sanh area, where U.S. commanders expect the biggest North Vietnamese push of the war in an attempt to seize South Vietnam's two northernmost provinces. But the U.S. Command in a delayed report told of the sighting Thursday of more North Vietnamese tanks, which made their first appearance in the war in the capture of the Lang Vei Special Forces camp west of Khe Sanh Wednesday.

The command said an air observer sighted four enemy tanks six miles southwest of the Khe Sanh base. Air strikes were directed against them, and the observer reported two of the tanks "appeared to be disabled."

The American command also announced that the North Vietnamese assault early Thursday on a hilltop outpost near Khe Sanh, which the Communists partially occupied and then lost, cost the enemy 124 dead, while 21 Marines were killed and 27 were wounded.

Fresh signs that the 2nd North Vietnamese Division might be moving to attack Da Nang came Thursday when they swarmed over a platoon of U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese guarding a village four miles south of the city.

The attack touched off a six-hour battle into which hundreds of Marine and Army reinforcements were thrown. The fighting broke off at nightfall with 152 North Vietnamese and 15 Americans killed, 63 Americans wounded and one U.S. helicopter shot down, the U.S. Command said.

The Marines freed seven American civilians in Hue who had been in a Communist-controlled area since the city was invaded Jan. 31. The civilians, including two women, were teachers at a vocational school run by a nondenominational religious organization, the World Relief Commission.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Attackers fired several shots from a speeding car early today at the US. Embassy residence here. No Bilateral Negotiations

South Korea, U.S. Settle Differences

SEOUL (AP) — Informed sources said today the South Korean government has agreed to stop complaining about the private U.S.-North Korean talks at Panmunjom to obtain release of the crew of the USS Pueblo.

The informants said the United States agreed in turn to regard the talks as part of the functions of the Korean Military Armistice Commission and not bilateral negotiations with the Communists.

The sources said South Korean P[illegible] Il-kwo and U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter also agreed to continue handling the Pueblo case in private talks but to discuss the Communist attempt to assassinate President Chung Hee Park on Jan. 21 in open session of the armistice group. South Korea presumably wants to keep the spotlight of publicity on the Communist threat from the North.

Opposed Talks

The South Koreans had strongly opposed the private talks, contending that the United States was paying too much attention to the Pueblo affair and not enough to the threats to them.

North Korean Premier Kim Il-sung meanwhile ordered his army and nation to get into combat readiness because war might erupt "at any moment." Kim accused the United States of "scheming to ignite a new war in Korea."

The United States and South Korea, Kim added at an Army anniversary dinner, "are taking a war posture and openly declared that they would invade the northern half of the republic."

'Never Afraid'

"We do not want war, but are never afraid of it," he continued. "Our people and people's army will return retaliation for the retaliation of the U.S. imperialists, all-out war for all-out war."

Meanwhile, a South Korean spokesman said President Johnson has sent a personal letter to President Chung Hee Park. Informed sources said the letter outlined U.S. policy for the security of all of the Far East, including Korea, and assured South Korea of U.S. aid against the threat of a Communist attack.

Johnson also informed Park that he had asked Congress for an additional $100 million for military aid to Korea, the sources said.

South Korean lawyers and judges held a rally today to urge Johnson to take a firmer stand toward the Communist threat. The 300 legal men denounced the North Korean seizure of the Pueblo and the commando raid on Seoul aimed at assassinating Park.

Modern Arms

They also asked Johnson to give South Korean forces modern arms and equipment to make up for the defense gap caused by South Korea's sending 48,000 troops to South Vietnam.

Prolonged search operations failed to turn up any trace of a U.S. Air Force reconnaissance plane and two crewmen missing over South Korean mountains. The plane disappeared on a routine training flight Thursday, and U.S. spokesman said there was no possibility it had strayed over North Korea.

Westmoreland Intervenes

Hijacker Never Gets Off Ground

DA NANG (AP) — A U.S. Marine private in a black leather jacket with a cocked, 45-caliber pistol tried today to hijack a Pan American Airlines DC6 loaded with war-weary U.S. servicemen waiting to fly to Hong Kong, U.S. Air Force police said.

After 2 hours and 45 minutes, a message from a four-star general and tear gas, the copilot thwarted the effort with a bold move.

The man arrested by Air Force police was identified as Marine Pfc. William Lee Clark of the 1st Division's 1st Field Artillery Group. No charges have been filed and authorities withheld comment pending a full investigation.

The incident started at 1:30 p.m. after 83 servicemen were aboard the plane for their rest and recuperation flight to Hong Kong.

Cocks Pistol

While the engines were warming up, the trespasser in the leather jacket, blue jeans and boots shouted up to Archer from the runway. He asked where the plane was going, Archer said, and added he worked for a U.S. airline in Vietnam.

The next thing the crew knew, Archer said, the man was up front in the cockpit. He shut and bolted the door, cocked his pistol and kept it pointed at the flight engineer's head most of the time, Jones said. Archer quoted the man as saying, "I want to go to Hong Kong."

The passengers, many of them front-line combat troops, were ordered off the plane and the engines were turned off.

For nearly two hours the crew tried to talk the trespasser into leaving. Military police with automatic rifles gathered around the aircraft.

Talking by radio, a chaplain, a doctor and Col. Paul Watson of Washington, D.C., commander of the 366th tactical fighter wing, also tried to dissuade the trespasser.

In an aside, Watson said, "It's silly to let this man take off. He could do anything, like order the plane to Hanoi."

According to Archer, the gunman finally said, "start the engines or I'll shoot." The engines were started again.

The crew had permission to taxi the aircraft but at 3:45 p.m., the message from Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, arrived. It said:

"Don't let the plane leave. Use tear gas."

Tear gas was tossed into the vacated passenger compartment and the doors were sealed. The passenger loading steps were wheeled to the cockpit windows with armed air policemen on top of the steps.

The flight engineer said, "I knew then we had forced his hand. He had to shoot us or let us go."

'You've Got Me'

Archer said, "I got up and said I had to stretch. He (Clark) tried to look by me out the window. I grabbed his hand, pushed it against the wall, and the pistol fell."

Archer quoted Clark as saying, "Okay, okay, you've got me."

Bidder Wins, Loses 'Girls for Sale'

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — Tasos Konnaris, a 22-year-old Greek gambling croupier with little command of English, came across a slave market in this south coast city Thursday.

Nine pretty young things were parading on a platform before an eager bunch of bidders in a shipping center.

Konnaris asked haltingly what was going on, and a man told him:

"These girls are for sale. You can buy one."

The Greek whipped out a five-pound ($12) note, thrust it at auctioneer Stuart Penry, and said: "This one for me, please."

This one was Julia Van Dyke, a 16-year-old brunette in a mini-skirt and boots.

The auctioneer collected the money and Konnaris prepared to collect Julia. Then he learned that the slave market was a stunt organized by students of Plymouth College of Technology to raise money for charity.

Bids were being accepted as expressions of approval for the charms of the girls, and that's where it ended.

"I thought I could at least take her out," Konnaris told a reporter. "What a pity, she's very pretty. I suppose it is my fault, because I didn't understand the rules."

Julia was sorry, too, in a way.

"He was so polite and pleasant," she said, "and so good looking, but I already had a date.

Regional Commission

Stepped-Up Anti-Pollution Effort Not Equal to Urgency

Anti-pollution efforts, though accelerated in recent years, are not keeping pace with the "great urgency" to protect water resources, Chairman Gordon A. Bubolz told Northeastern Regional Planning Commissioners Thursday.

His statements came at the nine-county group's quarterly meeting in Appleton, where he warned of "creeping contamination" of America's water surfaces.

The commissioners unanimously endorses Bubolz' urging that the planning group must continue to use its resources to proect the values of the region's environment.

Bubolz said the pollution problem is serious in this region's waters, and claimed the state's remarks that the surface water is "unbalanced" was an understatement.

Great Problems

"We have great problems and have only scratched the surface," he warned.

Bubolz suggested that a hearing be conducted on the effect of a water pipeline to Lake Winnebago. He said he had asked Freeman Holmer, administrator of the Department of Natural Resources, to schedule a hearing.

He called the lake the area's greatest natural resource and said the public had a right to know exactly what effect a pipeline would have.

Appleton is planning to tap the lake for its water needs under a $4.5 million program partially financed by federal aid.

A regional conference also should be conducted to coordinate efforts to perserve wildlife habitat, Bubolz said. He suggested that conservation-oriented clubs could participate.

Best Solution

After discussing the enormity of the pollution prbolem, especially in the Fox Cities area, Bubolz said he had been told by experts that a nuclear energy centralized sewerage system for the whole region would be the best long-range road to follow.

"They said this was the answer to pollution treatment and the waste disposal problem," he said.

At his suggestion, the commission authorized a sewer and water disposal conference to determine long-range effects and what planning steps should be taken.

Problems could be determined and a priority list established towards resolving them, he said. "We (commission) must work for greater public involvement and responsiveness to the region's problems and planning," he said.

Cost Exceeds $17,000

Road Grader Purchase Okayed at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The board of public works was authorized by the city council to advertise for bids on both a new and used grader for street department use.

Possibility of repairing the present grader was investigated, but it was learned that necessary repairs would cost about $3,500. It has already been repaired several times.

Cost of a new grader is estimated at $17,000 to $34,000.

The board also was authorized to purchase 2,000 yards of crushed limestone for street use at a cost not to exceed $1.60 per yard.

An offer from the IOOF to sell the Odd Fellows building, E 12th Street, to the city was discussed. It was offered for $4,000 with the stipulation that they could meet three times a month in the upstairs hall. Possible use of the hall for activities of the retarded group also was discussed.

Zoning Problem

The matter was referred back to the board of public works, together with the possibility of renting a building on S. Main Street, adjacent to Hedtke Dairy Supplies. The matter will be investigated further with a report to be brought back to council.

George Graff of Graff Real Estate Agency asked clarification of the zoning of the Patterson Manufacturing Co., 218 S. Main St.

The lot was zoned as a dwelling lot but was used for industrial purposes City Atty. Ralph Hauer said that the zoning ordinance now existing does not affect the Patterson Manufacturing Co. It can continue to operate as non-conforming as long as the owner wishes. If the business is sold, the new owners could apply for a certificate of zoning compliance for non-conforming use and continue to operate under the ordinance.

Mayor Frank Sinkewicz pointed out that no objections were presented at the Dec. 20 public hearing on the zoning ordinance.

Parking Meters

Parking meters near the automatic traffic signals at Eighth and Main streets were discussed. It was decided to remove the first meter in front of Eberhardt's Furniture Store, because it is too close to the crosswalk and is not in accordance with the ordinance.

It was also the recommendation of the State Highway Commission, the board of public works and the police department that two meters should be removed from Main Street in front of Farm Equipment Sales on the east side of Main Street.

Main Street will be laned for traffic with one lane for a left turn onto Eighth Street and another lane for through ahead traffic. Council approved a motion in accordance with the State Highway commission's recommendation and two meters will be installed in front of Northern Propane Gas Co.

State Guernsey Convention

Dairymen to Fight Milk Substitutes

Guernsey dairymen have a bright future awaiting them if they are willing to join the changing times and adapt to them.

This optimistic note was issued Thursday night at the Left Guard Steak House by Gavin McKerrow, president of the Golden Guernsey Co-op in Milwaukee and considered the state's "Mr. Guernsey."

The occasion was a pre-convention dinner meeting of the state directors and Fox Valley dairymen concerned with planning the 43rd state breeders association convention in Appleton which opens today. Outagamie and Calumet County Guernsey dairymen are co-sponsoring the convention.

McKerrow, who at 18 was secretary of the Waukesha Guernsey Breeders Association, said that in his 50 years in the business there were always new developments to worry about, and that today's situation is no different. "Today we are worried about paying for milk and the threat of substitutes," he commented.

He challenged the association leaders to "discover the things the public wants" and then provide them. He noted the low fat products were best sellers.

Meeting Demand

He urged them to begin developing heavy protein milk producing cows in meeting the public demand for low fat products. Guernsey milk's prime promotion feature through the years has been its golden color and high fat content.

"When the public gets to using the substitutes and finds out they can't get protein, they will turn to the milk produced by the breed of cattle that can produce it," McKerrow said. He urged future comparisons on a dam and daughter protein producing ability rather than butterfat basis.

He suggested the current cholesterol problem will pass. "If we can take the leadership, we have a common concept to work with," he said. McKerrow urged using new testing equipment to develop better strains of Guernsey cattle with breeding organizations throughout the state.

"If you want to meet the changing trend you've got to have the courage and vision to get out ahead," McKerrow urged.

Les Peckham, state field secretary who later this month becomes a national fieldman for the midwest, outlined the year's progress.

Challenge Action

ETV Veto Could Bring Court Action

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — If the Wisconsin Legislature believes that Gov. Warren P. Knowles' partial veto of the state educational television bill was improper, it not only has the right but the responsibility to challenge his action in a court suit, the head of the Legislature's research staff has reported.

The suit should be brought by the Joint Committee on Legislative Organization and, if successful, would wipe the veto from the books and enact into law the original bill passed by both houses before Knowles knocked out several sections with a partial veto.

That is the message delivered to Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, (R-Appleton), by H. Rupert Theobald, chief of the Legislative Reference Bureau.

Froehlich has asked that Theobald's staff — the research arm of the Legislature — investigate the question of whether the joint leadership of the Legislature had standing to sue to block Knowles' item veto of the bill, passed in the waning hours of the 1967 session in December.

Knowles knocked from the bill several sections, the major one of which would have placed six lawmakers on the board in charge of the operation of the new statewide system.

That veto incensed leading legislators. Knowles contended that the lawmakers should not become involved in the actual administration of such a department, because of the constitutional need for separation of powers.

He used the item veto — constitutionally reserved for "appropriation bills" — because the educational television measure carried a state price tag of $35,000 in immediate spending.

Froehlich said after receiving the letter that he is not yet sure whether the Legislature will start a suit, and that he has not polled either the leadership committee or the rank and file members of his house.

Legal Meaning Unclear

He said, however, that if a suit is started, he may urge that one of the Legislature's hired staff of lawyers be assigned to take the case into court as a step toward developing a legal arm of the legislative branch. In the past, the Legislature's staff of attorneys has been reserved for bill drafting and research.

Theobald's letter reported that it is not clear what the legal meaning of an "appropriations bill" is because there have been few cases on the subject.

Froehlich said that he has asked that his legal staff research the question. The next scheduled meeting of the leadership committee will not be held until May 23, he said, and therefore a speedy decision on whether to start suit is not expected.

Theobald also pointed out that the Legislature has a legitimate interest in the subject of the suit because of its constitutional responsibilities.

"If the Legislature finds that its legislative power was improperly abridged by the unconstitutional use of the partial veto power, it not only has the right but the duty to exercise this . . . use of the partial veto," Theobald wrote.

Burglars Enter Co-op Warehouse Near Wittenberg

WITTENBERG — The Central Wisconsin Electric Co-op warehouse, located north of the village on U.S. 45, was entered late Monday evening or early Tuesday morning and several pieces of merchandise were taken.

Curt Inderdahl, manager, reported the break-in when he arrived at work Tuesday morning.

Entry was made through the south door which was forced open. Missing were a chainsaw, 350 pounds of solid copper wire, 300 pounds of stranded copper and aluminum wire, and about 100 pounds of scrap copper wire.

The CWE Co-operative of Iola is offering a cash reward for information leading to arrests in the case. Tracks indicated two vehicles were involved.

Regional Planners to Ask Second Water Study Grant

Weekly Testing of Nine-County Water Monitor Stations; Also To Back New Zoning Legislation

Application for the second federal hydrological grant, expected to be $30,000-$35,000, for the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission's water quality monitoring program was supported by the nine-county representatives Thursday.

This was among several resolutions adopted during the regional planning commission's quarterly meeting in Appleton.

The monitoring program, started last December by chief hydrologist, Gerald Paul, involves 18 to 24 months of weekly sampling and testing of 107 water monitoring stations in the nine-county region.

Paul reported the project is about 8.35 per cent complete.

Request Supported

The commission representatives also supported the planners' request to back legislation to reduce the time needed to make zoning changes. County officials in the region had asked the regional planning commission's help in securing the necessary legislation.

Another motion adopted called for 400 zoning administration manuals to be printed at commission cost to distribute to member counties for guidance in land-use programs.

Basic Purpose

William Morris, executive director, said the basic purpose of the manual is to assist the member counties in administering their respective zoning ordinances.

Morris said the natural resources section, under direction of Boyd Kinzley, will review the prime natural resource areas in the nine counties with the forest advisory committee. This will be instituted after the floodplain zoning program, and will help assure proper management provisions in natural resource ordinances.

This will involve review of county zoning ordinances, including shoreland and zoning maps, Morris explained.

Three Slated For Court After Crash

Five Vehicles Damaged Monday On County Road

Three men involved in a chain reaction accident which included five vehicles Monday morning are slated to appear in Outagamie County Court Tuesday on charges of driving too fast for conditions.

Those to appear are Duane J. Rettler, 21, route 2, Black Creek; his brother Daniel G. Rettler, 23, also of route 2, and Herbert J. Grover, 31, route 3, Shawano.

It all started about 7:20 a.m. on Outagamie County Trunks A and JJ about two miles north of Appleton when Duane Rettler rammed the rear of an auto driven by Clifford McCarthy, 37, 4821 N. Lyndale Drive, Appleton. Police said the McCarthy vehicle had stopped for a loading school bus and was just starting to move when it was hit by the southbound Rettler car.

Rams Wrecker

About 25 minutes later while attempting to get the Rettler vehicle out of the ditch a truck driven by Daniel Rettler rammed into the Peotter Towing Service wrecker which was parked along the shoulder with its yellow lights flashing. The wrecker was operated by James R. Crawford, 22, route 1, Appleton.

About five minutes later another southbound auto driven by Grover did a repeat performance and rammed into the wrecker.

Although no injuries were reported, damage was estimated in excess of $3,500.

Police said it was extremely foggy at the time of the accident.

Clintonville Woman Is Hospitalized After Fall

CLINTONVILLE — Mrs. Leo Zierels, apartment 6, Folkman Building, was taken to the Community Hospital by the rescue unit about 10:30 a.m. Thursday after she slipped and fell on the sidewalk on 10th Street, about a block west of Main Street.

Mrs. Zierels was treated at the hospital and then transferred to Theda Clark Memorial Hospital, Neenah. She reportedly suffered some broken bones in the lower part of one leg.

Same Brand Shells Used in Shootings

Crime Lab Reports Different Shot Types; Await Fingerprint Study

Although the same brand of 20 gauge shotgun shells was fired in the shooting death of Martin Jansen Jr., and in the armed holdup of Howie's Fiesta Club last month, the shells contained different types of shot.

According to a report received Friday by Outagamie County officials, the State Crime Laboratory determined from shell "wadding" samples sent them, the brand of ammunition used in both shooting incidents.

However, the laboratory report noted that No. 3 buckshot was in the two shells fired in the shotgun slaying of Jansen Jan. 20, and that No. 4 fineshot was contained in a shotgun shell fired in the armed holdup of Howie's Fiesta Club in the Town of Grand Chute on Jan. 6.

Further Reports

The latest report was received by Sheriff Norbert J. Marx, Coroner Bernard Kemps, and Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer, all of whom are taking part in the murder and holdup investigations.

Marx said today he expects further reports from the crime laboratory on more evidence he submitted. One of the future reports, he indicated, will concern fingerprints taken from various items his department sent to Madison.

Other reports already received from the crime laboratory have dealt with blood found on the inside of a 1960 Buick stolen from Cloud Buick Co., Inc., the night Jansen was murdered, and reports on examination of Jansen's body and clothing.

One of the most recent reports stated that Jansen's clothing had been examined for foreign hairs, fibers and other material. Jansen was shot twice in the head by the burglar who entered Cloud Buick Co., Inc., early the morning of Jan. 20. The burglar fled with $511 from the auto sales agency in the Town of Grand Chute.

Marx also said this morning that intensive investigation is continuing by his department. "We have eliminated a lot of suspects through questioning," he said.

Brillion Eyes Zone Change

Would Let Migrant Employers Build In Restricted Areas

BRILLION — The Larsen Canning Company's request for permission to remodel and move a building to facilitate migratory workers, won preliminary approval at a recent special city council session.

The area currently is zoned heavy-industrial.

The council approved a planning commission recommendation that City Atty. Thomas Lucas provide an enabling resolution or amendment to the city code covering the zoning laws.

The proposed change in zoning laws would allow owners of perishable food industries, who employ seasonable labor, to construct buildings in the open and closed industrial areas.

After a license is issued by the city council, on a yearly basis, a minimum license fee of $10 will be charged by the city.

Further stipulations state the building must be constructed and used according to federal, state and local laws.

Great Society Comes Crashing Down

The grandiose Great Society which President Johnson so confidently proclaimed when he began his present term of office three years ago is coming crashing down. It is another victim of the Vietnamese War along with our international prestige, our relations with our foreign friends and the soundness of our dollar.

The man the President put in charge of his War on Poverty, Sargent Shriver, has seen his program curtailed during the past year and drastically cut back in the President's new budget.

Head Start classes will be closed in midyear, Job Corps trainees will be furloughed, and thousands of slum neighborhood workers returned to the ranks of the unemployed. The latter may be the most crucial blow, since these people were hired in the first place because they represented articulate leaders in slum communities.

The Johnson Administration is compiling a record of great promises backed up with miserly performance. When these programs of aid to the underprivileged, aid to education, aid to central cities were announced with such fanfare, recipients of those aids naturally expected the programs to begin at modest levels and then expand, as is the history of most such federal projects. But such has not been the case.

Governor Knowles lashed out bitterly at the federal government's participation in the fight against pollution at the recent Great Lakes conference in Chicago. In 1968 Congress authorized $450 millions for pollution control, but then appropriated only $204 million. The 1969 authorization was supposed to be $700 million, but the President's budget requests only $225 million.

The effect on state and local governments is obvious. The federal government through its promises of financial aid has persuaded local government to come to expect and depend upon federal aid. The first question which arises on any local project is, "How much federal aid is available?" Local initiative has gone down the drain; projects are postponed until federal aid becomes available.

Possibly in the long run the Vietnamese War will have served one good purpose if it gradually erodes this local dependence on the federal government. Now is an opportune time to re-examine the entire philosophy of federal aid to state and local governments.

It is obvious that as long as the Vietnamese war continues, however, we're going to have to revert to a do it yourself philosophy.

How Many More Troops Now?

In his annual report to Congress, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara said that "the combat strength of the North Vietnamese Army in the South may increase sharply in the next few months, and we have provided for this development in our own plans." So how many more American troops are going to be heading for that jungle ground war in Asia?

There are currently about half a million American troops under the command of General Westmoreland. The announced plan was to have 525,000 troops in the area by next July. But the recent show of strength by the Viet Cong, the new rumblings in Korea and the increase of North Vietnamese troops indicate that the estimates of our always optimistic leaders are not enough.

According to Secretary McNamara's figures, the Viet Cong recruit between 3,000 and 5,000 men a month. The North Vietnamese, he said, are infiltrating some 7,000 men a month into the South. The Secretary, unlike other American officials, does not claim accuracy in the body counts of Communist dead but he does say that the figures indicate the Communists lost 165,000 "effectives" in 1967, based on computer estimates. This is supposed to indicate that there are fewer Communists fighting than there were a year ago.

But the Secretary also said that North Vietnam at present is conducting a low level war, as far as the number of troops is concerned. It drafts the 120,000 physically fit men who come of draft age each year but it has not tapped 2.5 million men between the ages of 17 and 35, at least half of whom are considered fit for military service. Its current force of 480,000 men is only 3 per cent of its population. Moreover, the 46,000 South Korean troops serving so ably in Vietnam are there because of American assurances that our 50,000 men would remain on guard at the 38th parallel.

Clearly, unless more American troops are sent to Vietnam or other areas of Asia, the tours of duty of some of the men already there must be extended. This has already happened for certain categories. The shifting of the carriers Enterprise and Ranger to the Sea of Japan after the Pueblo incident means that the ones they were supposed to replace in the Bay of Tonkin must remain on duty beyond the usual tour. And while no one suggests that American troops will rebel, the one year tour of combat duty has been acknowledged as a major factor in keeping up morale.

The President was able to use the Pueblo incident as reason enough for calling up 14,000 air and naval reserves. In an election year, it is a difficult political decision to make if more reserves must be called because the North Vietnamese step up the war. There is no reason to believe that they will not despite the insistence in Washington that the latest offensive is merely a "last gasp."

There have been a few military leaders who have predicted how far the United States must go to prevent an eventual takeover by Ho Chi Minh or the National Liberation Front in Vietnam but their voices are not broadcast by the Johnson Administration. The continued inability of our present leadership realistically to appraise the situation and the cost it means to the United States in men, money and international relations means that we will continue to be sucked into a major land war in Asia.

Gun Law Still Needed

The complex United States Supreme Court ruling saying that laws requiring commercial gamblers to buy an annual tax stamp and requiring registration of gangland-era weapons can no longer be enforced will complicate the task of writing a meaningful federal law to combat what President Johnson called "mail order murder" in his State of the Union message. But it must not deter Congress from the assignment.

The Supreme Court, in a 7 to 1 decision, said the requirement to have a federal gambling tax stamp or to register sawed-off shotguns, machine guns, mufflers, and silencers were not unconstitutional in themselves but exposed individuals to prosecution on related charges, thereby violating the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination.

It is difficult to disagree with the Supreme Court's legal logic, though the decision will renew the concern over how society can balance the rules of individual legal protection against the needs to protect society. There can be no dispute that the gambling stamps were required not as a means to raise revenue but rather to identify gamblers and to provide a source of information to local and state police. There also can be no dispute that the latter purpose was widely supported.

"Because most forms of gambling have been declared illegal in this country, gamblers necessarily operate furtively in the dark shadows of the underworld," said Chief Justice Earl Warren in the only dissenting opinion.

The overturning of the 1934 firearms act will not be a great loss to law enforcement. It did not apply to regular size rifles, shotguns, or pistols, and gangsters have not exactly stood in line to register their sawed-off shotguns or machine guns.

But the danger is that the Supreme Court ruling will be seized upon by opponents of even a compromise federal gun law to further cloud the issue. It would be a strange alliance.

The Supreme Court said Congress can still regulate the manufacture, sale, and possession of firearms. Unfortunately, it did not say exactly how.

Congress must still produce a gun law from among the proposals which have been considerably watered-down since the subject gained public concern after the assassination of President Kennedy. At the very least, there must be regulation of the mail order sale of weapons and provisions to try to prevent over-the-counter sales to persons who are not medically qualified to have weapons or to persons who have criminal records.

Looking Backward

Johnson's Interesting Quotation

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for Jan. 23, 1868.

A. Johnson, who with mulish obstinancy continues in his evil course, tries in his feeble way to be a second Andrew Jackson.

His most noteworthy attempt was his famous expression — "When you hear a man prating about the constitution, spot him; he is a traitor."

This terse sentence deserves attention, deserves to be recorded in history as being true to the letter — a fact which cannot be said of his numerous speeches and veto messages since he (Johnson) became a rebel sympathizer.

He undoubtedly derived the address from an address delivered by Gen. Jackson at New Orleans shortly after his victory there. Jackson had suspended the writ of habeas corpus and had thus aided and strenghthened his army.

The State of Louisiana passed a vote of thanks to several officers engaged in the battle and omitted Gen. Jackson because of his action in regard to habeas corpus. An address of thanks was presented to him by many prominent citizens. We quote from his address in reply:

"Under these circumstances, fellow soldiers, your resolution to let others declaim about privileges and constitutional rights will never draw from you the charge of indifference . . . You who have supported them against the open pretensions of a powerful enemy, will never I trust, surrender them to the underhanded machinations of men who stand aloof in the hour of peril and who, when the danger is gone, claim to be the defenders of the constitution."

Taylor Writes

Attacks on Cities Represent New Phase of Red Vietnam Offensive

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

It is vital for us to understand, and not brush off as "propaganda attacks," the enemy's campaigns against Saigon and 43 Vietnam cities. These represent a timetable march that Washington's reports make obscure: The enemy's step into the second ring.

On September 2, 1965, Red China Defense Minister Lin Pac declared in Peking that Vietnam is a "testing-ground" for the world-wide strength of Mao Tse-tung's military-revolutionary plan used to conquer China, split Korea, overrun Tibet, despoil Laos and invade India, and currently used by Ho Chi Minh in Southeast Asia.

This is a pacing strategy that starts with a peasant base and gradually — gradually — encircles, throttles and captures (or isolates until ripe) the cities. The guerrillas know all that is happening while our counterforce moves in a persistent fog. This gives the enemy his greatest asset. He holds the initiative. He forces us to dance to his tune. Yet the first rule of strategy is not to meet the enemy on the ground of the enemy's choice and at the time determined by the enemy.

DEFINES RED TACTICS

Marshal Yeh Chien, Inspector General of the Red Chinese armed forces and a chief military adviser to the North Vietnamese, speaking at a Red intelligence gathering in East Berlin which French agents had penetrated, professionally defined this Vietnamese tactic:

"Distant fighting is a Western specialty — fighting with long-range weapons on vehicles, airplanes and ships. Close war means to fight a few feet away or face to face. This is our specialty; fighting within the American ranks, supported by terrorism, sabotage and diversion. We have only to use close fighting, night fighting, rear-echelon fighting, including the enemy's head quarters' installations, and we can nullify the Western enemy."

In that stage the basic North Vietnamese tactic, which trapped us again and again, was to break contact whenever our superior forces arrived or could outgun them, and go away.

As one result this kept the absolute cream of the crop of the United States Army and Marine Corps, serving a nation possessing the greatest aggregate of land, sea and air power the world has ever seen, mucking around in the swamplands and rice paddies of Southeast Asia while swarms of minnows nibbled it to death, accompanied all the while by an endless series of victory statements and predictions by our highest Washington officials.

Well, a full 4,000 years ago a Chinese general observed: "In shallow water the dragon is eaten by the minnows."

A second result of the tactic is producing the indisputable truth: On April 30, 1966, we had in Vietnam 255,000 troops, including 156,000 soldiers, 51,000 Marines, 34,000 airmen and 3,500 sailors, not including the personnel aboard the great Seventh Fleet in the South China Sea or our 40,000 air personnel in Thailand.

STILL HOLDS INITIATIVE

At an angry press conference on March 2, 1966, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, who first estimated that 40,000 troops "would be enough to do the job" stated, "I estimate approximately 235,000 U.S. troops are needed in Vietnam." By now that typically wrong figure is more than doubled. Yet the enemy never at any time lost the initiative and still holds it to this day.

The significance of the current campaign against Saigon and 43 Vietnam cities which the enemy, you will notice, is free to undertake, represents a second step. That step is fundamental, but is obscured by the Washington reaction.

The erosion process in the Red strategy of attack, parry and retreat has allowed Hanoi to build a replacement reservoir estimated at more than three divisions north of the DMZ area and two more in reserve elsewhere. The Marines shielding the DMZ for the south and the mud-spattered G.I.s in the central highlands around Dragon Mountain have been heroically fighting outnumbering forces well-equipped by the Soviet and Red China with arms, artillery, many sophisticated weapons and communications systems fully as good as ours and with an iron discipline enforced by its fanatical masters in Hanoi.

Defense Minister Lin Pac likened the underdeveloped nations such as South Vietnam to the peasants in them and described the captured countries as the "cities of the world." The total conflict, in truth, is a series of concentric rings. We must thoroughly understand that the Vietnam enemy has now taken the step into the second ring.

Later the truck was found near an abandoned house in the country. Inside the house were the stolen television sets

Leonard Apt to Get Senate Endorsement Without Opposition

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Sen. Jerris Leonard when he unveiled his candidacy for the Republican nomination for U.S. senator in the fall elections attracted nearly as much attention from some listeners by his air of confidence as by the contents of his prepared statement.

Indeed, the ambitious and aggressive young Milwaukee County legislator presented the appearance of knowing something that his audience didn't — that he already had considerable confidence that he will get the party convention's endorsement and the nomination in September without a fight.

Wyngaard

It is scarcely conceivable that a man who has had such close relations with Gov. Warren P. Knowles and has supported him so loyally and effectively in the Legislature would announce his own candidacy for the senatorial seat if he had even the slightest idea that the governor was interested in the job.

RENK COULD BE RIVAL

Relevant also is the fact that Leonard will have a couple of months during which to sew up state convention endorsement pledges against Wilbur Renk, the only other man who is likely to be seriously considering the senatorial nomination. Renk will be heavily engaged until April 2 in running the campaign of George Romney for presidential convention delegates. If he should be successful in that quest, even to the extent of winning a majority of the 30 Wisconsin national convention votes, he would be a plausible, and perhaps dangerous rival.

Undoubtedly Sen. Gaylord Nelson, whose seat is at stake, would handle Renk more respectfully than Leonard. Renk has the friendship of many of the liberal independents upon whom Nelson would like to count, and he has been on a statewide ballot twice and thus is probably better known to the typical voter, at least in name than is Leonard, who has served in the comparative anonymity of the Legislature where it is difficult to make a statewide impact.

But if Romney loses the campaign that Renk is running for him, it would be extremely costly for his stature and his career, and there are very few uncommitted students of affairs at the moment who give the Michigan governor much of a chance of carrying this state in April.

VIETNAM WAR AN ISSUE

Leonard is an agile and fertile debater, sometimes given to hot and angry charges and complaints about rivals and opponents. But he was a model of grace and composure at his announcement conference. He has an affection and respect for Sen. Nelson, he took pains to relate, based on their service and their experiences together in the State Legislature. He intends to campaign on the issues, and one of those issues is winning the Vietnam war, about which he suggested Nelson is less than enthusiastic.

"He is a dove and that is inconsistent with the position of the people of Wisconsin," he said about the man who has asserted his determination to avoid involvement in the dove-hawk fight that will be the Johnson-McCarthy dispute in this Wisconsin presidential primary.

Leonard acknowledged that he has discussed his possible candidacy with numerous Republicans. He obviously believes with them that the views of Richard Nixon on the war are more acceptable to the rank and file of Republican voters, although he carefully avoided the expression of a preference among the presidential aspirants.

CHANGES IN POLITICS

Assuming a Leonard-Nelson confrontation in the fall, the episode will illustrate the swift movements and changes in Wisconsin politics. Leonard at 37 is one of the youngest men ever to aspire to the high office of senator from Wisconsin. Ironically enough, he is challenging a man who only six years ago exploited his comparative youth — Nelson was then 46 — when he challenged the elderly Sen. Wiley, who recently died.

Now greying and otherwise of more mature appearance, Nelson is not likely to underrate his diligent and energetic challenger. But in most judgments, barring further setbacks in the acceptability of his party as a whole, a man who has held public office for 22 years, including the two highest available within Wisconsin and who has run hard on a statewide basis three times, must be given early ranking as the favorite.

Strictly Personal

Is Peace What We Really Are After?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Every country insists that it wants "peace," but what every country really wants is to have its own way. If peace were truly a desideratum, it could be easily accomplished.

There is an International Court of Justice, sitting permanently in The Hague, Netherlands, which consists of 15 judges, all from different states, chosen by the General Assembly and the Security Council of the UN.

Harris

This court is empowered to decide on the interpretation of treaties, questions of international law, and breaches of international obligation. All states that are members of the UN are ipso facto members of the court, and other states are permitted to adhere to its decisions.

An international dispute — such as we have in Vietnam — may be brought before the court by consent of the parties in the particular case, or by virtue of an advance formal declaration to automatically accept the court's jurisdiction.

Some 40 states have made such declaration, but the United States is one of those that excludes all matters it chooses to regard as "domestic." This means that if the U.S. considers the Vietnam war an "internal issue," it refuses the court the right to adjudicate it. With such restrictions, the court spends most of its time deciding matters of little international importance.

If our government sincerely desired peace, it would admit frankly that Vietnam is not a "domestic" issue — as everyone knows it is not — and ask that the International Court of Justice decide the rights and wrongs of the situation there.

We would put the whole matter before the court, agree to stop the fighting in Vietnam completely and immediately, and ask our opponents in Vietnam to do the same.

This would put the ball squarely in their court, and the brunt of the world's moral opinion would then be on their shoulders, not ours. By referring the conflict to an impartial international agency, and by agreeing to abide by its decision, we would prove that we are as much in favor of "law and order" among nations as we are among citizens within a nation.

One of the bitterly ironic paradoxes of our position today is that the President of the United States speaks out boldly against the "violence" within our borders, while at the same time we engage in bare violence outside our borders, recognizing no law or order higher than our own will. How can we expect young people to respect the law of the land, when the land itself respects no human law outside itself?

New London Seeks State Aid

Repaving of U. S. 45 Through the City Is Being Requested

NEW LONDON — The city council agreed Tuesday to seek state assistance in the repaving of city streets which carry U. S. 45 traffic through the business area.

Currently the state has approved a U. S. 45-State 54 improvement project which is expected to be started in 1971. Work on the intersection near the north city limits will include widening, installation of curb and gutter, storm sewers and other related programs.

Because of the heavy traffic flow and deterioration of city streets, the board of public works suggested that state assistance be sought.

The council is petitioning for the state to include Pearl Street, between Beacon Avenue and N. Water Street, and N. Water Street, from Pearl to Shawano Street, in the repaving project.

A request to co-ordinate the repaving with the other improvements also was made.

Aerial surveys of the U. S. 45-State 54 intersection were made during 1967 to determine the needs for improving the area.

A study for a city by-pass of U. S. 45 also is underway by the State Highway Commission.

Council Okays Park Board Purchase

Buying Procedure Undergoing Change At New London

NEW LONDON — Authorization has been given the city park board to make several equipment purchases for park usage this year.

Previously, most items were purchased as they were used. This year, however, all of the equipment will be purchased at one time.

Installation of wire fence at Dr. Pfeifer Park will be one of the major projects. The fence will run along the west side of the park from the Green Bay and Western Depot to Huzzar's Grocery Store, and then south behind the homes facing Waupaca Street.

New fencing also will be for the bathhouse and two steel benches for the swimming area at Hatten Park also are included. Other items are eight charcoal grills, a water fountain for Hatten Park, two trim mowers, a skill saw and two dusk-to-dawn lights.

ahead to combat the threat from imitations and substitutes but he, too, was optimistic of the future.

Lax Attitude

"We can compete but we've had a lot of lax attitudes. We've got to learn to sell and encourage others to sell for us. These are things you can correct if you stay in the business," he said.

"We must sell any way we can," he suggested, even if its developing low fat butter-products which from his sampling indicated was not as good as butter but a great challenge to the margarine threat.

"Let's stand up for our products," he urged. Peckam suggested the first step might be in making sure milk was on the menu of organization banquets to which dairymen belonged.

Youth Program

Leo Gasper, Baraboo, incoming state feld secretary replacing Peckham, indicated there would be changes due to economic pressures and new ideas.

He praised Peckham for developing the new youth program upon which the future of the business rests. Gasper urged the dairymen to work with their Dairy Herd Improvement Associations in developing a better testing program with new equipment. "We don't have to run scared. We have a superior product," he said.

In response to Peckham's suggestion that Wisconsin Guernsey dairymen start work at attracting the national breed association convention to the state, Donald Burton, Eagle, Wis., state and national association director, said that 1970 was still open although the convention will move to Pennsylvania in 1969. This year it will be in San Francisco.

Both he and Peckham promised to support any effort to bring the convention to Wisconsin, and noted the challenge presented by the presence of the national Holstein convention in Wisconsin this year.

Association Celebrates

The Guernsey planning group has a number of celebrities. Kermit Baumgartner, Wrightstown, this week was named Brown County's Outstanding Young Farmer. Two years ago, Jack Krull from Nichols in Outagamie County won similar honors, and five years ago Robert Stanelle, Forest Junction and president of the Calumet association, won the honor. In addition, Norbert Nuttlemen, La Crosse, chairman of the state Golden Guernsey committee, is a Republican assemblyman.

Strengthening Program

Bloodmobile Seeks Aid Of Clintonville Seniors

CLINTONVILLE — Special efforts are being made to interest high school seniors, who have reached their 18th birthdays, in becoming blood donors Monday when the Red Cross Bloodmobile visits the Veterans Memorial Building.

Red Cross Blood Program Manual revisions were among topics discussed at the final meeting of ward chairmen at the home of Mrs. Raymond Schulz, blood donor recruiter chairman, Tuesday morning. Of special interest was the change in the age limit from age 60 to 61. Mrs. Schulz said, "This would be helpful in meeting the new quota of 115 pints of blood as each bloodmobile visit sees the removal of loyal donor names as they move into a new age bracket."

Promotional Methods

Promotional methods used to publicize the visit were discussed in connection with recruiting. Several types of reminders of the bloodmobile date have been distributed in the area served by the Clintonville chapter's blood program. This also includes Bear Creek, Marion and Embarrass. Assisting with lettering and distributing promotional materials were Mrs. Basil Arvey, Mrs. Carl Dehnke, Mrs. Joseph Novak and Mrs. David Thomas.

There were 231 pints of blood used at the Clintonville Community Hospital last year and 57 pints were used by area persons in other hospitals for a total 288 pints.

Thre were 331 pints of blood collected at the three Bloodmobile visits last year and 82 at the Marion visit with an overall total of 413 pints for the chapter. This showing brought two certificates of merit to the Chapter during the year.

K-C Official Speaks

Paper Companies Defend Anti-Pollution Progress

BY RAY PAGEL
Post-Crescent News Service

CHICAGO — A blast and a rebuttal concerned with Wisconsin's giant paper industry livened up the sixth day of the Lake Michigan Water Pollution Conference.

Clarence M. Klassen, technical secretary of the Illinois Sanitary Water Board, accused the paper manufacturers of talking much but doing very little on pollution abatement.

"This is the same old line," he jibed after Richard J. Billings, Neenah, assistant vice president of Kimberly-Clark Corp., and recited a history of gradual progress by the Wisconsin mills.

"I suggest you look at the facts," Billings retorted.

The verbal skirmish occurred shortly before the four-state conference was recessed until March 7.

Will Draft Plan

When the conferees return, they will face the job of drafting a cooperative master plan for the lake involving Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana and the federal government.

The conference was called by Secretary Stewart W. Udall of the Interior Department. Held at the Sherman House, it was arbitrated by Murray Stein, chief enforcement officer for the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration.

Klassen had directed barbed remarks to testimony by witnesses throughout the six days. Billints, a research scientist specializing in water technology, was the only one to really hit back.

Billings appeared as the spokesman for 14 companies which he said produce 80 per cent of the pulp and paper in the Wisconsin segment of the Lake Michigan Basin.

Billings said federal recommendations laid before conferees failed to give consideration to the "economic burden of those who would be required to implement them."

He said that under the recommendations substantial sums of money would be spent in many instances with little or no benefit assured.

Heavy Concentration

He pointed out that Wisconsin is the nation's leading paper-producing state, with a particularly heavy concentration along the Fox River and other Green Bay tributaries. Paper mill wastes easily constitute Wisconsin's No. 1 water pollution problem.

"Capital expenditures for Wisconsin paper industry facilities to achieve reductions in pollution were $36.3 million in the last 10 years. Research costs were another $7.5 million," Billings asserted.

Research is going on constantly, he continued, with the aim of achieving a higher degree of waste treatment.

Referring to recommendations made for consideration by the conference, Billings remarked:

Halo on Research

"We question setting an arbitrary timetable calling for plans within six months and completion within 36. This is totally unrealistic. Intelligent plans for treatment must be based on laboratory and pilot plant studies."

Klassen indicated that he wasn't for putting a halo on research.

"You say they need more time for research, and yet you have detailed all the research that has been done through the years. How long should we wait? Until all Green Bay is gone?" The Illinois official demanded.

Klassen said he wasn't criticizing Wisconsin, but only the paper mills. He commended Wisconsin for being a leader in fighting pollution.

"But I am really disgusted at this attitude of the paper mills," he declared.

Billings came right back.

"If I appeared here with no record of real accomplishment, then your criticism would be justified," he said. "We have new installations coming all the time, but what I'm trying to get through to you is that the going gets tougher as our degree of waste treatment improves."

Freeman Holmer, administrator of the Wisconsin Division of Resource Development, agreed that some problems are difficult to solve and must take time. He mentioned the study project currently underway by four Green Bay paper mills and the Green Bay Metropolitan Sewerage District.

Thieu Announces Plan

Mobilization Step-up Ordered for Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu announced plans today for increased mobilization to meet heavy Communist attacks in South Vietnam. He decreed a freeze on military discharges, the recall of veterans and the drafting of 18 and 19-year-olds ahead of schedule.

Speaking to a joint session of the nation's House and Senate on his 101st day in office, Thieu said the Ministry of Defense would carry out ahead of schedule a partial mobilization decree announced several months ago. He said:

'We will carry out the following measures: 1. Stop the granting of discharges except for reasons of health; 2. Recall veterans with less than five years service; 3. Call up youths made eligible by the partial mobilization decree sooner than originally scheduled.

"The following programs also will be carried out: 1. All officials under 45 will be given military training and will be armed. When notified, they may be formed into popular defense units; 2 All students over 17 will be given military training while in school."

Under the partial mobilization decree, 17 year-olds were to become eligible for the draft on Sept. 1. Now they may begin to be called almost immediately.

It was the president's first address to the legislature since the nationwide Communist attacks began Jan 30. Thieu said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese would continue their broad offensive through 1968 because they are seeking military victories before they sit down to negotiate.

"Their military goal was to launch a general offensive to open the way for a general uprising . Politically, they sought to bring about a general uprising and a coalition government which they would dominate," Thieu said.

Vertically Landing Jet Work Cancelled

U. S.-West German Fighter Plane Research 'Unneeded at This Time'

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
Associated Press writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and West Germany today cancelled a joint project for developing a revolutionary new jet fighter that could take off and land vertically

The U.S. Defense Department and the West German Defense Ministry announced the action and said it was "due to the lack of a firm operational requirement at this time."

Although the project has involved only about $6 million so far sources said it could have led to contracts worth hundreds of millions of dollars. The announcement carried no dollar figures.

A money pinch stemming from the Vietnam war also was believed to have been a factor in the decision to cancel the project.

General Program

The announcement made it plain that the United States and West Germany will continue to study aircraft requirements in the vertical and short takeoff and landing (VSTOL) field "and develop a general program to provide for the advances in technology necessary to meet the future VSTOL objectives of the two countries."

Technically, the announcement said that the two countries had decided not to go ahead with the next phase of the 18-month old project, involving building prototype aircraft. But without prototypes, there could be no production models, and the announcement underscored this by saying the decision was made "against pursuing this specific program further."

The U.S.—West German effort has been one of a number of projects the Pentagon has been supporting for years in the vertical takeoff and landing field.

Disappointing Results

The results so far have been disappointing to many defense officials.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told Congress last week that during the last seven years the Pentagon and the armed services have invested a total of several hundred million dollars in development and construction of a wide variety of prototype aircraft, using different design approaches to vertical and short take-off and landing.

"None of them proved to be both technically and operationally feasible," McNamara said.

He further told Congress that until a suitable engine is developed none of the approaches seemed likely to produce a successful plane.

Khe Sanh Much Like 1954's Dien Bien Phu

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — Fourteen years after the decisive French defeat in Indochina, U S Marines at Khe Sanh wait for battle in an outpost that looks like one synonymous with that debavle in Vietnam—Dien Bien Phu.

The topography is similar, the same North Vietnamese general commands the Communist troops that surround the stronghold and initiative is with the enemy.

U.S. military officials say there is a major difference—the American command's ability to supply its men with firepower, material and virtually unlimited air support.

Decisive Factors

The absence of these factors during the 55-day siege of Dien Bien Phu are considered the decisive factors that made possible the Viet Minh attack which overwhelmed the garrison May 7 1954. Two months later, France was ready to leave Vietnam.

The Marine base at Khe Sanh, just south of the demilitarized zone near the Laotian border, is defended by 5,000 to 6,000 men. The French sent some 16,500 to their fortress about 180 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Gen Vo Nguyen Giap's forces around Khe Sanh are believed to number about 20,000, some 10,000 less than the Viet Minh attack troops he assembled at Dien Bien Phu, but another 20 000 are believed close at hand around the demilitarized zone

While the Marines remain in their defensive position to block a campaign to take South Vietnam's northern provinces, the French conceived their Dien Bien Phu campaign as a way of bringing the Communist into a decisive conventional battle. But the French command was not prepared for the kind of fighting the Viet Minh did.

Piece by Piece

Coolies and bearers carted heavy artillery piece by piece through heavy jungle. Then they were assembled on the rim of the valley and the murderous pounding began.

Outposts Gabrielle, Beatrice and Huguette fell under heavy enemy attack. The Viet Minh took great losses, four times as many casualties as the French in one battle, but kept coming back.

Intense shelling—like that now aimed at Khe Sanh—eventually made landing supplies by air impossible for the French. Reinforcements and new material became limited to what could be parachuted into increasingly small secure areas.

Khe Sanh's Marine commander, Col. David Lownds, told AP correspondent George McArthur that Khe Sanh could be maintained without its air strip. He said it had been done last fall when monsoon rains made the strip useless for more than a month. If it were to be closed again, U.S. troops among the more than 40,000 stationed within striking distance would presumably break through.

There were no French forces to come to the aid of the men dying at Dien Bien Phu. When the Viet Minh's red flag went up on the garrison's command bunker, 3,000 French Union troops had died in the valley or on its hilly outposts. Another 7,000 prisoners died later in prison camps or forced marches.

Speeder Happy to Find Cyclist Following Her Not 'Bearded Hoodlum'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Betty Countryman was fined $15 Thursday for speeding but she told Judge Thomas Wallner that she drove fast because she was scared.

Along the darkened street, she said, she felt certain the motorcyclist following her was "one of those black-jacketed, bearded hoodlums."

She was relieved, she said, when she finally stopped and discovered the officer was "a clean - shaven, red - blooded American boy."

Track Sabotage Reported

Perishables, Military Needs Carried by Striking Trainmen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Only a limited amount of perishables and some military supplies were being moved on three major railroads today as a strike by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen entered its fourth day.

Spokesmen for the Missouri Pacific (MOPAC) said the carrier had received reports of sabotage from widely separated points along its 12,000 miles of track.

W. Thomas Rice, president of the Seaboard Coast Line, said the coal supply for 12 power plants along its route is in jeopardy and that congestion at 17 Atlantic Coast ports served by the railroad "is mounting at tremendous rate."

The third carrier is the Texas & Pacific, a subsidiary of MOPAC.

The threat of a strike against a fourth road, Union Pacific, was halted Thursday by federal court restraining order issued at Lincoln, Neb.

U.S. Dist. Judge Robert Van Pelt temporarily restrained the Union Pacific from reducing the size of its freight train crews and ordered the union not to strike until good faith negotiations on the issues had taken place.

Passenger service on the struck lines halted Tuesday. Supervisory personnel are operating an undetermined number of freight trains.

The strike is over an old issue —size of crews for freight trains Management contends only two men are needed, that any more amounts to featherbedding. The union argues that a minimum of three is necessary to operate safely.

1964 Arbitration

The subject was settled by arbitration in 1964, permitting the roads to eliminate one man from the three man crews of certain freight trains and yard crews The award was binding only for two years.

The struck roads serve the Midwest, Southwest and Southeast.

Florida and the Southeast appear to be the areas most seriously affected by the strike. This is the peak of the shipping season for winter fruits and vegetables. Shippers said they could be in trouble if the strike continues indefinitely.

More than 20,000 of the MOPAC's 23,500 employes have been idled by the strike and about the same number of employes are affected on the Seaboard routes.

A Maybe Decision

To Stare or Not? Mini Makes Maxi Problem

By BERNIE GOULD

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the problems facing the American male today is what to do about the miniskirt.

Most of us males are cowards. We sneak a look. But when Miss Miniskirt glances back at us, we look away hurriedly. That's where we make the big mistake, being embarrassed.

We shouldn't sneak, we should stare. And if Miss Miniskirt looks our way, we should stare even harder.

She may sit more primly on the subway or bus seat opposite us. She may even try—though it's probably a losing battle—to jerk her skirt down lower.

Above all, she'll be furious. Furious that we stared at a portion of her anatomy that she left uncovered purposely so we would look her way.

Isn't that just like a woman?

The point is that men—some of us, at any rate—have developed guilt complexes over these miniskirts. We're deathly afraid of being caught staring. And subconsciously we hate the miniskirt because it makes us feel uncomfortable.

Well, it wasn't our idea for the gals to wear above - the - knee skirts. Sure, we enjoy looking—as long as the gal we're looking at isn't our mother, sister, or wife, or girlfriend, or daughter. It's okay, of course, if it's someone else's mother, or sister, or wife, or girlfriend, or daughter.

So the answer to the problem of the miniskirt is to do just what the girls want us to do—look. Even stare.

And maybe someday, the women will wise up, and the skirt will go down. Then men can breathe a sigh of relief, feel comfortable again on subways, buses and in cafeterias, and daydream about how wonderful it was when the gals used to wear their skirts above the knees.

"It will stay that way until we get the Pueblo back," said Dillon, a 72-year-old retired tool manufacturer who says he served 18 months overseas in World War I.

"I sincerely feel this country is in great distress," Dillon said in an interview. "If we had any backbone at all we'd run right up that harbor and take the Pueblo back."

Dillon said the average citizen's unhappy over U.S handling of the Pueblo seizure by North Korea and might write his congressman

Bell's Palsy Affects Face Muscle Nerves

Dear Dr. Molner: I am only now recovering, after five months, from Bell's palsy, but no one seems to know a great deal about it. Would you outline it, its causes, prevention, etc. — R. H. T.

Bell's palsy is a paralysis of nerves which control the muscles of the face. It distorts the appearance of the face, so both patient and his friends and family are anxious to end it. Speed is not always possible.

No specific cause is known, but injury or infections may be a factor. In any event, the nerves cease functioning. Because so little is known of the precise cause, there is no preventive, although exposure to cold sometimes precipitates (but does not cause) an attack.

From 60 to 85 per cent of cases recover, in varying lengths of time, even without treatment. However, it is recommended that early treatment brings better results.

Therefore the doctor usually is cautiously conservative at first, without going overboard or over-treating, until he gets a clue as to whether a case shows signs of clearing up. (An electromyelogram, which measures muscle activity, is an effective index of recovery rate.)

The most effective treatment is electrical stimulation of the muscles of the area involved. This forces the muscles to react even though the nerves are not doing so. Thus the muscles maintain their tone. This in turn keeps them in condition so the patient is both enabled and encouraged to undertake exercises of the facial muscles as soon as possible. This is important.

Since nerve fibers, when damaged, regenerate slowly, the rate of recovery from Bell's palsy can be aggravatingly slow —it depends on how severely the nerves have been damaged, and how extensively.

In some cases it can take from months to a year; for luckier patients it can be less.

Besides electrotherapy, other aspects of treatment include massage, heat, vitamin B and drugs designed to stimulate circulation.

The secret of recovery, however, hinges on prompt institution of electrotherapy. That and patience.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is your opinion of removing cataracts with medicine and diet? A doctor in —— is making this claim. — Mrs. G. P.

I have heard of this man, and I don't believe he can do what he claims. None of the reliable experts in eye diseases know of any such method which will work. And — I think this is significant — the man you mention has not reported his method to the rest of the profession, which ethically he should do if he has a method which is of value.

Note to Mrs. E. S.: The blood thinners, such as you were getting, do not cause excess growth of hair. It would have to be some other factor in your case.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Antimil Ball Set By Protest Group

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — An anti-Vietnam war group at Oregon State University plans to hold an antimilitary ball tonight in the Memorial Union—a building dedicated to America's war dead.

Its sponsors say it is a parody of the annual military ball, put on by the campus Reserve Officers Training Corps, which is scheduled for Saturday night in the Memorial Union.

"We hope it will get people thinking about what's in back of the military philosophy," said Mike Papadopoulos, a math professor and a member of the student-faculty Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

Your Problems

Ann Advises Childless Woman Talk With Adoption Agency

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married for 10 years. We are both aching to have a family but unfortunately nothing happens. I am almost positive my husband is sterile but I have never suggested it to him or anyone else. He has a great deal of pride and this would destroy him. (I had a child by a former marriage.)

My husband's sister Louise is married to a man I will call Freddie. Freddie looks enough like my husband they could be twins. Freddie and Louise have a little boy who is a picture of my husband. In fact he resembles my husband more than he resembles his own father. We are both crazy about the child and take him for weekends whenever we can.

The thought occurred to me that the solution to our problem is simple. Why don't I ask Freddie to father my child, strictly for the sake of our marriage? He might be shocked at first but he is a fine person and I'm sure when I explain the problem in detail he will agree. I'm also sure my husband would not object, but I would not tell him because it would be better for all concerned if he believed the child was his own.

Don't suggest artificial insemination. My love for the child would not be complete if the conception was purely scientific. And please leave the moral aspects out of it. I don't need a sermon. — Gisella

Dear Gisella: Asking me to advise you on this matter and suggesting that I leave the moral aspects out of it is like going to a banker for a loan and suggesting he not mention money.

To borrow your sister-in-law's husband for stud purposes is no way to solve a family problem. It may be a peachy way to create a whole host of new family problems, however, so my advice is forget it, and start talking to the adoption agencies.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wonder how many people recognize themselves in your column. I think I saw myself yesterday. A girl whote that she works in an office with a nice-looking middle-aged woman who is attractive and well-dressed. But one thing spoils the woman's appearance. She has a moustache.

I am not blind. I know I have a moustache and it bothers me a lot. But I am afraid to use a hair-removing cream because I've heard that once you remove hair it grows back thicker and darker than ever. Is this true? — Concerned

Dear Concerned: No, it is not true. This is an oft-repeated myth which has no basis in fact. Some women have abandoned creams in favor of electrolysis because it is permanent. Electrolysis is time-consuming and not inexpensive but it works well and many women swear by it. One word of caution, please: I strongly recommend that this procedure be done by a physician and not by a beauty operator.

Family Day, Italian Style Funds to Support Scholarship

The Appleton Junior Woman's Club will play hostess to Fox Cities spaghetti "addicts" at their Italian Style Family Day Feb. 18 at St. Mary School. Club members have engaged William Otto as head chef for the occasion, and food preparation will be done by husbands of members under the direction of Mr. Otto.

On the menu from noon to 7 p.m. will be spaghetti, tossed salad, French bread, ice cream and beverage. Music will be provided in the dining room which will be decorated in Italian sidewalk cafe fashion. Tickets may be purchased from club members or at the door the day of the dinner.

For Scholarship

Mrs. Leonard Schimke is serving as chairman of the project, with proceeds earmarked for the spring scholarship fund. Working with the chairman are Mrs. Roland Westgate, tickets; Mrs. Keith Kohlman, posters; Mrs. John Lundberg, food; Mrs. Michael Lukashewich, cleanup; Mrs. Sidney Kielkow, decorations; Mrs. John McInnes, take-out orders; Mrs. Robert Swan, dining room, and Mrs. Erwin Seybold, publicity.

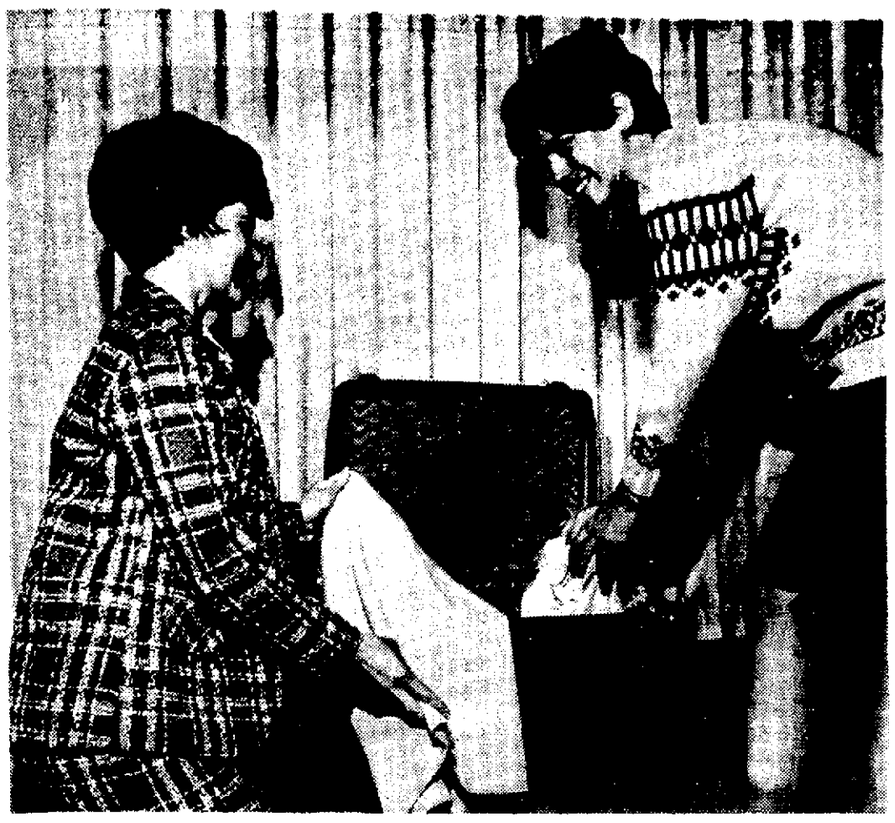
In 1966 the Junior Woman's Club instituted a special four-year college scholarship to be given to a deserving girl in the Fox Cities area.

On Dean's List

First girl to receive this award was Linda Marie Mitchell, route 1, Kaukauna. Linda, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Mitchell, has six brothers. A graduate of St. John's, Little Chute, she was the class valedictorian and maintained a straight A average during her four years in high school.

In November, 1966, the Junior Woman's Club held its first Spaghetti Day to finance Linda's first two years of college at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center. During this time Linda has been on the Dean's List with a 4.0 average. She has worked summers and part-time during the school year at Zwicker Knitting Mills.

This semester, and for the next two years, it is necessary that Linda attend the University of Wisconsin in Madison. Her goal is to become a registered nurse with a bachelor of science degree. She has chosen to live in one of the special scholarship houses in Madison, where 30 girls keep expenses down by sharing the cleaning and cooking.



Funds From the Junior Woman's Club Italian Style Family Day Feb. 18 will be earmarked for the club's spring scholarship fund. Spaghetti "addicts" may purchase tickets from club members or at the door at St. Mary School. Above, Linda Marie Mitchell, route 1, Kaukauna, recipient of the club's first scholarship award was packing to go to Madison. At left is Mrs. Wayne Steinberg, education chairman of the Junior Woman's Club.

Miss Spanagel nominated by her senior class and selected by a final vote of the faculty, is now eligible to compete in the state and national contests, which can result in a $1,000 scholarship. She is a member of the varsity cheerleaders, French Club, Pep Club, Orchesis, Ushers Club, Student Council and on the library staff at the school. She also was on the homecoming court.

Miss Spanagel was a delegate to Badger Girls State last year, was on the Appleton Youth Council, is a member of Kings' Daughters, and on the Den governing board.

Lecturer Relates Values to Plays of Modern Dramatists

BY ALICE HUCK
Post-Crescent Women's Editor

Man is the only animal that refuses to be himself, J. Wilbur (Bill) Vickery told the February meeting of the American Association of University Women, Appleton Branch, Wednesday evening at Edison School.

Mr. Vickery, assistant to the dean, University of Wisconsin-Green Bay Center, talked to the group of AAUW and Lawrence student guests about "Contemporary Dramatist and Changing Values."

The speaker referred many times to his own groping for the "meaning of life", and said he thought modern authors were attempting to help human beings in their "lonely search to determine what we are at any given time."

Some of the authors specifically mentioned were Victor Frankl, Edward Albee, Arthur Miller and Albert Camus. Mr. Vickery felt these men were leaving behind the "a la Freud" philosophy and coming closer to a "definitive statement of contemporary man." He said he agreed with these authors that the most important element in our lives is not the search for pleasure as "indicated by the Freudian theory, but our basic drive is our personal search for meaning."

Mr. Vickery urged the women to attend any performance of the movie, "The Stranger," that might be shown in the Valley, and predicted it would be part of the Lawrence University film series. Camus is the original author.

Another reason given for the influence of modern dramatists, Mr. Vickery said, is broader media of communication. At one point he felt this served to distort a good work by "Life magazine — the great manipulator of public taste." Referring to Life, however, he said he felt the trend of the new editor toward more words and fewer pictures was a good one.

Specifically, he regretted that Arthur Miller's "The Fall," was related unfortunately to the death of Marilyn Monroe, and he predicted that this work in year's to come would be recognized as one which explains that man is able to stand on the edge of an abyss, find himself, and be able to go on living.

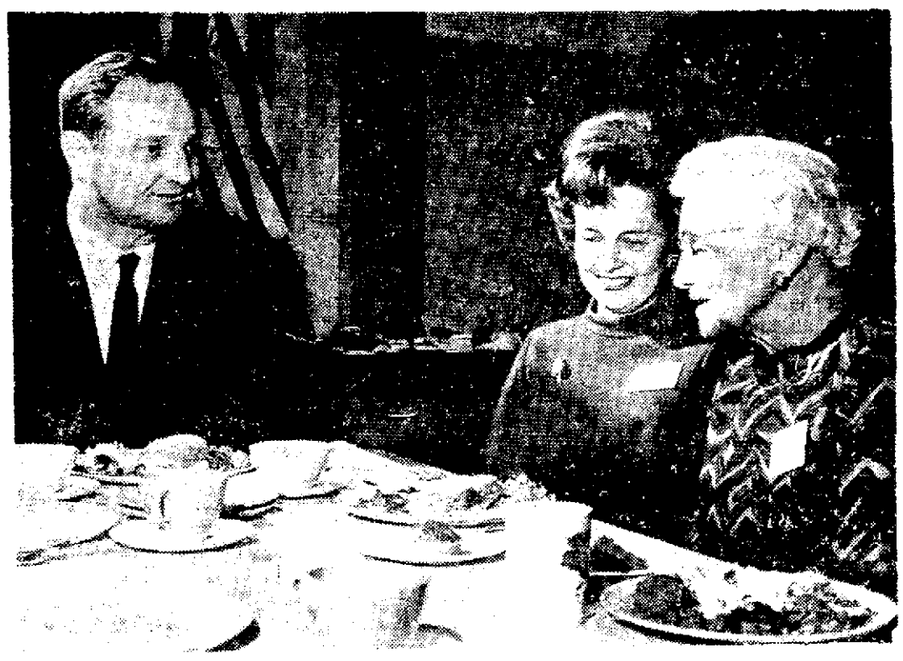
Mr. Vickery recommended 60 to 90 minutes of good music to bring anyone to terms with himself. Add to this the reading of the works of some good philosophers, and "you have a good recipe for finding out what we are."

The speaker regretted people felt that God should "show them the way. We should think about ourselves and find our own way," he said.

Referring to the revolt of religion, Mr. Vickery said "No man can tell us to our satisfaction anything about ourselves and our God. It remains within ourselves." He emphasized that many persons are afraid to dig into themselves because they are afraid of what they may find, and added that personally, his desire and his attempts to go deep into his own mind are the greatest experiences man can find.

In conclusion, Mr. Vickery said he had told a student who questioned him, he would not care to go back to the age of 20 and "face again the absurdities of this world. I will continue to live from right now, and find my meaning at each moment of existence," he said.

Mrs. E. O. Dillingham, president, presided over the meeting, and Mrs. Clifford Boettcher, membership chairman, explained AAUW to the Lawrence students. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Harrison Robinson, program chairman.



J. Wilbur (Bill) Vickery, left, assistant to the dean, University of Wisconsin Green Bay Center, was guest speaker at the February meeting of the American Association of University Women at Edison School Wednesday evening. Enjoying a potluck dinner with Mr. Vickery are Mrs. Robert Verdoorn, first vice president and Miss Ferna Taylor, a retired teacher.

Junior Legion Unit To Meet Saturday

LITTLE CHUTE — Members of the Junior Auxiliary of the American Legion will decide at a 2 p.m. Saturday meeting on the type of baby package to be sent to a hospital in Malaysia as part of the foreign relations project.

The group conducted a candy sale to raise funds with which to purchase a useful kit for a hospital in a foreign country.

Delegates to the spring conference scheduled in Black Creek in April will be selected. Members will be required to report on an educational TV program in keeping with Educational TV month.

Mothers having charge of the lunch will be Mrs. Joseph Vandenberg and Mrs. Ray Bongers.

Aide Training To be Offered By Hospital

The first of four 1968 nurse's aide training courses will begin Feb. 19 at St. Elizabeth Hospital. The four-week course will be conducted by the Appleton Vocational, Technical and Adult School.

The purpose and objective of the program is to provide an educationally sound course of study to prepare students to perform tasks supportive to nursing practices which are safe for the patient and practical for nursing service. Trained nursing assistants will work under direct supervision of registered professional nurses.

Interested persons should contact the personnel department at St. Elizabeth Hospital.
